The Virgin Islands Remember Alaska When Soldiers Rise Heavenly Public Property

By Arthur Brisbane

PRESIDENT HOOVER returned from the Virgin Islands depressed about that territory, purchased from Denmark. He said the islands looked like "a poorhouse," and could have no value except a possible usefulness in protecting the Panama Canal. Such usefulness in itself might justify buying the islands.

Their "poor house" condition is not their fault, but ours. The islands were prosperous, manufacturing rum from their sugar cane. Our virtuous prohibition killed their only industry, and impoverished them. It is as though Denmark had bought the Southern States from us, and forbidden them to raise cotton, or had bought Detroit, and forbidden manufacture of automobiles.

However, nobody knows better than Mr. Hoover, who developed wealth from the ground, all over the world, that you can't condemn any piece of land from surface indications. When Seward bought Alaska from Russia for eight million dollars, that transaction was called "Seward's folly."

We bought Alaska, really, to have an excuse for handing some money to corrupt Russian officials, disguising the transaction as a business affair. The Russians had valued Alaska for its catch of sea otters, prized by nobles as a lining for their coats. When the otter catch fell off, they were willing to sell and Seward was laughed at for buying.

Read these figures, provided by C. E. Garfield, of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, as to what the United States has got out of that Alaskan $8,000,000 purchase:

We have taken from Alaska, in gold, silver, copper, tin, lead and other metals, $636,385,859 since we bought the land in 1867. We have taken in fish products $861,603,333. We have taken in furs $124,884,772. Other millions in "miscellaneous." A grand total of ONE BILLION SIX HUNDRED AND THIRTY-TWO MILLION, SEVENTY-NINE THOUSAND, TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY-THREE DOLLARS for an investment of $8,000,000. And the wealth of that great territory has hardly been scratched.

Get real estate, a corner lot, well located, or a great country like Alaska, and take care of it, you won't regret it.

There is no knowing what we will find in those Virgin Islands when the well diggers, and others, attack them.

At Easter dawn, President Hoover, up before the sun, attended services at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. The world will never identify any of those unknown soldiers. Ours may have been born in Italy, Scandinavia, Germany, Ireland, anywhere. And, whoever he is, he might be surprised should he arise at midnight and see all the wreaths on his tomb.

Perhaps at the last day all the Unknown Soldiers, resplendent in the glory of heroism, will stand side by side, before their Judge, their names, origins and deeds related as they receive the homage of all that have died since the beginning of the earth.

It would be a strange gathering, assuming that our pugnacious ancestors of the earlier periods be among those present.

The Rev. Dr. Reisner objects to Sunday loudspeaker advertising from the sky by airplane and his objection is sound.

The sky belongs to everybody, no one should be permitted to write advertising on the clouds, or bellow advertising copy into unwilling ears, on Sunday especially.

"The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth his handiwork." It shouldn't be made, by loudspeaker, to declare the glory of a dress goods concern, or anything else.

What should be the first and last loudspeaker announcement from the heavens will come in due time, when Gabriel summons us to rise and explain ourselves.

Germany and Austria continue negotiations for a "customs pact" to help each other in business.

England dislikes the idea, although theoretically in favor of free trade.

France frankly hates it, for today's "customs pact" may become tomorrow's "war pact." And the pact might spread to the Balkan countries, even to Russia, creating a mid-European "bloc" for the under-dog.

America entered the war 14 years ago. Let's hope it will be at least 140 years before we go into another, especially into one that we didn't start.

The way to keep out of war is

GALVIN'S HOME RANSACKED

SEARCH FOR FUR COAT IS FRUITLESS

By JAMES J. SMITH

Fall River, April 7—The home of Vernon V. Galvin, material witness in the Verna Russell murder, was ransacked by state detectives in a search for evidence last night, the Boston Evening American learned today.

The missing raccoon coat of Galvin's chum, Elliott R. Haig, away, the alleged slayer, was the principal object of search. It was not found.

During the hunt holes were dug in the cellar of the house, at 272 Belmont st., and partitions were opened up. Whether anything considered of value to the case was found, the detectives would not say.

GALVIN NOT AT HOME

The abrupt and startling move threw a new element of doubt and mystery in the case and once again focused attention on Galvin who has been grilled many hours by Massachusetts authorities in their effort to wrest jurisdiction of the crime from Rhode Island.

Participating in the search were State Detectives John Stokes, Joseph Ferrari and Francis Mooney. They indicated Hathaway's missing fur coat, which Galvin has admitted he wore over pajamas while he accompanied Hathaway to view the body, will be key evidence in the case if found.

Galvin and his wife were visiting friends in Providence and only his mother, Mrs. Julia Galvin, was at home when the detectives arrived and made their search, which lasted several hours. Mrs. Galvin was greatly upset.

POLITICS BLAMED

The search was disclosed shortly after announcement had been made that Galvin would be grilled again and that during his first

FIVE HURT AS TROLLEY AND AUTO CRASH

Victims in Head-on South Boston Collision Taken to Hospital

Five passengers were injured today when a trolley car and truck collided head-on on Boston st., at Dorset st., South Boston.

The injured were taken to the City hospital, by ambulances summoned from the City Point and Dudley st. police stations.

WOMEN ARE VICTIMS

The injured were:

LYDON, Mrs. Loretta, 40, 1 Gates st., South Boston, wife of Capt. John S. Lydon, soldiers' relief commissioner. Bruises and hysteria.

LYDON, Walter, 14, her son. Concussion of the brain.

GODFT, Mrs. Mary, 39, of 4 Mt. Vernon st., South Boston. Contusions and abrasions of the neck and possible concussion of the brain.

The impact shattered the windows in the street car and the glass showered over the passengers, a majority of whom were women. Nearly all of whom were also jolted from their seats.

DRIVER ESCAPES INJURY.

The car was bound from the Andrew sq. transfer station to Franklin Park. The front end of the car and the truck were smashed in, but Wagnett escaped injury.

Wagnett told police he was at the end of a line of traffic. The cars in front of him stopped so suddenly that he had to swing out of line to avoid crashing into the rear end of the car in front of him.

It was too late to change his direction when he saw the trolley car, but he said he brought his truck to a stop before the crash.

FIVE PEABODY CHILDREN 'DRUNK' IN SCHOOL

Police Arrest Man After Grammar Grade Scholars Are Served With Wine

Five eighth grade pupils at the Welby grammar school, Peabody, were found to be under the influence of wine in the classroom today.

As a result of an investigation by police and school authorities, the home of Peter Ejarmes in Shillaber st., Peabody, was raided and 50 gallons of wine were seized. Ejarmes was arrested.

One of the pupils was a girl. All were 12 and 13 years old.

They told Joseph Gilmore, school principal, that Ejarmes invited them into his home to have some wine. Whether it was sold or given to them was not determined. Ejarmes was charged with keeping and exposing and will be arraigned in court Friday.

ONE DRINKING A WEEK

One or two of the pupils had been drinking wine for a week, it was learned.

In class yesterday and again today the teacher noticed that they appeared dopey and silly.

"I feel that they started drinking small quantities which they increased until they became nearly drunk," said Gilmore.

CHILDREN SENT HOME

The pupils were taken home and their parents told of the condition. While school officials conferred with Mayor J. Leo Sullivan, School Supt. Thomas Sheehan and Police Chief Edward F. Pierce.

Parents of the girl said she had been acting strangely at home.

4 POLICE TRIED IN 'NOSE BITE'

The alleged nose biting incident involving a policeman and civilian in a Tremont st. lunchroom last fall had a different ending today when a sergeant and four patrolmen went on trial at headquarters before a board of three captains.

Sergt. William McDonnell and Patrolmen Thomas F. Hickey, Merle D. Rider and John Laidlaw, Jr., all of East Dedham st. station, are charged with failing to report the row and Patrolman Leo G. Herne of Station 11, Dorchester, is charged with assault on Sullivan.

Herne was found not guilty on this charge in Superior Court. The police trial resulted because Sullivan originally made a report to Deputy Supt. McDevitt. It was a closed hearing.

New Record Is Set by Transport Plane

Newark, N. J., April 7 (AP)—A new speed record for transport planes from Washington to Newark was claimed today by the Ludington lines. Pilot Floyd Fox, flying a plane which carried 10 passengers and baggage, said he made the 210-mile flight in 70 minutes.

CHICAGO VOTE NEARS RECORD

Chicago, April 7—An unprecedented number of early voters, quietly registering their choice between William Hale Thompson, Republican, and Anton J. Cermark, Democrat, for world's fair mayor, presaged the largest mayoral vote in Chicago's history today.

The betting odds were 4 to 1 against Thompson. "Big Bill" was reported to have wagered $65,000 early in the contest the odds were 2 to 1 in favor of Cermak.

WEATHER WARM

It was an ideal day, warm and sunny, and the thousands who filed through the booths in the first few hours caused election officials to revise their estimate and predict a total of 1,250,000, a quarter of a million more than in the last election.

For the most part, the balloting was as quiet as it was heavy. There were some disorders, mostly personal fights between election

KING GEORGE HAS BRONCHITIS

Windsor, Eng., April 7 (AP)—England got something of a shock today when an official statement was issued that King George who, the country believed, had only a slight cold, is a victim of bronchitis.

The attack is of a "sub-acute" nature, and the patient is progressing satisfactorily though slowly, it was stated.

The statement brought sharply home to the nation that it is barely two years ago since the monarch was hovering between life and death from a chest disorder that originated in a cold caught on Armistice Day, 1928.

Lord Dawson of Penn, the King's physician, visited him during the week-end and again today. Sir Milsom Rees, laryngologist to the royal household, has also seen the King, in addition to Henry Martin, who is in residence at Windsor Castle.

Ships Ready to Rush Princes to England

Rio de Janerio, April 7 (INS)—Unless King George's illness assumes serious proportions, the Prince of Wales and his brother will sail for England Sunday.

Two British warships are ready to take the princes to England should a quick trip be necessary.

Galsworthy Names 4 Greatest Novels

New York, April 7 (AP)—The greatest American novels, John Galsworthy, English novelist, said last night, are:

100 IN PERIL ON WILD TROLLEY

More than 100 boys and girls, passengers on a special trolley car bound for Woburn high school, narrowly missed injury and possible death today through the prank of a 14-year-old boy, one of the passengers.

Only the strength and skill of the motorman, Martin C. Doherty, prevented the heavy car from racing down hill in front of a Boston-bound train which rumbled over the street crossing as Doherty brought the car to a stop a few feet from the gates.

The boy, whose name was given to police and high school officials, released the air brakes of the car and threw off the trolley guide, putting the heavy car out of con-

8 IN FAMILY DIE IN FLAMES

Gallipolis, O., April 7 (AP)—A father and seven of his children were burned to death today when fire destroyed the log cabin home on Swan Creek, ten miles from here. The father was James White, 39.

The cabin, on the banks of the Ohio river, quickly burned and the victims had no opportunity to escape.

In addition to White, the dead are: Mary, 20; James, 18; John, 16; Ira, nine; Mae, five; twin daughters, Nora and Dora, three

Boston Shoe Firm Sued for $1,500,000

Salem, April 7 (AP)—A suit for $1,500,000 against the Brown Shoe Co. of Boston was filed in superior court today by John Buckley of Lynn, a salesman. He charges the Boston concern made false and fraudulent representations to him for the purpose of gaining access to patent rights he owned. The suit is the largest recorded here in the memory of court officials.

Kid McCoy Wants to Get Out of Prison

San Quentin Prison, Cal., April 7 (INS)—Norman Selby, known to fight fans as "Kid McCoy," has applied to Governor Rolph for a pardon. He is serving a term of 22 years on a charge of slaying Mrs. Teresa Moers at Los Angeles. He has been in prison since June, 1925.

BIGGEST BANK IN WORLD ACCUSED IN SOVIET PLOT ON U. S.

CHASE NATIONAL IS SAID TO HAVE OFFERED GOLD

5 Million Seized From French Institution Was Tendered to Washington, Miller Charges

New York, April 7—Ex-Governor Nathan L. Miller, attorney for the Bank of France in its $5,000,000 damage suit against the Chase National Bank and Equitable Trust Co., told a jury today the defendants tried to force the United States Government into trade relations with Soviet Russia.

The Bank of France declares the two American banks, now merged into the biggest bank in the world, offered for sale to the United States Government gold bars worth $5,000,000.

The plaintiff contends it owns the gold, but it was seized by the Soviet Government and sent here for sale.

Miller asserted "the evidence will establish that these defendants took this gold from a party whom they knew stole it.

"The defendant took the gold to the Treasury Department, either to persuade this government to change its ruling, or persuade it to disregard its ruling, that it would not recognize the Soviet Russian Government," he continued.

10 Million More for Jobless in N. Y. City

Albany, N. Y., April 7 (AP)—New York city will have additional $10,000,000 available for emergency work to relieve unemployment.

Governor Roosevelt today signed a bill amending the city charter in such a way as to extend the limit on certificates of indebtedness for this year from $2,000,000 to $12,000,000.

BACHELORS OF LYNN WAVER

The ranks of the bachelors wavered a bit today in Lynn when Mayor J. Fred Manning failed to repulse an attack on single-hoodedness.

Last night at a bachelor dinner to President Timothy A. Curtin of the Lynn City Council—who soon won't be one—a remark by ex-Mayor Ralph S. Bauer started the rumpus.

Curtin, one of the eight bachelors in Lynn's City Council of 11 members, complimented the Council president and said:

"The unemployment question would be settled if the eligible bachelors married the good girls (he said "good"); the girls who would make homes for them.

Today Mayor Manning said merely:

"That may or may not be good advice. I'll think it over."

Anyway, Curtin is lost to bachelordom, for tomorrow he marries Miss Elizabeth Ahearn, who, being a Lynn stenographer, will make him mind his P's and Q's.

9 KILLED HELD IN AUTO DEATH

Lawrence, April 7—Edmund C. S. Bigelow, 33, an advertising salesman for a Pawtucket, R. I., radio station, was arraigned today in district court as the alleged hit-and-run driver who fatally injured Francis Hamel, 52, a widower and father of four daughters, by the use of Miss Ellinor Doherty, 25-year-old attorney of Prescott st., Cambridge.

A court yesterday, Miss Doherty pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness, and allowing an unfit person to operate her car, while under the influence of liquor, leaving the scene of an accident without making his identity known.

He pleaded not guilty and was held in $1,500 bail for hearing April 16, when Miss Doherty also will be given a hearing.

The woman who was in the car has not yet been found, police say.

Missing Boy Merely Visiting Grandma

While police, firemen and others searched the northern part of Malden last night for Edward Cole 7th, of Horace st., the child was sleeping safely at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Barry, Riverside ave., Medford.

Edward went there in a bus yesterday and said his mother had given him permission to stay all night.

ONLY 62, BUT HE PREFERS DEATH

The body of John Nelson, 62, a widower, of 377 Savin Hill ave., Dorchester, was found floating today a few feet from shore at Savin Hill Beach.

Nelson, according to his brother-in-law, Thomas F. Barrett, who identified the body, lived with a daughter.

Miss Irene O'Donnell sighted the body from her bedroom window at 18 Bayside st., Dorchester, when it came in sight. She notified police and the body was taken to the southern mortuary, City Hospital.

An unsigned note, scribbled in pencil, was found in the clothing. It read:

Man Killed Under Train in Brighton

An unidentified man was ground to death today beneath a Boston & Albany train a quarter of a mile west of the Faneuil station in Brighton. C. Conope was engineer and J. M. Winchenbach conductor of the train, which left Newtonville for Boston at 12:23 p. m.

The body was removed to North Grove st. mortuary by police of Brighton division.

Maine Man a Suicide

Augusta, Me., April 7 (AP)—Perley Soule, 46, an employe of the City Farm, took his own life today by shooting himself with a rifle. A medical examiner pronounced a suicide verdict.

Election officials removed the entire staff of judges and clerks at the 36th precinct in the 27th ward and replaced them because of charges of fraud. In this district, which has a large "floating" population, no suspect notices had been filed by the judges.

DEAD MEN "VOTED."

Attorneys for the election commission said the books in this precinct revealed that many persons had voted twice, that many who had voted in the primary had never registered and that many dead persons were listed as having voted. The precinct officials were dismissed after it was found they were guilty of negligence but not of criminal intent.

In the Presidential election of 1928 the total Chicago vote was 1,313,680, but the highest ever cast in a mayoralty contest was 969,741 in 1927. The present registration is 1,412,135.

The extensive organization work that has been noticeable throughout the campaign continued up to the very end. Thompson's followers and the Democratic organization backing Cermak had watchers, workers and advertisers at every precinct.

The polls closed at 4 p. m., Central Standard Time.

FREE FROM DISORDER.

County Judge Edmund Jarecki, who was in charge of the election machinery, said at noon:

It was estimated that 810,000 persons had voted in the first four hours.

Notice was given at the City Hall that returns, gathered as usual by a policeman in each of the city's 2667 precincts, would be canvassed at the corporation counsel's office starting at the close of the polls. It has been the custom for these returns to be made available to the newspapers immediately without canvassing by the administration.

ARABS SEIZED FOR KILLING 3

Haifa, Palestine, April 7 (AP)—A number of Arabs in villages near Yaggour, not far from here, have been arrested by officers investigating the slaying of three Jews and wounding of four more Sunday night as they were returning to the town.

Police learned today of an alleged similar attack on seven Arab merchants traveling south from Hebron. The assailants, who may have been brigands, killed one merchant, wounded another and robbed all of them.

DR. BAER, NOTED SURGEON, DIES

Baltimore, April 7 (AP)—Dr. William S. Baer, 59, internationally known orthopedic surgeon, died today of the effects of a stroke of paralysis he suffered Sunday at Rehoboth Beach, Del.

Dr. Baer was a member of the faculty of Johns Hopkins Medical School for 32 years and his name was connected with a number of medical discoveries.

The most recent was the result of his service in France as chief orthopedic consultant of the American Expeditionary Force. He found that the grub of the blue bottle fly would clear up deep-seated infection of the bone that defied all other methods of treatment.

An operation he performed more than 15 years ago was regarded as among the most remarkable in surgery. He broke the jaw bones of a boy in his teens who had been born without joints, chiseled joints and made the child normal.

1 DEAD, 2 HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Haverhill, April 7—A man was killed and two women were injured in an automobile crash on the river road here last night.

Mrs. Mila Atwood of 33 Highland ave., this city, driver of the other car, was slightly hurt. Mrs. Harriett Prophet of 422 Arlington st., who was riding with her, suffered a broken left arm and lacerations.

Mrs. Prophet said the accident happened when a third car sideswiped her own.

Convent Milk Thief Is Given Jail Term

Judge Walcott in East Cambridge court today sentenced Thomas Flanagan, 50, to 30 days in the House of Correction for theft of 24 quarts of milk from St. Paul's Convent in Massachusetts ave. A police vigil at the convent resulted in the arrest of Flanagan, pointed out by the nuns as a man frequently seen loitering in the neighborhood.

HASTINGS LISTS SIX SWEEZEY CHARGES

Malden Police Commissioner's Counsel Says Complaint Is Too Vague to Answer

Mayor William A. Hastings today made public his list of charges against Police Commissioner Artemas B. Sweezey whom he seeks to oust on charges of negligence in office.

The charges will be reviewed tonight at a preliminary hearing before the board of aldermen.

After reading the list of charges, Maurice R. Flynn, attorney for Sweezey, said:

"The mayor's charges are not specific enough for us to answer at present. He is vague on dates and many other essential details. We will asked that he put his accusations in more particularized form."

8 CHARGES CITED.

1—Causing or permitting the absence from the city of almost the entire police force on August 20, 1930 (the day of the annual police outing).

4—Causing repairs and alterations to the police station contrary to the building ordinances.

UP TO ALDERMEN

6—Allowing to go unprosecuted defendants in a raid on or about January 4, 1931.

Mayor Hastings said today that he would consult City Solicitor Marton L. Brown regarding a more itemized bill of charges.

Should the aldermen find the mayor's charges serious enough to act upon a special meeting will be called for Friday or Saturday to try Sweezey.

to keep out of foreign entanglements. George Washington may be old-fashioned, and, possibly not as wise as Woodrow Wilson. But he knew that, if you keep away from a man, you are not apt to fight with him.

Mr. Raskob asks all members of the Democratic national committee to make recommendations for 1932, "particularly on prohibition."

Mr. Raskob, who knows that a house divided against itself is in a dangerous condition, believes that unless opposing dry and wet factions can be reconciled there will be two Democratic parties.

Today they vote in Chicago. Yesterday the "pay-wagons" went around with money to reward patriots for "manning the polls." Tony Cermak's representatives are alleged to have boasted that they had a dime for every nickel that Mayor Thompson could spend.

Each candidate accused the other of preparing to stuff ballot boxes and of planning to steal the election.

On Thursday morning Chicago will be going along as usual. And no matter who wins, Chicago will continue to improve parks, develop the lake front and build up the fine world's fair.

Bainbridge Colby tells the public via WJZ: "A civilization that will suffer crime to pass unpunished, and view without agitation the evidence of a working alliance between crime and the forces for crime repression, must alter its ways quickly if it is to be saved." True, but what can you do about it?

Bootleg profits run into billions a year. Racketeering is a branch of the crime wave also highly profitable.

The total annual income of organized crime is said to be close to twenty billion dollars, many times what it costs to run the United States government.

With such resources some "forces for crime repression" can be bought.

King George has a cold, but is getting better. Great Britain is delighted, because he intends to interest himself more extensively in racing this year than hitherto. His royal colors, "purple with gold braid and scarlet sleeves and black velvet cap with gold fringe," will be seen frequently.

His trainers recently have taken to using actinic rays, artificial sunshine, on the King's race horses during the winter, to offset fogs and darkness.

One horse so treated won the first big race that the King has won in several years.

Gradually, no doubt, the Labor or some other government will arrange to apply to children in the foggy London slums their share of the actinic rays.

RASKOB RAPPED FOR PUSHING DRY FIGHT

Party Leaders Believe Democratic Opportunity Lies in Economic Issues

Washington, April 7—Democrats in Congress from the North, South, East and West today condemned, publicly and privately, the continued agitation by Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee of prohibition as the paramount issue in 1932 and the submerging of economic issues.

Moreover, many Democrats contend that the economic depression which has thrown 6,000,000 persons out of work, presents a problem far more pressing than the liquor issue. This condition, they point out, has robbed the Republicans of the prosperity and tariff issue and gives the Democrats the most favorable opportunity in years.

COOLIDGE COMMENTS.

Senator Marcus A. Coolidge declared:

"Economic rehabilitation, the feeding and giving work to the people, is the paramount issue before the country, and the Democratic party should concentrate on that issue."

Robert Jackson, New Hampshire national committeeman, said:

"While I'm not prepared to say that Mr. Raskob's proposal is the best plan which can be designed for remedying the obvious evils of the present situation, he certainly earned the respect and gratitude of every American who admires courage and candor in public life. Prohibition is a great issue which cannot be evaded."

W. T. KEMPER, Missouri: "It is entirely too early for us to attempt to write a platform on prohibition or anything else."

MRS. BERNICE S. PYKE, Ohio: "It is not the business of the National Committee to frame platform or make recommendations."

ELIZABETH MARBURY, New York: "I feel that at this time silence is golden."

OFF THEIR GROUND

ARCHIBALD MacNEIL, Connecticut: "I do not consider it the province of the National committeeman to at this time interpret the wishes and views of the Democrats."

SEDGWICK KIESTLER, Pennsylvania: "As a result of the discussion now under way regarding prohibition, the great issue of the campaign of 1932 will revolve around economic conditions and problems."

JAMES M. TUNNELL, Delaware: "I will say that Raskob is, in my opinion, withing his rights in calling the membership of the Democrat national committee on matters that are, or are likely to become, issues."

AGREES WITH RASKOB.

MRS. ANA O'DEA MURPHY, Pennsylvania: "I am in accord with Raskob's proposal for solution of the prohibition problem. I believe regulation should be left to the states."

Mrs. James J. Billington, New Jersey: "I am in hearty cooperation with Raskob and approve of his methods."

Mrs. Elizabeth R. Metefee, Maryland: "I agree with Chairman Raskob's program."

W. A. Julian, Ohio: "After Wickersham and others failed it's a big job for Raskob to tackle."

BOYS LEAP OFF

As the car, with its terrified young passengers raced down the hill toward the railroad crossing, Motorman Doherty, frantically exerting all his strength, wound and wound the hand brake and then braced desperately.

He had digged given the car up for lost when it gradually slowed to a stop, with its front vestibule almost touching the gates as the rails from Woburn to Boston shot over the crossing.

On the race downhill a number of schoolboys leaped from the speeding trolley, but most of the original passengers were still aboard when it was hailed.

Patrolmen Edward Reil and Edward D. Walsh questioned the students aboard the car and obtained the name of the boy declared to have been responsible.

He is understood to be on probation already for minor offenses. When the pupils were gathered for questioning at the school the boy was missing.

Bucharest, April 7 (AP)—The boy who once was king of Rumania is learning to be a mechanic.

"Teach my youngest all you know of mechanics," was a relish expressed to Capt. Caton Georgescu, inspector of the Royal Automobile Park, by King Carol, who now Prince Michael has started on an engineering apprenticeship.

Prince Michael

"I beg of you to teach him everything from A to Z in the mechanical profession," said King Carol. With a smile, he added, "If the youngster should refuse to obey, please tell me."

Hollywood Party Leads to Luden Divorce Suit

"My wife told me I had to throw parties to get anywhere in Hollywood," Luden testified.

"I invited two persons and my wife asked 12 or 15. At least 75 came. The first to arrive ate up all the boiled ham and potato salad. It wound up with four drunken men in one room asleep. My wife was a drinking too."

THEY LIGHT UP, THEN SNUFF THE WEED

Notable Visitors From Many Lands Dine Without Any Soothing Puffs

Members of the International Federation of University Women inspected Radcliffe College today, but they failed to inspect the college "No Smoking" rule until some of them started to smoke.

Then they didn't smoke any more, because, be you student or distinguished visitor from some remote corner of the world, smoking is under ban on the campus or in buildings of the campus.

These women today were from all over the world, and, as they progressed through corridors, some of them innocently lighted cigarettes.

Somewhat flushed, but still firm, student-ushers courteously advised the visitors that smoking was not permitted, but that there was a smoking room in one of the dormitories off campus, "if you'd care to go."

But the visitors gave up smoking, ever, at luncheon, when they were guests of President Comstock and Dean Brown at Briggs Hall. There they were asked to refrain kindly from cigarettes, as it was against the customs of Radcliffe to smoke in any of the college halls.

The women, who yesterday as guests of the Women's City Club enjoyed a luncheon with smoking, had to be content with Radcliffe's coffee minus cigarettes.

LYNN FIREBUG PLOT FRUSTRATED BY GIRL, 14

HELEN DUNN

HERE'S WHERE MYSTERY FIRE STARTED

The coolness of Olive Reynolds, 14, of Franklin st., Lynn, was believed by Lynn police and fire officials to have averted a serious fire at 4 Brightwood ter., Lynn. Miss Reynolds discovered the fire, believed to have been set, in the hallway when she went to call on Miss Helen Dunn. Shouting fire, she roused 12 families in the house before an alarm was sounded. Miss Helen Dunn is shown at the left pointing to the spot in the hallway where the blazing pile of hay and straw was found.

All Lynn police and firemen were organized into a fire patrol today following two alleged incendiary fires adn possibly a third last night and early today.

Patrolmen were ordered to make frequent inspections of all hotels, lodging houses and apartment blocks for signs of fire, and firemen were organized in squads for inspections.

State investigation of the three fires was asked by Fire Chief Edward E. Chase and the city authorities are also investigating.

GIRL SHOUTS ALARM

Twelve families living in the three-story block at 4 Brightwood ter. were endangered by a fire which, according to fire department officials, started in a heap of hay and straw under the rear stairs.

Timely discovery of the fire by Olive Reynolds, 14, of Franklin st., who was calling on Helen Dunn, prevented the flames from spreading. Miss Reynolds roused the occupants by shouting fire. Three years ago a fire was started in a baby carriage under the same stairway and a woman was burned to death.

STORE ROBBED, SET AFIRE

The second fire branded as incendiary was discovered at 3:40 a. m. by Patrolman Horace Hill in a store operated by Walter Visco at 15 Breed st. Hill discovered the place had been entered, ransacked and robbed of cigars, cigarettes and candy, and a fire started against a partition. He put the flames out with bottles of "pop" and a blanket.

A fire of undetermined origin, which Chief Chase said may have been incendiary, occurred last night in the three-story building at 737 Washington st. occupied by the Tyler Roofing Co. and the Troy Shoe Co. Damage amounted to $2000.

U. S. GUNS USED IN MADEIRA WAR

Lisbon, April 7 (AP)—An expeditionary force headed today for Funchal, Madeira, where insurgents have usurped the Portuguese authority, may have to fight in order to land on the island.

Virtually every warship in the Portuguese navy is being rushed to the island, with infantry and a contingent of light artillery due there Wednesday. The coastal gunboat Zaira set out for Funchal last night and the Vasco Da Gama is leaving today. Naval airplanes are being taken along.

During embarkation of troops yesterday the Fifth Light Cavalry Regiment refused to leave for service in Madeira, saying they would not fight their countrymen. They were ordered to barracks and their places were taken by the Seventh Cavalry.

The gunboat Tamega, doing duty at Funchal, has gone over to the rebels.

CHURCHES BALK GOLF PERMIT

A Sunday license granted a month ago to Morey Pearl, Boston and North Weymouth dance hall proprietor, to operate a miniature golf course at Bridge and Neck sts., North Weymouth, was revoked today by the Weymouth selectmen.

Their revocation followed a public hearing yesterday, growing out of the complaint of Rev. Charles O'Brien, pastor of St. Jerome's Catholic Church.

The Rev. O'Brien protested that the golf course was within 1000 feet of his church and that church services would be disturbed.

At the public hearing he was supported by the Rev. William D. Sewall, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church, North Weymouth, and by other clergymen and citizens.

Pearl and his attorney, Samuel Jacobs of Boston, in their fight for the license, exhibited photographs of miniature golf courses in Greater Boston operating almost next door to churches.

'WOMAN HATER' MARRIED

In 1928 at Tufts College, Melvin R. Bowker was voted "Class woman hater." He hopped right out of that title role yesterday when he married Miss Gertrude Josephine Winter of Winthrop. He was captain of Tufts' undefeated football team of 1927. They will live in Cleveland.

WALKER GETS DOWN TO WORK

New York, April 7 (INS)—"Jimmy" Walker was a business-like mayor today. He brushed side his own personal troubles and "got down to business" for the people at City Hall.

Wearing horn-rimmed spectacles that made him look older, and maintaining a brisk, serious demeanor, Walker presided at a lengthy meeting of the committee of the whole of the board of estimate. He was quite business like, sitting at a big mahogany table, shuffling reports and discussing various phases of the city's affairs.

A large crowd of men and women were present. They listened carefully as the mayor went into the "East Sixteenth, Bay School, proposition" and other civic matters.

The mayor reported for work shortly after 10 o'clock. Yesterday he was at City Hall from 10:23 a. m. until 7 p. m. He had no time for the press and had nothing to add to his announcement that he is personally preparing his reply to the charges on which his removal from office is demanded.

GARRETT MUST STAY IN JAIL

Oliver B. Garrett remains at the Charles st. jail today, a motion to release him on bail before his forthcoming trial having been denied by Judge Harold P. Williams.

It was pointed out by Herbert F. Callahan, attorney for Garrett, that both the former police raider and his wife are in poor health and that Mrs. Garrett is in "straitened financial circumstances."

Judge Williams held that Garrett's flight while he was awaiting trial last summer had shown him to be an unfit person to be admitted to bail.

A letter to Governor Ely by City Councilor John F. Dowd of Roxbury, criticized the manner in which the case had been handled by the district-attorney's office and suggested that the attorney-general be ordered to take charge if necessary.

Dist.-Atty. Foley said last night he had no comment to make on Councilor Dowd's letter. He stated that the probe into the activities of the second Garrett jury would go on until all available information had been obtained.

Oliver Garrett's Auto Suit Is Settled

Oliver B. Garrett's $20,000 suit against William T. Snow for injuries suffered in the now famous police liquor squad auto accident of 1927, has been settled out of court, it was disclosed today.

So, too, have the suits brought by Lieut. Daniel J. Hines and Patrolmen Thomas Daly, Peter Fortin and Daniel Welby who brought action for $10,000 each against Snow, whose car struck and overturned a police auto in which the four were riding with Garrett.

The amount of settlement was not announced. The docket entry in Superior court shows judgment of $1 without cost for the plaintiffs.

The injuries, including a fractured skull, which Garrett claimed to have suffered in this accident led to his being pensioned from the department before the charges on which he now faces a third trial were brought.

Snow, who lives at 117 Bay State rd., Back Bay, was not driving his car when it collided with the police machine.

NOBLE EATING BIG MEALS

Lawrence, April 7—The increased appetite of Russell Noble, held in the hammer slaying of Mrs. Clara E. E. Ellis, wealthy Haverhill widow, coupled with lack of exercise, caused stomach trouble, it was learned today.

Noble, who has been demanding second portions at meals since last week, asked for an examination by Dr. Herbert W. Manahan, jail physician yesterday afternoon, and complained of stomachache.

After being given medicine, he said last night he felt better, and demanded more food.

Today he had returned to jail routine, reading, eating and smoking, and expressed hope he would have visitors.

His counsel, Attorney Richard J. McCormick, is busy with a court case, and his brothers have not been to see the youth since Sunday.

Keeper George Bunting said he had no definite information as to when the next examination will be made by the state alienists, Dr. L. Vernon Briggs of Boston and Dr. Clarence A. Bonner, head of the Danvers state hospital.

WOMEN GUILTY IN RUM SALE

Two women pleaded guilty to violating the national prohibition act, another pleaded not guilty, several men were fined sums totaling $500, and others were given prison sentences and placed on probation by Judge Lowell in Federal Court today.

The two women, mother and daughter, are Wadja and Katherine Kasowski of Mason rd., Dudley. Sentence will be imposed later. The other woman, Agnes E. Giffen of Boston, pleaded not guilty to selling liquor, while her husband, William J. Giffen, asked for trial on the same offense.

David Caplan, 35, of Homestead st., Roxbury, known as Joseph Davis, pleaded guilty to violating the liquor act and was fined $100 and given six months in the House of Correction. The sentence was suspended.

One American Held by Chinese Bandits

Peking, April 7 (INS)—Eight missionaries, one of them an American, are still being held by Chinese bandits, according to a survey completed by foreign legations here.

The Rev. Bert Nelson, the only American held, was captured at Kwangshan, Honan, October 5. During his captivity he has been able to communicate by letter with American authorities.

DIVA FLIES FOR GREEK THEORY

The Greeks had a word for it—also a theory—and Mme. Helene Alberti of Brookline is trying to work out the latter and imitate the birds in flight.

Out on the Larz Anderson estate in Brookline Mme. Alberti, former opera singer, in demonstrating her theory of "cosmic motion," said to be based upon a long-forgotten Greek law of motion, has made several brief "flights" with her wings.

They are attached to her shoulders by an arrangement of straps, are in appearance like bat wings and can be flexed in any direction.

The former opera singer bases her experiments in wing-flight on the Greek laws of cosmic motion, which were actual laws, she says, but which have been lost, forgotten Greek law of motion. She has made several brief swoops over the ground at the Anderson estate in Brookline. (I. N. photo.)

QUAKE VICTIMS FEAR CHOLERA EPIDEMIC

Universal Service Special Cable

Granada, Nicaragua, April 7—Cholera has broken out at Matagalpa, where 5000 survivors of the Managua earthquake are quartered and an epidemic is threatening, according to reports received here today by Dr. Luis Prieto, head of the Panama Red Cross.

United States Minister Matthew Hanna told Universal Service by telephone from Managua that no such report had been received there. Dr. Prieto is directing relief work among the 7000 refugees quartered in Granada.

He said that no cholera antitoxins are available in Nicaragua at the present time and that an outbreak of the deadly plague, as reported, would prove disastrous.

Governor Ely today issued a proclamation setting aside April 19 as "Humane Sunday" and April 20 to 25 as "Be Kind to Animals Week."

He urges school teachers to impress pupils with the necessity and worthiness of kind and humane treatment of dumb animals, and also suggests that in the churches and through the press the people be importuned to care "for our dumb friends with kindness and charity."

RAFTER SCORES FIRST ROUND FOR ELY BILL

Gov Ely today won the first skirmish in the House over the general appropriation bill in connection with which he is trying to finance $5,000,000 in building projects by a bond issue.

His spokesman, Rep. Francis E. Rafter of Salem, opened the fight by offering a motion to restore to the bill an item for $100,000 for completion of the Mt. Greylock war memorial, which the Ways and Means committee had eliminated.

On a rising vote, Rafter's motion was defeated, 86 to 72, but he persisted, demanded and obtained a roll call and saw his motion adopted 112 to 107.

Rafter then launched a spirited attack on the pay-as-you-go policy and hurled barbs at former Governor Alvan T. Fuller, who had been finding fault with Governor Ely's policies.

"There he sits, surrounded by his Rembrandts and his purchased culture," said Rafter of Fuller. "It was his failure to take care of the normal growth of our institutions that places the burden on the present Governor."

CITES CASE OF CHILD

Rafter said he knew of a case where a child had to be placed in a hospital for mental patients but application showed there was a waiting list of 4000.

"There is nothing sacrosanct about the pay-as-you-go policy," he said. "It's all right in normal times, but times are not normal.

"Governor Ely has recognized the fact that there is human suffering throughout the state, and he is being commended by people regardless of party ties, for doing so."

Rafter accused the committee of "Indian giving" in trying to finance projects out of current revenue, thereby raising the state tax $1,000,000, after giving the cities and towns aid out of the increased gasoline tax.

EX-GUARD BARES PRISON 'LAXITY'

Testimony that the superintendent of Norfolk prison camp expressed no curiosity regarding the identity of an escaped prisoner, and suggested he be "persuaded" to return, was given in Middlesex Superior Criminal Court today.

The testimony was given by Harold Etheridge, former guard at the camp, who admitted he had talked with the escaped prisoner in Boston but made no effort to arrest him.

Etheridge was a witness in the trial of the escaped prisoner, John Neville, 26, of Rutland st., Boston, charged with complicity in a Waltham holdup in which a man was shot.

The government contends that on December 22 last the defendant and two other men tried to hold up the office of the Waltham Bleachery Fuel Co., at gunpoint, at which time Louis Bergeson was shot in one arm.

Three employes identified Neville as one of the bandits, and Capt. Charles Van Amburgh, State firearms expert, testified the gun found in the defendant's possession fired the shot lodged in Bergeson's arm.

Neville, in his own defense, denied participation in the shooting, declaring that at 4:10, five minutes before the alleged holdup occurred he was in Boston with Etheridge.

Etheridge admitted having talked with Neville on the afternoon in question, but placed the time at between 2:30 and 3 o'clock.

Washington, April 7—Results of the studies of Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, of Smithsonian, of ancient and modern Eskimo population in Alaska, indicated much as to the future of the Eskimo. Hrdlicka found that the Eskimo is not dying out but is becoming rapidly mixed with white blood.

"Part of this came from the Russians, part from marriages or unions of later whites," Hrdlicka said. "The mixed bloods are diffusing the blood among the rest of the people.

THUGS TEAR OFF VICTIM'S EARS

St. Clairsville, O., April 7 (AP)—His ears and fingertips partly torn off by robbers who tortured him in an effort to find his money, Andy Yelan, 55, was found unconscious today in his home at Barton. His condition is critical.

Yelan said three robbers invaded his home last night and demanded to know the hiding place of $2000 he received recently from the sale of real estate.

He refused and the robbers used a pair of pliers to pinch his ears and fingers until he lost consciousness.

CIRCUS WOMAN FALLS; DYING

Los Angeles, April 7 (AP)—True to circus tradition, Alex Acesvo carried on with his aerial acrobatic act last night while his wife, Aurora, 30, lay near death from a plunge to earth a few hours before.

Aceszo, aided by others, pulled his wife to the top of the Al G. Barnes tent yesterday. She and three others, suspended only by rubber mouthpieces clamped between their teeth, began to spin rapidly in a "butterfly" act. Suddenly, as hundreds gasped in horror, Mrs. Acesvo dropped. Her husband ran forward to break her fall with his body, but she crashed limply at his feet.

HEARST LIQUOR PLAN IS BEST, SAYS SCHAFER

Universal Service

Washington, April 6—Out of all the suggestions for remedying the prohibition situation the proposal of William Randolph Hearst stands as the most feasible and likely to solve the problem, Representative John C. Schafer (R.), of Wisconsin, declared today.

As leader in the anti-prohibition forces in Congress, Schafer predicted that at the next session the "antis" will have enough votes in the House to force votes on prohibition reform bills.

AID TO PROSPERITY.

The plan suggested by Mr. Hearst is to retain control of liquor legislation in the federal government and to allow restricted manufacture of alcoholic beverages under federal license for sale in states legalizing their consumption.

The government would set up a monopoly for the distribution of such beverages, selling in limited quantity to licensed resaturants, hotels and homes. Schafer said:

"Adoption of the plan proposed by Mr. Hearst, I believe, will solve the prohibition issue, go a long way toward restoring prosperity and cut down the crime wave which is due largely to criminals who have gotten rich in bootlegging liquor.

WILL SUPPORT PLAN

"I shall do all in my power as a member of Congress to see it adopted.

"Under the plan proposed by Mr. Hearst many men would be given legitimate employment, the government would obtain revenue. The farmers would be benefited, for the Hearst plan would provide a market for crops."

WAVES GOOD-BY; LEAPS TO DEATH

New York, April 7 (AP)—Balancing on the window ledge of an eighth-floor room of a midtown hotel long enough to wave farewell to a passerby, a man dressed in dinner clothes jumped to his death in 34th st. early today.

Although he had registered a short time before as Leo A. Marot, papers found in his bag indicated that he was Alfred Dressler of Yonkers.

His bags also contained several letters from women college students quoting verse and biblical passages which he, apparently, had read in letters to them.

Washington Canvas Brings Europe Trip

Racine, Wis., April 7 (AP)—Sale of a portrait of George and Martha Washington hidden for years in the garret of an old home in Springfield, Ill., has made possible a trip to Europe for Frank Caldwell, his friends revealed today.

The canvas, discovered by Caldwell three years ago, while he traveled in Southern Illinois in search of antiques, was reputedly the work of Gilbert Stuart. Caldwell sold it for between $30,000 and $40,000.

STOPS BABY ADELE'S COUGH TASTES GOOD, TOO

BABY ADELE, 7-YEAR OLD
Radio Entertainer

BABY Adele has already learned to rely on Pertussin. "I like Pertussin," she says, "because it stops my cough, so quick. It tastes good, too." Pertussin is used in broadcasting studios to clear up voices and relieve coughs quickly. It's absolutely harmless, because it is entirely free from narcotics and injurious, habit-forming drugs. It is pleasant to take, does not disturb digestion and even children like its taste.

This is coughing weather. Be careful! Pertussin will relieve your cough quickly and safely. Get a bottle today from your druggist.

BALANCE SHEET OF PROHIBITION ISSUED BY DRYS

Baltimore, April 7 (AP)—Ten years of prohibition were audited today by the Woman's national committee for law enforcement and profits found greater than losses.

A balance sheet covering 1920 to 1930 was submitted by the organization to answer dry law foes, who have based their attack on what they saw as decreased income to the government and similar economic declines.

LOSSES LISTED

The study quoted the Wickersham commission report to show a total gain of "increased production, increased efficiency of labor, the elimination of blue Mondays, decrease in industrial accidents, increase in savings, and decrease in demands on charities and social agencies."

The accounting, which was headed "people of the United States in account with Prohibition, Inc.," showed losses as: One hundred and seventy thousand saloons; $365,000,000 in federal income taxes on $1,817,000,000 worth of liquor; 64 per cent decrease of liquor formerly drunk; 38 out of 50 "Keeley" cures and 60 out of 90 "Neal" cures closed; 10 to 60 per cent reduction in juvenile court cases; 54 per cent drop in number of children cared for by welfare associations; 90 per cent decrease in arrests for prostitution and 11 per cent drop in number of 18 to 20-year-old boys sent to penal institutions.

GAINS ARE CITED

Listed as gains were:

Two billion dollars in Federal income taxes; $779,000,000 in automobile and gasoline taxes; $50,000 gasoline stations and 3615 branch banks; 28 per cent increase in milk consumption; 30,000,000 new savings bank depositors; $68,000,000,000 more life insurance holdings; 400,000 new homes a year since 1921; 47 per cent more hotels; average wage increase of 25 per cent; 150 per cent rise in high school students; 30 per cent reduction in infant mortality; 300 per cent increase in college students.

The statement said:

RAIDERS ACCUSE LAW STUDENT

As a result of taking the law into his own hands, according to police, Rocco Marabile, 26, a law student of Cottage st., East Boston, learned about law at first hand in East Boston court today.

Marabile burned a liquor search warrant, police complained, and was charged with the larceny of a piece of paper valued at $1, the property of the East Boston court.

He also was charged with keeping and exposing liquor for sale. He pleaded not guilty to both charges and the case was continued one week.

Police said Sergt. Frank Gilman and Officer Walter Russell went to Marabile's house on the afternoon of March 25 to search for liquor. Marabile asked to see the warrant, and while he was reading it the police searched the house, claiming to have found liquor.

Sergt. Gilman then discovered the warrant had been burned in the kitchen range, according to the police.

COAL RACKET CHARGE PROBED

Investigation was begun today of a charge of "racketeering" in the city's free coal to the poor, made by Councillor John F. Dowd of Roxbury at a city council meeting yesterday.

The probe was begun by Secretary Walter V. McCarthy of the Overseers of the Public Welfare. McCarthy said:

"I am investigating the charge. Certainly the overseers had no knowledge of any such situation. Possibly the coal in question came from some charity organization, several of which in Boston have been providing coal for poor families."

Dowd charged that coal instead of cash aid was sent to lodgers in centrally-heated rooming houses, and he placed the blame "not on the poor but on the executives at the public welfare department."

Girl Seizes Thief; He Gets Probation

John J. McCarthy, 40, of the South End, was placed on probation in Suffolk Superior Court today, after he had been found guilty of larceny of $240 from Miss Margaret McDougall of the Morgan Memorial, during services at the memorial. It was testified that McCarthy paid back the money to Miss McDougall before being arrested. She had followed him to the street.

Bishop Anderson to Open Conference

Where Perfect Service Is Imperative

Many of the prominent city and country clubs which experimented in making their own ice have found their results not only unsatisfactory but expensive.

The fact is that in a modern, properly managed ice plant, the ice is invariably sparkling-clear and pure and can be delivered to club premises at a lower cost than the club pays for "home-made" ice of inferior quality.

QUAKERS LIFT BAN ON FRILLS

New York, April 7 (AP)—Warnings against frills and laces have been eliminated by the Religious Society of Friends in a revision of its "Book on Discipline," which ever since it was published in 1783 has advised plainness of dress.

Another change permits church members to call months by their names instead of "first month," etc.

Sentences dealing with marriage and use of tobacco have been recast. Several members took objection to one declaring tobacco has "serious effects on body and mind" and that establishment of a family should be the "first" aim of the young. "Chief" will be substituted for "first" in the clause on marriage.

Death Car Driver Held for Hearing

Robert P. Beauchamp, 18, of Carroll st., Watertown, driver of an automobile that killed John J. Lawless of Watertown on Saturday, was arraigned in the Waltham district court yesterday on charges of manslaughter and dangerous driving. He was held in $500 bail for a hearing April 13.

NOBLES GATHER FOR WEDDING OF FRENCH 'KING'

Palermo, Italy, April 7 (AP)—Uninvited, 1000 aristocratic and noble guests were gathered here today from all parts of Europe to attend tomorrow's marriage of Prince Henri, Count of Paris, heir to the supposed French throne, and Princess Isabelle Marie d'Orleans and Bragance, descended from the royal houses of France and Brazil.

This gathering of Europe's aristocrats has been one of the strangest social events of years. They came in answer, not to the usual pompously engraved invitations heavy with gold coronets, but to a general broadcast saying that all those of certain rank who wanted to come would be welcome.

1300 TO ATTEND DINNER

More than half of those assembled come from countries where royalty has given way to democracy. Princes, princesses, dukes and duchesses of France, Greece, Portugal and Brazil, who still possess ancestral estates and titles, but have no royal court, mingled with their more fortunate contemporaries of Spain, Denmark, Rumania and Italy.

Thirteen hundred guests will attend a dinner tonight in the Villa d'Aumale.

SIX ORCHESTRAS TO PLAY

Half a dozen orchestras have been engaged to play in the palace, the pavilions and the gardens. Under a Sicilian moon songs of love and marriage will be sung, while a 22-year-old prince and a 19-year-old princess move nervously among their distinguished guests, waiting patiently for the morrow.

Skull of Haydn May Be Returned to Grave

Vienna, April 7 (INC)—Eisenstadt, birthplace of Joseph Haydn, is seeking to recover the skull of the famous composer, now possessed by the Vienna Society of Friends of Music, in order to inter it with the remainder of the skeleton, buried at Eisenstadt, when the 200th anniversary of Haydn's birth is celebrated on March 31, 1932.

Police Say Suspect Admits 20 Safe Jobs

New Bedford, April 7 (AP)—Chief Inspector Walter Aimond today said James E. Counsell, 27, a patient at St. Luke's Hospital, has confessed to participation in about 20 safe robberies in this city and Fall River. Counsell shot and wounded himself while being escorted to police headquarters March 12 for questioning. He is expected to leave the hospital in a few weeks.

Among the robberies was one at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, which he attended and where $120 was taken.

FALL TO GET 45 DAYS' LIBERTY

Washington, April 7 (AP)—Decision to file a stay, extending for 30 days the time of invoking the mandate which might send Albert B. Fall to prison for a year, was announced today at the office of Frank J. Hogan, counsel for the former Interior Secretary.

The District of Columbia court of appeals yesterday affirmed the sentence of Fall to a year in jail and a fine of $100,000 for accepting a bribe from Edward L. Doheny for signing a lease on the naval oil reserve at Elk Hills, Cal.

Hogan cabled his office from Europe suggesting the stay. Since 15 days is allowed before the mandate to send Fall to jail is invoked, the stay would give him 45 days more of certain freedom.

Fall, now more than 69, at his ranch near Three Rivers, N. M., said it was "remotely possible" he would appeal to the Supreme Court.

4 INDICTED BY FEDERAL JURY

Four secret indictments and four "true bills" were returned today by the federal grand jury in Judge James A. Lowell in Federal Court.

One indictment was against Maurice Mastrastasqua of Worcester, charging a violation of the Mann Act, in that he is alleged to have transported Edith Underwood, alias Frances Johnson, from Providence to Worcester.

Salvatore Matteo Frizzica of Waverley is charged in another indictment with fraudulently attempting to obtain citizenship papers through producing a document purporting to be a discharge from the army when he was not in the army.

An indictment against Russell H. Marvin of North Cambridge charges him with forging and uttering and with counterfeiting the signature of Postmaster Frank E. Howard on a postal money order for $65.

Dr. Provandie Dies Suddenly in Melrose

Dr. Paul H. Provandie, 57, of Bellvue ave., Melrose, former mayor and for many years active in civic affairs, died in his home of heart trouble today. He had been working at the Melrose Hospital, where he had been practicing for many years, when stricken by illness. He had been in excellent health and his death was a shock to friends.

Dr. Provandie was born in Boston, the son of Charles A. and Mary Emma Provandie. He was mayor of Melrose in 1923 and 1924, having served on the school board earlier. For a time he was medical examiner of the third district.

Dr. Provandie served overseas with a Harvard unit. His wife, a daughter, Peggy, and a sister, Mrs. Clarence H. Cochrane, also of Melrose, also survive.

MAN ACCUSED BY GIRL FREED

Accused by Angelina Zarrelli, 14-year-old immigrant girl, of complicity in the $12,000 Elevated payroll robbery on Feb. 4, a man held at police headquarters was ordered released this afternoon after Charles Symonds, from whom the payroll was taken in a daylight robbery, had failed to identify him.

The suspected man caused the Zarrelli girl's arrest last Thursday on a charge of carrying a revolver. While in custody she told authorities the suspect had admitted participating in the robbery, and expressed dissatisfaction with his share of the "split."

Sergt. John Donovan, in charge of the investigation, said this afternoon that he was satisfied the man in custody had no connection with the holdup.

M'LYMAN SEEKS MURDER CLUE IN ROADHOUSE

Providence, April 7—Atty.-Gen. McLyman's investigators in the Verna Russell murder case concentrated their efforts today on locating a roadhouse where, it is believed, the nurse may have gone with Elliott R. Hathaway on the night she was strangled.

"I have several leads on that phase of the case, but I do not know their value," he said.

He was asked whether Miss Russell's slayer had made any attempt to revive her after she was choked and replied:

"Nothing like that."

He ridiculed and declared "ludicrous" a Boston morning newspaper story which purported to be that of Vernon V. Galvin, principal witness against Hathaway.

Philip B. Goldberg, Galvin's lawyer, and John J. Daly, private detective investigator for the attorney-general, called at the courthouse to see McLyman this morning but he sent out word he was too busy.

M'LYMAN WAITS FOR EVIDENCE

Providence, April 7—The controversy between Dr. Edward F. Carroll, member of the Providence police commission, and Atty.-Gen. Benjamin M. McLyman, over alleged racketeers, culminated today in the announcement by the attorney-general that if anyone produced evidence he would lay it before a grand jury.

He added that Dr. Carroll, who claimed his life was threatened for criticising the attorney-general, "would not be in office much longer."

He apparently referred to a law passed last week in which the appointment of police and fire commissioners is taken from the hands of the mayor and placed in those of the governor.

The controversy started when Dr. Carroll said the attorney general was allowing racketeers to flourish unmolested after he had failed to take action on a police story of alleged extortion.

In support of his contention, Dr. Carroll today stated the alleged kidnaping and extortion victim was George Gerber questioning by Dist. Atty. William C. Crossley and the detectives he could not remember events of his visit to the body with Hathaway on the murder night.

Carl E. Russell of Portsmouth, R. I., father of the slain student nurse, expressed to the Boston Evening American his belief that his daughter was killed in Massachusetts and that a strong undercurrent of politics threatened a miscarriage of justice.

FAMILY GRIEVING

The girl's family is still bowed by the tragedy that has pierced their home. The father, a strong but pathetic figure, manages to conceal his sorrow beneath a stoical exterior. The mother heart-broken at her daughter's violent death, makes no attempt to conceal her grief. The family as a whole does not discuss the tragedy.

Mr. Russell is emphatic in his statements regarding the girl's death and the manner in which its investigation has been conducted. Still he clings to the hope that in some way the probe of the two states will result in her slayer paying the penalty.

"I'll never believe Verna was murdered at the place where her body was found," he told a Boston American reporter. "From information I have gathered, I am sure her death came in Massachusetts.

"I have given a great deal of thought to the position of her body and the condition of her clothing as it was first seen when she was found and I am convinced that two men were involved in the handling of her body and the placing of it in the ditch.

"The workings of the law in the case seem strange to me. Of course, I am not familiar with politics in this part of the country, I am from the West. The manner in which Rhode Island and Massachusetts authorities have conducted their investigation has troubled me a great deal. There seems to be nothing I can do but await the outcome of the trial.

"The matter of jurisdiction, I suppose, is becoming of secondary importance. I do hope that wherever the trial is held public opinion will guarantee justice and I hope that the man who killed my daughter will pay the full penalty."

"I feel certain that there are some people who could give some valuable information concerning my daughter's murder or in which state jurisdiction for the crime lies but are afraid of becoming involved with the police. I know they would do me and both states a great service if they would come forward with what they know and tell the police."

The Boston American has also learned that Galvin, in his report to Atty.-Gen. McLyman, of Rhode Island, stated he could not remember the events which transpired during his grim journey with Hathaway to the Tiverton lane where Miss Russell's body lay.

It was also noted that last week, during the re-enactment of the ride to the lane, staged by Massachusetts state officers with Galvin, that Hathaway's chum was indefinite on his movements and activities after leaving the speakeasy.

HATHAWAY FORGETS, TOO

The Massachusetts state detectives are now understood to be openly displeased with Galvin's actions. It is understood they believe he is trying to protect his friend. They have announced their determination to subject Galvin to further rigid questioning and have intimated that this grilling will take place sometime within the next 24 hours.

In three successive stories emanating from Hathaway or his attorney, the lapse of memory factor was stressed, with the use of liquor as a contributory cause.

It is apparent that before Galvin's purported lapse of memory he and Hathaway were handicapped in their talk by the presence of Galvin's wife and mother. After leaving the Galvin home the pair went to a speakeasy and purchased more liquor.

From this point on Galvin cannot midst of his lapse of memory, his having started after taking one drink with Verna Russell. It is believable that during this period the full and true story of the night's occurrence was related to Galvin by Hathaway.

Meanwhile, there is growing criticism among people here regarding the manner in which the case has been handled. The sermon of Bishop Cassidy on Easter Sunday was the spark that set flaming the undercurrent of public opinion.

The bitter talk about the manner in which the probe has been conducted does not apply to what has transpired since the arrival of State Detectives Stokes and Ferrari. Both these officers have been doing all in their power to settle the problem of jurisdiction in the case.

They have been severely handicapped by their late arrival in the case. When they started their probe, witnesses had either voluntarily or otherwise been given an opportunity to rehearse their testimony. The officers have also openly voiced their regret that Hathaway was not handled by Massachusetts authorities before being allowed to surrender in Rhode Island.

Women in particular are displaying a keen interest in the double probe of the murder. It has been pointed out that should the case be tried in Rhode Island, there is a possibility that women would be included in the jury.

The Massachusetts State detectives have not decided whether they will question the wife and mother of Galvin in order to check on his movements on the murder night.

Massachusetts State officers intend to question Chief George W. Polter, of the Tiverton police, as soon as possible. The officers will be interested in Potter's story regarding the broken teeth and paper drinking cups found in the Tiverton lane.

The Boston American also learned today that the dress worn by Verna Russell on the night of her murder was an ordinary street dress and not a party dress. This definitely eliminates the story that the girl had planned to go out with Hathaway to a party on that night.

Crank Letters Flow in on Jailed Hathaway

Providence, April 7—Many crank letters, addressed to Elliott Hathaway, accused murderer of Verna Russell, have been received at Cranston jail, it was learned today by the Boston Evening American.

The letters are from all parts of the country, one coming from as far as Seattle, Wash., but because of their nature they have not been delivered to the alleged slayer.

In one letter the writer urged Hathaway to "repent."

Despite all the "girl friends" Hathaway is reputed to have had in his more carefree days, none of his rumored companions of the fair sex have bothered to write him, either because they do not care or because they do not want to be brought into the public eye.

Hathaway has received, among other accredited mail, however, two cheering letters from his mother.

500 KILLED IN RIOT OF HINDUS, MOSLEMS

New Delhi, India, April 7 (AP)—A report that the number of persons killed in the recent communal riots between Moslems and Hindus in Cawnpore was about 500 was made today by a special board of inquiry appointed by Mahatma Grandhi.

The city was described as being transformed into a huge battlefield, illuminated by burning houses and temples. No more savage conflict has taken place, it was said, since the Calcutta mutiny of 1857.

Gavin Jones, prominent Britisher, who attended the round table conference in London, depicted the seven days' fighting as "a terrible disgrace to British rule," for not keeping the situation in control.

The riots began, the Gandhi board reported, when a false report was circulated that a Moslem shrine had been desecrated. The Moslems testified that Hindu Nationalists attempted to force Moslem storekeepers to close in mourning for Baghat Singh, executed revolutionary.

Coupled with racial rios in Benares, Agra, Mirzapur and elsewhere, the slayings were believed to have thrown Hindus and Moslems throughout India into a belligerent mood, each side threatening the other.

'Auto 'Rescues' Tug After Bridge Crash

It took an auto truck to rescue a lighter and tug today after the two vessels crashed into the Fore River bridge between Quincy and Weymouth.

The tug Esther M. Rendle was warping the lighter Bluebird, owned by the Rendle Corporation of East Boston, into the Shepard Coal Company wharf above the bridge when it became disabled.

The wind swept both downstream and the lighter, after crashing, passed under the draw until its cabin struck and was wrecked. The truck was sent with a long rope to the river bank and towed both to a nearby pier. The bridge was undamaged.

For the Defense

Just to prove that this column is almost always right, Art Moger, who was called a such-and-such by the editor of the Boston University News for the alleged lifting of a poem which appeared here under the caption, "Sad But True," has brought in the original copy of HIS poem, and an explanation of the accusations which have been hurled at him.

It seems that he is editor of the Beanpot, the alleged comic magazine at B. U., and the News, of course, is the traditional rival of the Beanpot. According to Mr. Moger, he wrote the poem several months ago, and it was duly published in the Beanpot (didn't I just tell you he was the editor.) Subsequently, the poem was picked up and reprinted by a college magazine in the West, with due credit, of course, and it was from this magazine that the News picked up the poem and printed it in their Walrus column. So now you have the whole story. Personally, I didn't think it was such a good poem anyhow, so I don't see why all this fuss should be made about it.

VILMA BANKY RADIATES BEAUTY AND CHARM IN PREMIERE AT COLONIAL

"CHERRIES ARE RIPE" SCORES

Count Sandor Rathony.. Rod La Rocque
Baron Peter Szerenyi ..... Nicola Lisy
James, His Servant ..... Gayle Hunt
Dini ..... Jeanette Dee Lee
Bela ..... Bert Whitty
Margit ..... Katharine Vleet
Gypsy ..... Juan Varro

By HARRIS MORGAN

TWO STARS DROPPED down upon the Colonial Theater stage last night. They were both of the movie kind. But only one bore the out-and-out Hollywood label. The other—well, she must have fallen straight down from heaven. For Vilma Banky is so beautiful a lady, so ethereal and yet withal so vitally real, that any stage, any play, nay, any place would be beset with allurement and charm where she appears. So "Cherries are Ripe," given its premiere hereabouts before a warmly appreciative audience, proved quite a major event.

THE PRESENCE of two film notables in a full-length flesh-and-blood comedy is something out of the ordinary. Nor do we recall such a happening prior to the advent of Rod La Rocque and Mrs. La Rocque. This fact undoubtedly accounts for the rare say m patheti attitude of the crowded house; anything less might have done in whatever dramatic vehicle would have sufficed.

Vilma Banky

Vilma Banky in all likelihood have been as cordially received. If it so happens that the piece be frail in which the famous couple have taken their plunge away from the land of picture make-believe, not one whit does that detract from the public's interest in them. And Miss Banky's glories of face and form are such that she would brighten any place under the sun, even in competition with the sun's radiance, and even a hard-boiled reviewer must be forgiven if time and again his mind wandered from the scene and set, and reveled in the perfectness of this blonde goddess from the studios.

BUT A CRITIC must come down to earth. Taking it for granted then that the gentlemen in the orchestra and gallery do prefer blondes, and the ladies, if, too, who were present then, it behooves us to turn to the handiwork of John Emerson and Anita Loos, no less; names not unknown in the realm of fiction and the movies. Their comedy is woven out of a Hungarian story, probably chosen as a gesture for Miss Banky's native country. What there is of plot centers about a rustic gentleman, played by Richie Ling, his wife, Miss Banky, and a nobleman, Mr. La Rocque. The last is a Lothario from Berlin, an unexpected visitor, bringing his musicians along, to the Ling manor house. He finds Mr. Ling much disturbed lest his wife might some day fall in love with another. Being the gay bird that he is Mr. La Rocque offers to make a test of the lady's stability, provided the husband absent himself.

Out of these gossamer threads the warp and woof of "Cherries Are Ripe" are fashioned. Through two acts the movement is chiefly conversational; the audience laughs many, many times, and it cannot be gainsaid that many of the lines sparkle. Generally they skim over thin ice; and the audience laughs all the more. The tempo speeds up in the third act, but again slows down before the curtain. There is a novel twist to the tale; but as treated by the playwrights, it could readily be condensed into a rattling good sketch.

THAT AIRY FAERY atmosphere the beauty of Miss Banky spreads about us still holds us thrall. So we say that she is divinely fair—an eyeful of feminine fascination; a wondrous lady whose voice still needs strengthening. Mr. La Rocque is as masculine as ever he was in pictures; he has a trenchant voice which makes his every word clear to the farthest seat. In time the elocutionary effect will vanish; but it is in his favor that not a word, not a line is lost; the humor laid in his hands all goes over. The other roles are of less importance; the players are satisfactory, especially Gavin Muir as the rustic peasant.

But whether the "cherries be ripe or sour," we urge one and all to walk, run, ride, fly, to the Colonial to see the loveliest lady in the land. We should add that Miss Lenore Ulric, another film star who was in the audience, informs us Miss Banky is just as sweet in character as in looks. And she looks perfection itself!

SKIT IS ABLY PERFORMED

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

A DRAMATIC character sketch, built upon the fate of a night club entertainer, a racketeer's "sweetie," is one of the highlights of an unusually good bill this week at the RKO Boston. When we reviewed the show Sunday, the skit was missing. Hearing of its merit, we sat in again, yesterday; and found it so excellent a number that we are giving it this mention. It had been ordered cut by the censor for the Sunday program; that was our misfortune, but we did not post best thing and made a mistake. Its story, the scenes and form are such that she would brighten any place under the sun, even in competition with the sun's radiance, and even a hard-boiled reviewer must be forgiven if time and again his mind wandered from the scene and set, and reveled in the perfectness of this blonde goddess from the studios.

KAY FRANCIS GIVEN LEAD IN 'THE NEXT CORNER'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—I was surprised to hear that Kay Francis had been borrowed by Radio Pictures for the feminine lead in Kate Jordan's story, "The Next Corner." I had an idea that Paramount would make as many Francis pictures as possible before the lady moved on to Warners to fulfill her new contract.

Shows you never can tell. Herbert Brenon, director, and his assistant, Ray Liesner, are already lining up talent for this picture. Don Alvarado has been signed for one of the leading male roles. Adrienne D'Ambricour and John St. Polis to play other important characters.

Maybe I ought not to have said anything about studios refusing to lend Louella O. Parsons their important stars, for right on the heels of the Francis story along came the news that Walter Huston, who is just back from Europe, where he had a vacation, has been borrowed from First National by Universal. His first venyal engagement is "Boulevard" by Ernest Wooll.

HAVE YOU READ "Pick Up," by Eunice Chapin? Maybe if you have you will know whether or not it is a good story for Helen Twelvetrees. I have never read the book but Charles Rogers who is holding the production effort at RKO-Pathe has just purchased its screen rights and he is planning to star Helen Twelvetrees. Little Twelvetrees who looks very young to have been married at all, has just been divorced from her husband. She is an interesting type and whenever she walks into a restaurant or into a theater she is sure to command interest.

I WILL BE very happy, indeed, if some actress is brought here without the promise that she will be as great as Greta Garbo, as quaint as Janet Gaynor, as beautiful as Marion Davies and with a speaking voice that rivals that of Ruth Chatterton or Norma Shearer. Well, I'm going to, isn't it? Well, anyway, Linda Watkins who is a well known stage ingenue, has been signed on a long term contract with Fox. "Marvelous actress, we are told. "In just a short time she will be just as great as Janet Gaynor or Elissa Landi and she will immediately go into leading roles in preparation for eventual stardom." Now, let's have the girl a break. Don't try to make her a star before she even starts. She may have been educated in Boston and she may have made a hit in "June Moon," "The Ivory Door" and other plays, I know she was good in "June Moon" because I saw her, but let's not be in a hurry. She arrives in Hollywood next week.

PERHAPS YOU'D like to know that Maureen O'Sullivan is back in Hollywood. She has been in Ireland paying the auld countrees a visit. When she gets back she will be introduced to Thomas Meighan, also Irish and also proud of it. Tommy and Maureen are rumored to be about to make a picture. What about Tommy Clifford also? Marian Nixon who is, I think, one of the prettiest girls in Hollywood, is on the RKO-Pathe lot. She is playing opposite Eddie Quillan in "The Whoop-De-Do Kid" with Al Rogell directing. The Nixon-Hillman marriage continues to be a success. You see the two youngsters everywhere together, happy as can be.

STARS FAMOUS the world over, directors whose salaries run into the thousands weekly and fellow executives all waited for Irving Thalberg last Friday. Irving had an engagement that not even his wife, Norma Shearer, could break. His son, Irving, Jr., called at the studio to have his picture taken with his father, Irving, Sr., as he is fond of. Glad to see his father but he considered those passport photographs all a nuisance. He refused to be interviewed about this trip abroad beyond saying that he and his mother and father and nurse would sail about May 1 for a holiday in Europe.

"Monkey" Will Follow "Last Hour" at Copley

"The Last Hour" concludes its fourth and final week at the Copley Theater on Saturday evening. To follow it the management announce a new play, "Monkey," by Sam Janney, author of "Loose Ankles," for the first time on any stage. "Monkey" is described as an up-to-the-minute detective thriller, set in a penthouse apartment in New York's midtown section, where three acts of drama centering around a murder take place. In the cast are Richard Whorf, Robert Henderson, Mark Kent, Allison Brooke, David Baker, Barbara Hastings, Harry A. Huguenot and Douglas MacLean.

Wizard's Daughter

JANE THURSTON

CHILDREN GET MUSICAL GEMS

The season's final pair of young people's concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, held yesterday and today at Symphony Hall, features a varied program played for the enthusiastic youngsters by a hundred musicians, led by two conductors.

For the children have an opportunity to see Richard Burgin in action with the baton as well as Serge Koussevitzky. They hear for the first time the shrieking dissonances of Honegger's "Pacific 231," which offended their elders five years ago, and they applaud this vividly modern and descriptive music as much as anything on the program. At the opposite extreme (as it seems to their seniors) they like the first movement of a Haydn symphony in D major.

ED WYNN BACK ON SHUBERT STAGE

ED WYNN and his merry, merry "Simple Simon" are back again. They're at the Shubert, where the famous comedian and his company are furnishing no end of entertainment. The opening performance of the return engagement took place last night.

Among Mr. Wynn's co-stars is a young lady named Wini Shaw. She sits on a piano after the Helen Morgan fashion. Yet she out-pianos Helen Morgan. Miss Shaw is the fountainhead of that amazing "Ten Cents a Dance" number. And of course you know "Love Me or Leave Me?" Well, she is stellar in that, too.

The plot is, of course, pure fun. When we ever an Ed Wynn plot anything else? It's what makes the world a merry-go-round, and what gets the laughs by the score.

The people who have stood by Ed Wynn year in and year out won't be disappointed. Most of the jokes are good ones, and a abundance of disgracefully funny new ones, is there, also.

And on the artistic side of this extravaganza, there is Harriet Hoctor. With a background of the most beauteous collection of girls Boston has seen in a long time, Miss Hoctor teaches most of her contemporaries how to dance and makes 'em like it.

There are other bright lights in "Simple Simon," all of them helping the clever Mr. Wynn put across a superb batch of entertainment.

John Galsworthy Will Lecture on Literature

Bliss Perry has consented to act as chairman and host to John Galsworthy, when the eminent English novelist and playwright gives a lecture in Symphony Hall tomorrow evening. It is particularly fitting that this English celebrity should be welcomed to New England by one of the foremost men of letters of our country. This lecture will be the only one which Galsworthy will give in New England.

So Sweet

FANIA FEDOR

FRIVOLITY AT HOWARD

The Mutual show, "Fun and Frivolity," scored a hit at the Old Howard yesterday. Virginia Jones, known as "a breeze from the South," is the star, and her, winsome personality captivated the audience. Not only does Miss Jones dance most artistically but she also has a voice of tone and sweetness.

Harry Seymour and Tommy Miller are leaders in comedy. Kitty Warren, long a big favorite in burlesque, lends her voice to several good singing numbers. John Grant, straight man, is clever. Harry Van was well received. Others of ability are Helen Forrest, and Charley Boman.

In addition the Howard provides a good continuous bill. The seven Trojans, Don Galvin, "The Music Maker," and Kaya and Seyre are in the vaudeville bill. The pictures are "Seven Keys to Baldpate" and "The Sky Hawk."

GAY MINSTREL MARDI GRAS AT SCOLLAY

Players' and Patrons' Jubilee Week is celebrated on the Scollay stage this week with an outstanding show. The show is appropriately called "Minstrel Mardi-Gras" and is divided into two sections, the first being a real old-fashioned minstrel show with the familiar "interlocutor," end men and chorus of fine voices; the latter part of the production may be called a futuristic minstrel show, with night club entertainment running wild in a modernistic setting.

Crowded house greeted Manager Vinson's newest production with enthusiasm yesterday. Favorities seemed to be Diana Sheldon, with his banjo and "dumb" dancing steps, who stopped the show cold for fully five minutes, and Mary Lee, acrobatic dancer. Comedy in the show is most capably provided by veteran vaudevillians, Marie and Ann Clark, Mae Daley, Billy Beard and Buddy Walker, a strong Scollay favorite.

There must be at least 80 performers in this show, the first part of which is produced by the veteran minstrel man, Dan Fitch, and the modernistic angle which was produced by Eddie Court, both sections which were set in lavish scenery. The costumes in the production, besides being numerous, were colorful and striking.

DR. DEAN'S SPY CASE

A Reporter's Story of a Baffling New Hampshire War Era Crime

By BERT FORD

(Who Worked on the Case as a Reporter.)

Dr. William Kendrick Dean, gentleman farmer, was murdered at East Jaffrey, N. H., on Aug. 13, 1918. Previous unfriendly acts by him and other members of the fashionable mountain colony complained of night lights and spy activities. Dr. Dean was slain at midnight of the day he asked a prominent woman neighbor to go to the federal authorities in Boston and urge them to send one of their best agents to Washington to solve the mystery and to run down those responsible for the military signals in that region.

The army intelligence of the United States, Great Britain France and Germany are said to have reports on the Dean murder. The lights and spy activities in East Jaffrey and environs were subjects of important correspondence between the United States, Great Britain and France.

County Solicitor Roy M. Pickard's fat letter file on the Dean murder included several letters from J. J. Hurley, summer resident of Boston, one of which read in part:

"Some time ago I received a strange document from a relative of the late Karl Liebknecht, a high ranking German secret service man in charge of the Espionage Bureau in Berlin. The document had startling and sensational revelations bearing on the Dean murder case.

LONG REPORTS MADE

"I at once communicated with persons in Great Britain and France, who I thought would be interested in the contents of this revelation. To my surprise I was informed that certain persons in England and France had already interested themselves to the extent of securing reports of 150,000 words. These were put in my hands on the Dean murder case and other matters, showing complicity of certain persons."

Truly a remarkable homicide, directly allied with the World War and with ramifications reaching half way around the world.

Yet despite all this and despite the fact that their own expert witnesses all flatly eliminated her from suspicion, certain officials in North Granite State insist to this day, that the only suspect they could see was Mrs. Dean, who died soon after her husband's murder.

Charles Thomas, of Dublin, N. H., who served as a sergeant in the Second Division (Regular) and went through all engagements with that outfit overseas, said last night that while he was a telephone operator in Dublin in 1916, Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador, visited there incognito.

COUNT ON HILLSIDE

Charles A. Bean, shipper in the tack factory at East Jaffrey and a former artist and photographer, said two Germans who were stopping at Shattuck's Inn, visited him in the fall of 1916 and asked him to take pictures of the hills in that vicinity. He said he didn't know why they were so interested in the topographical photographs at the time and that it did not dawn upon him until after the town became startled by signal lights weeks later.

He said he heard one address the other of "Bernstorff." He said both were distinguished-appearing. He said they had a hard time trudging with him up the trails and that they asked him to take a view of Mt. Wachusett in the distance.

Bean placed the German ambassador in that vicinity at the same time Thomas, the telephone operator, placed him in Dublin, under an assumed name, yet neither knew the other or of his testimony.

SWITCH CIGARETTE CASE

The murder of Dr. Dean, a product of local spy complications, is far from the baffling mystery that certain persons have tried to make it appear.

Why was the innocent widow accused when there was nothing to justify it?

Why, then she was eliminated by the state's own experts, did not certain officials hunt elsewhere, as was their sworn duty?

Why was an inquest conducted?

Why was there a delay of five months before the first autopsy of record was performed?

When it became of the cigarette case found in the well with the body, and thought to have dropped from the pocket of one of the killers? Why was it substituted for another?

Why was grand jury action delayed nine months and taken only after a mass meeting of protest by the citizens of East Jaffrey?

Why were witnesses, with important information, not called before the grand jury?

Why, in the face of the preponderance of federal evidence about enemy signal lights did certain officials try to belittle this vital feature in the tragedy by alluding to them as "fire flies or heat lightning?"

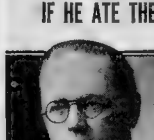
Why were receivers of the Deans, the selectmen and their special counsel, Atty. Harry N. Gutterman of Boston, and all other investigators, frowned upon and snubbed for trying to avenge the murder of an inoffensive and patriotic American citizen?

Unless there is a deathbed confession as matters stand, because of the bungling manner in which the case was handled, the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean will go down, the only one of several unsolved tragedies of New England.

If the Boston Evening American had not probed and exploited the case with the hope of getting action, the world would never have known of the finding of the three alleniste, and Dr. George Burgess Magrath, noted Boston pathologist, who flatly removed the widow from suspicion.

This newspaper feels that the campaign was worth while in having cleared Mrs. Dean's memory. The Dean murder could have been solved if two men had been arrested on the spot and "sweated" Folks in East Jaffrey are still asking "Where is the nigger in the wood pile?"

LOVED LOBSTERS BUT SUFFERED IF HE ATE THEM



"I like lobsters better than most any food, but I used to suffer when I ate them," says Edward J. Green, well-known salesman of 86 Falmouth St., Boston, Mass.

"I would have sick headaches; would belch, leaving a sour taste in my mouth; suffered a lot with gas on my stomach.

"I tried many things before my druggist persuaded me to take some Pape's Diapepsin.

"It took them right out of my trouble. I have a better appetite, eat lobsters, pork or anything I want and have no after-effects. I believe Pape's Diapepsin and recommend it to everyone I know."

If you suffer from indigestion, often or just occasionally, get a package of these candy-like tablets from your druggist. They stop heartburn, gas or stomach, belching, nausea, headaches or any other symptom of indigestion soon as the trouble starts. They are harmless; form no habit; can be taken as often as needed.

STOMACH UPSET

Is it the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now, instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested food? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound, know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 10c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like

SUMMERTIME AT PAINE'S

Midsummer days are suggested by the novel display of warm-weather furniture on the street floor of the Paine Furniture Company's big establishment. One must see the display to fully appreciate the novelties offered.

United States, Great Britain France and Germany are said to have reports on the Dean murder. The lights and spy activities in East Jaffrey and environs were subjects of important correspondence between the United States, Great Britain and France.

Interior decorators and furniture stylists in the Paine Furniture Company's store have brought June to the Boston two months ahead of schedule.

Although in the street there is still a hint of winter, within the doors of the shop in Arlington at summer prevails.

The street floor has been transformed with colorful summer furnishings, summery in their design and decoration. A feature of the premature midsummer display is a Spanish portico, overgrown with spring flowers, with a vista of gay lawn umbrellas, lightweight furniture and lawn sets.

S. S. PIERCE IS CENTURY OLD

Boston, as a city, was not yet ten years old when Samuel S. Pierce, in 1831, started at Court and Tremont sts., a grocery store which has now become one of the oldest and most successful in this country, still under the active direction and control of the family that founded it.

Today S. S. Pierce Co. does business in all four corners of the world. The mail order and telephone departments are very important for not only does S. S. Pierce Co. have a larger number of entries coming into the port of Boston than any other Boston concern but also ships orders all over the world.

At "Business Central," the great operating headquarters at 133 Brookline ave., is located the largest grocery telephone sales organization in the world with 41 "call in" stations and 67 "call out" station which gives service to 30,000 regular customers.

A Simple Application That Dissolves Blackheads

No more squeezing and pinching to get rid of those ugly blackheads. Get a little Calmitz powder from any drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot wet cloth rub over the blackheads and in two minutes every blackhead will be dissolved away entirely.

AT THE LISTENING POST

WHAT DO THESE call letters mean? Very often they are designed to be of some particular significance, but in most cases they are just letters, usually headed by "W"—Let's see now, some of them might be interpreted at that:

WTOC (Savannah, Ga.), Welcome To Our City.

WEEI (Boston), Everyone Enjoys It.

WCOD (Harrisburg, Pa.), Pay In Advance.

There are ever so many more. Work one out and forward it to the "editor," and if it's good enough we'll print it.

AFTER TWENTY-SEVEN weeks of Sunday broadcasting on the Columbia chain, Fr. Coughlin, presenting his Shrine of The Little Flower, concluded this inspirational feature on Easter Sunday with a vivid narration of The Resurrection. His return to the air was announced as scheduled for next October.

• • •

NAMES IS NAMES: Dan Ford, an auto dealer of Washington, has a short program on the air from that city in which we hear the words, "See Dan Ford for a Ford Sedan."

• • •

OVERHEARD AT Park St. Station: "Is the fellow, N. F. T., really going to change the name of that column or not?" The companion of the speaker replied, "I've been wondering, maybe he's just waiting for the right suggestion to come along."

• • •

ENGINEERS began yesterday with the task of changing over WLEX transmitting apparatus from Lexington to Quincy, which will improve reception of the station tremendously.

• • •

DEFEAT came to Clarence Darrow in his defense of Benedict Arnold on the air. Clemency for the famous traitor was denied by the radio jury.

• • •

THEN THERE is the one concerning a typical Boston friend of Floyd Gibbons' who asked the latter up to his hotel room to talk for him when he called Los Angeles on the long distance phone.

Features on Air

"AU REVOIR but not good-bye." Although the Boston Evening American WLEX studio is cloaked in darkness, along toward Friday night, we will take the air again with reception greatly improved; installation of a one-half wave antenna and a 450-foot tower are expected to bring in programs with clarity and increased crescendo. Another boon to the station is that Columbia daily features may be added to WLEX. This project together with the American features should do much toward keeping the dials pointed to WLEX.

YESTERDAY WAS the anniversary of the U. S. declaration of war on Germany; Saturday is the anniversary of the starting of the Civil War; it will be 23 years Sunday that we experienced the Chelsea fire. The 4th marks the anniversary of Lincoln's death and it will be years on the 25th that the U. S declared war on Spain. Yet with all this material for broadcasts we know only one that utilizes one of them. From WEEI at 7 30 tonight Civil War days will be recalled with the presentation of a playlet, "Appomattox."

COMING OUT OF THE ETHER . . . Howard Barlow and orch. present the widely debated ballet tonight. WNAC at 9 30 . . . Sandy MacFarrriane, back from a Western tour, starts a new series on WEEI at 7 tonight . . . Richy Craig takes a trip with Sary and Boob of the Untrue Story hour, o'er WNAC at 10.15 tonight . . . Paul Whiteman will musically introduce each of his men from WEAF at 8 tonight . . . Frazier Hunt, war correspondent and contributing editor of Cosmopolitan magazine, starts a new "Chronicles" series o'er WBZA at 10 tonight . . . No more interviewing of vets but thrilling, personal ex periences will be told by Hunt.

HOT AIR PRATTLE . . . After successfully b'dcasting an actual murder trial in Bluefield, W. Va., WJIS, in that city, plans to bring more of such to listeners . . . The 20 words of advertising on the Fryor band program is bringing in encouraging returns, but it is also helping Fryor's sales . . . Misses of the Skillet will go commercial in a few days . . . A half dozen more commercials are due on the air soon . . . Broadcasters are trying to lead Al Jolson, but he asks too much.—M. G. M.

SKINNY MEN

Gain pounds of weight in few weeks with new IRONIZED YEAST—a special combination of dried brewer's yeast plus iron—or pay nothing

Daily the letters pour in telling how new IRONIZED YEAST has added pounds of good solid flesh in few weeks. Has built up new strength and pep in nervous, tired people. Has banished constipation, indigestion. Has cleared skin.

Ironized Yeast is two tonics in one—special weight-building dried Brewer's Yeast and blood-enriching strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt and which makes malt so beneficial. It is specially cultured and concentrated to give the utmost in feed-producing value. Guaranteed for strength, purity and potency. Used by doctors and big hospitals.

To this concentrated dried brewer's Yeast is added three kinds of easily assimilated iron to quickly make rich, red blood and tone up nerves and muscles. By this special process Ironized Yeast is made more effective than yeast or iron taken separately. Contains no starches. Tears or gas-forming fillers. Pleasant little tablets — no nasty taste, no gas or bloating. Never spoil, safe for everybody.

Don't have a "skinny," weak body. Go to your druggist today and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. Take as directed and if you are not delighted with quick results, your money promptly refunded by manufacturer

Society Folk at Harvard Show

Hasty Pudding Club Presents "Bulls and Belles" at Clubhouse

"THE BEST SHOW IN YEARS" was the sentiment expressed last evening when "Bulls and Belles" was presented for the first time to the public at the Hasty Pudding Club house on Holyoke st., Cambridge. Crispin Cooke, the heroine, and Eddie Cole, the hero, were simply marvelous; they sang and danced divinely. The chorus was a knockout and the music, largely by F. R. Flynn, was great.

ONE OF THE HITS OF THE show was the "Di di di di didy" number and the chorines were attired appropriately. It brought down the house. Everybody was there, if you know what I mean. It might almost have been school-girls' night there were so many sub-debutantes present. Here is one of the wisecracks: — Are you familiar with Boston girls? Nobody could be! Something's going to come of that, as the song goes. Don Castillo, who contributed several Spanish dances, was a genuine delight

THE PATERS AND MATERS were in evening attire and among the packed throng we met Miss Eleonora Sears, of Vincent Club fame, Mrs. Hugh Scott and daughter, Miss Helen Mrs. J. Gardiner Bradley and Bradley, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Eliot and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Grandin and Miss Isabella with the Prescott Rowes, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Thorndike, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lawrence and young daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Ayer and sub-debutante, Arthur Shurtcliffe and Miss Alice. The Lathrop Browns had a theater party which included their two daughters, Miss Halla and Miss Camilla. Miss Frances Williams, Miss Ann Warren and Miss Cary Walker

THE JOSEPH SEABURYS brought their sub-deb daughter Martha, and Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Winslow were attended by Miss Polly Winslow. Barbara Welch was with an escort, unknown to us, and Miss Harriet Fuller with David Cheever, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cabot were with their daughter, Helen, and a younger sister, and we saw Mr. and Mrs. Russell Robb, Mr. and Mrs. Stoughton Bell and Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hoar. The next performance is this evening.

Notables Sponsor Garden Lecture by Mrs. Canfield Today

THERE IS A NOTABLE LIST of patronesses for the lecture at the Junior League today, at 3.30, of Mrs. Dorothy Canfield Fisher, under the auspices of the New England Farm and Garden Association. Mrs. Fisher's subject is "Farm and Garden People of the Basque Country." The sponsors are Mrs. Charles R. Adams, Mrs F. Wayland Ayer, Mrs. George Bramwell Baker, Mrs. Walter C. Bayliss, Mrs. Hubert L. Carter, Mrs. James D. Colt, Mrs. Charles E. Cotting, Mrs. George U. Crocker, Mrs. Charles M. Hammond and Miss Mary Hammond. Also Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, Mrs. Alfred Winsor, Mrs. Edward R. Nash, Mrs. James M. Newell and Mr. Robert W. Lovett, Mrs. George U. Crocker is giving a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Fisher at her home on West Cedar st. tomorrow.

MRS. ALEXANDER WHITESIDE of Beacon st. is giving a dinner party for young people at her home, later taking her guests to the Hasty Pudding Club show, "Bulls and Belles," in Cambridge.

AN EXCITING MEETING IS in prospect at Ford Hall tomorrow evening when the members of the Women's City Club gather to discuss plans for extending their present building on Beacon st. backward six feet or more, thereby taking off that amount of space from the garden which is in back of the very beautiful headquarters of this club. The sentiment seems to be in favor of keeping the present lines of the structure and preserving a very attractive garden.

MR. DUDLEY WOLFE, WHO is more than a man-about-town, he might justly be termed a man of the world, he travels about so frequently and so far, left for Omaha, Neb., about two weeks ago and is now en route to Boston.

MR. AND MRS. HORATIO HATHAWAY and their son, Lovering Hathaway, are en route to Bermuda where Mr. Lovering Hathaway will be married on April 11 to Miss Elizabeth Elfreth.

GOSSIP IN THE SHOPS

About People You Know in Boston Stores

By FRANCES L. BAIRD

HARVEY HEADS BOARD

Charles W. Harvey, credit manager of Gilchrist Co., has been appointed chairman of a committee considering group use of a mechanical addressing system in the large retail stores, through the Merchants Credit Bureau

This device was designed to speed up service to customers by eliminating writing names, and to lessen costs to the stores by improving authorization, billing and delivery records. Mr. Harvey has just completed a course in retail credits and collections which he has been teaching at the University Extension.

MISS ATKINS TO SPEAK

Miss Ann Atkins, of Touraine's personnel staff, will deliver an address on "The Value of Advertising to the Business World," at the graduating exercises of her class in the night commercial department of Dorchester High School on April 16. She will illustrate her talk with the best examples of advertisements written by her classmates.

NEW SALESMEN

CELEBRATION PLANNED

The silver anniversary of the Conrad Benefit Association of Conrad & Co. will be celebrated with a dance to be held at the Copley Plaza Hotel on April 25.

The affair is in charge of the Association officers: Miss Molly Malloy, president; Miss Marie Brennan, vice-president; Miss Alice McCann, secretary and Miss Bernadette Burrell, treasurer. Directors of the association include Thomas F. McGrath, store superintendent; Miss Helen Higgins, section superintendent; Miss Josephine Spaulding, section superintendent; Miss Bertha Harrington, assistant supervisor and Frederick Andrew, manager of the receiving department.

MRS. DIKE RESIGNS

Mrs. Charlotte Dike, is resigning her position as secretary to Miss H. Adele Howe, director training for R. H. White Co., to become manager, with her husband, of a tea room at Pawling, N. Y. She expects to open the tea room for the summer season on May 1

COURSE TO BE GIVEN

Merchandise managers, buyers assistant buyers and other store executives are among the 150 persons who have made reservations for the course of lectures on marketing to be given by Malcolm P. McNair of the Harvard School of Business Administration on Friday evening at 6.30 in Jordan Marsh Auditorium. The course is sponsored by the Retail Trade Board.

MORGAN'S TO CELEBRATE

The 14th anniversary of Morgan's will be celebrated with a dance to be held at the Hotel Kenmore Crystal Ballroom on April 22. Arrangements are being made by a committee composed of Leo Gaffney, advertising manager; E. A. Brest, credit manager, and Thomas Cerullo, secretary.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

Will Brown, advertising manager of Hovey's, Harry Twomey, sales promotion manager, and Sidney Solomon, merchandise manager of Jordan Marsh Co., are among the Boston executives attending the special sales conferences at Akron, O., this week. They expect to return Friday.

STORE SNAPSHOTS

Pleats Vary in Spring Modes

By ANN ARDEN

IN THE first flood of Paris creations that opens up the spring fashion drive, it is hard to select the wheat from the chaff—to know just what line will survive, what color and fabric will be best. But as the season goes on a pace, certain important types separate themselves from the rest and stand out as the undeniable successes. Now that Paris has settled the fashion course for a few months more—we can set out upon our shopping with more than a half-formed chart to guide us.

* * *

IT SEEMS as if the silhouette is determined to remain slightly fitted, even straight, in many instances

* * *

THE TUNIC or pepium, the two-piece frock, real or simulated, and the blithe swing of pleats in our skirts are all style points too becoming not to be repeated again and again in our wardrobes

* * *

PLEATS vary from tiny little ones to roomy box pleats, frequently set on to a smoothly fitted yoke. But when it comes to inserting them in the skirts of dresses the dressmakers show their originality.

* * *

SOMETIMES groups of inverted pleats are set into the lower part of the skirts and sometimes they are stitched down at the top forming a long hipline with the pleats making a flounce Often a gymnastic seaming is released below the hipline to form large pleats.

* * *

IT IS quite evident that Paris is not going to relinquish her hold on the chick black in spite of the great waves of color splashing over everything. For afternoon, smart Parisiennes maintain a decided preference for it—and white is still one of the most effective contrasting notes. Over here, black and white is being stressed for daytime wear.

* * *

FOR WEAR in the warmer days happily almost with us, you would derive much joy in the smart two-piece flat crepe frock pictured, featuring the smart black and white theme. The skirt has groups of pleats inserted low on the skirt. The overblouse, wrist length, in peplum style, has tie belt, emerging from side across the back; deep scallops are used as a detail on the hem of the tunic. The short sleeves are edged and bisected in fine embroidered net and batiste. The gilet vest, and wide revers are also of the net and batiste. The hat from Suzanne Talbot is of black Charmeuse, the brim folded, split center front, and caught by bow of black and white angel-skin ribbon.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs, or fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser or to Station WLEX.

Bacon and Conry Luncheon Speakers

President Gaspar Bacon of the Massachusetts Senate and Traffic Commissioner Joseph P. Conry of Boston are to be the speakers at the two remaining Maiden Legion luncheons, the former on April 21 and the latter May 12.

Quincy Club Hostess at Session

By NANCY BREWSTER

With Mrs. I. William Crowell of Winthrop the new chairman of the department of junior membership of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, the department will hold its annual conference at the Quincy Women's Club house next Saturday.

Mrs. Joseph Leiyvold, because of illness, was forced to resign her position. Mrs. Crowell will conduct the all-day session with the juniors of the Quincy senior organization, the hostess club.

Guests of honor include Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, state president; Mrs. Frank P. Bennett, Jr., first vice-president; Mrs. John H. Kimball, third vice-president; Mrs. Heman A. Harding, fourth vice-president, and Mrs. George Conley, second district director.

Presidents of the junior clubs will preside during the day, giving short addresses on the features they consider most outstanding in their club work. Thirty junior groups will be represented.

CLUB CALENDAR

A marvel at tennis. Everywhere at once, alert and dangerous. Deftly returning each swift play. Stopping the fastest volley with amazing skill.

What a pity she has not learned to stop periodic pains as easily! In just a few moments, with Midol.

One or two tablets, taken in time, will render those dreaded days entirely painless. If your suffering has already started, it will subside in five to seven minutes. No matter how great your usual discomfort. Whether you are fourteen, or forty. Midol ends the pain! Safely, and in a hurry.

Midol does not halt or even hinder the natural periodic process. But it does banish the unnatural pain.

Specialists produced Midol. It is not a narcotic. So you may use it, with perfect confidence, as often as there is the slightest need.

More than one million modern women have turned to these tiny tablets for relief of such suffering. And Midol has removed every excuse for ever giving-in to periodic pains; headaches, neuralgia, etc.

Read the unaccountable habits of salmon . . . how they give up their lives for their young and how Nature guides them back from the open sea to the rivers where they were born. An interesting story of the salmon is featured in the American Weekly section of the next Boston Sunday Advertiser.

"The years can bring you Added Charm!"

SOME women seem to grow more alluring every year," says Jack Holt, popular Columbia star. "Birthdays only add to their charm!

"Here in Hollywood you see them every day—actresses still every bit as youthful as they were years ago, more irresistible than ever. Still the idols of an adoring public!

"No matter what her age, a woman who has the fresh, glowing charm of youth is always attractive. I should think every woman would learn the complexion secret the screen and stage stars know!"

You will want to know how the lovely stars keep youthful charm right through the years! "Guard complexion beauty as we do," they will tell you, "with Lux Toilet Soap!"

Important actresses all over the world—in Hollywood (605 of the 613 there!)—on Broadway—in Europe—depend on this fragrant, amazingly white soap for every type of skin.

Mary Lou Begins to Call Him 'Lorry'

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Mary Lou Thurston, a beautiful and vivacious girl of the "home" type, orphaned by the death of her parents, lives with her aunt and uncle, Clara and Howard Manderson. The former is private secretary to a publisher, and the latter an engineer. Larry Mitchell, energetic young newspaper reporter, is Mary Lou's pal. Sanderson gets a wonderful business chance to go to the Orient and takes his wife as secretary. Mary Lou is to stay temporarily with Grandma Jennings. Clara's mother. Larry is eager to marry Mary Lou and take care of her, but Mary Lou convinces him they are merely good pals and asks him to help her get a job. She applies at the Lorrimer's and is claimed by the son of the house as his war bride, named "Delight." Mary Lou qualifies as companion for Travers, who seems to find her different from his remembrance of his "wife."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

By FAITH BALDWIN

Author of "The Office Wife," "Alimony" and Other Famous Serials.

"DELIGHT IS a perfectly charming girl," continued Mrs. Lorrimer. "I've come to really care for her in this very brief space of time. I mean that, Travers, but the situation in which we all find ourselves is one of extreme difficulty and delicacy. You can't take up life where you left it many years ago."

"She couldn't, at all events," Lorrimer broke in, swiftly.

"No. Do you blame her in your heart? You have—altered, Travers. You are not the boy she knew during that short leave time, in London. Admit that."

Look for Her

"I—do admit it. That boy's dead," he told her wearily. "Now, if—if you're sure she wants to see me, I'll come downstairs."

"Why don't you go out and look for her?" his mother suggested, trying to control the nervous uneasiness of her voice. "She's somewhere on the grounds."

"All right—"

"I know it's terribly hard for you, Travers," she told him, low.

Lorrimer, after she had left him, looked for and found a top coat and cap. He moved mechanically. His heart hammered in his throat. He was realizing that, no matter what had been his long dreams, his sense of infinite loss and bewilderment, his hours upon hours of speculation—where was she? What had become of her? Did she live or had she, incredibly, died? Did she still care or had she forgotten?—The girl he was going out to meet that sunny, blue-gold day was, as his mother had said, a complete stranger to him. Yet, she was his wife!

He went downstairs encountering no one, stopped in the hall to look in the coat closet for a stick, and went on out.

Heavy Thoughts

He walked, sometimes, when the burden of his thoughts grew heavy as to be unendurable, walked abstractedly, sometimes alone, sometimes with his mother, about the beautiful place which was familiar to him since childhood. But he walked unseeingly. At first, when he returned home he had been physically ill, unable to leave his room. Later, as he recovered, he kept to himself as much as possible. He remembered now, suddenly, the uproarious greeting of a dog he'd had and cared for, grown to sedate doghood since his departure but with a tenacious memory of his old playmate, remembered his shrinking from the animal, his shattered nerves shrieking against the noisy intrusion upon his silence and solitude, remembered the way the dog had slunk away. Well? Teddie was dead now, but there were other dogs in the kennels, kept carefully away from the house because their barking and leaping friendliness might disturb him.

He hated himself for it, but he couldn't help it.

But it was at the kennels he found her.

SEAGER ADMITS VOTING STOCK SHARES TO SELF

Gov. Ely Sees Possible Return of Elevated to Private Owners

BROOKLINE MAN VOTED STOCK TO HIMSELF

Seager Admits Lone Action on Shares in Founders' Securities Trust

A motion to give himself and a colleague 3500 shares of stock was introduced, seconded and put to the directors by himself, Charles W. Seager of Brookline admitted today in federal court before George R. Farnum as master.

Seager was testifying at the hearing on charges of conspiracy against directors of the Founders Securities Trust and the United Investment Assurance Trust, with a combined listing of $25,000,000.

OTHERS NAMED.

Named in the complaint as respondents are Seager, Stephen J. Richards of Needham, Stephen R. Avery of Cambridge, Loring Stoddard of Brookline, the First National Bank of Boston, the Commercials Italian Trust and Elmer H. Bright & Co. of Cambridge.

Seager, first witness in the case, which opened yesterday, and who continued on the stand today, testified the 3500 shares of stock in the Founders' Security Trust, on which his motion was made, were to be given to himself and Richards.

IDENTITIES RECORDS.

Witness identified a record book containing minutes of the meeting where he made, seconded and then put the motion. The meeting, he said, was held on Aug. 15, 1927.

His memory was vague, he admitted, on many other matters connected with operations of the companies.

Dorchester High School Teachers Entertain Pupils With Plays

MISS JOYCE MISS CALLAHAN MISS BARRY MRS. HOPE MOULTON

"The Turtle Dove," one of the playlets put on by the teachers of the Dorchester High School for Girls. Miss Florence Joyce is the "gong bearer" while Miss Margaret Callahan appeared as "Chorous."

"The Turtle Dove" is a dramatized version of a story of the famous willow pattern "or china. Miss Helen Barry appeared as "Kwen-Lin" while Mrs. Hope Moulton appeared at the "Manda.in."

MISS O'HARE MISS BURR MISS TRUMBULL

The English Club of the Dorchester High School for Girls enjoyed a big program yesterday afternoon and they had a good chance to do a little kiddin' as members of the faculty put on two one-act plays, "Grandma Pulls the Strings" and "The Turtle Dove." However, the girls applauded the players as they put over the show. Three of the players, shown above, are, Miss Margaret O'Hara, as "Nura"; Miss Linda Burr, as "grandmother," and Virginia Trumbull — "Julia." (Staff photos.)

ELY STATES 'L' MAY RETURN TO PRIVATE HANDS

Declares Failure to Accept the New Control Bill Will Mean a Change

Failure of the Elevated stockholders to accept the terms of the bill extending public control for a period of 28 years, may result in the road being returned to its private owners.

Governor Ely, in discussing the situation today at the noon conference with newspapermen, indicated that he would seriously consider, in the event of such a failure, an amendment to bring this about.

PRICES FAVORABLE.

He said he thought the prices set up for retiring the preferred stock to be extremely favorable to the stockholders and he could see no good arguments being advanced by the stockholders against the drafted [illegible]

The present proposal in valuating Elevated stock is to deduct from its apparent valuation assessments which have been levied under the Elevated act on municipalities served. This proposal was originally favored by Governor Ely. It is now intimated that the bill will be further amended by forcing the road back to private ownership if this new and lower valuation on the stock is not accepted.

SACRIFICE IS JUST

The Governor said that while he was not 100 per cent for this return to private ownership under the new valuation plan, he favored it.

In regard to the lowering of the dividend on common stock from six to five per cent, the Governor thought that as a business proposition it is no more than just that these stockholders should be called upon to make some sacrifice in view of the inability of the road management to make money

UNBELIEVER HIT BY FR. AHEARN

Speaking before the Kiwanis Club of Boston at its weekly luncheon in the City Club, Rev. Fr. Michael Ahearn said every great scientist with very few exceptions, was a firm believer in God, and that the existence of God was a scientific fact, and not the idea or desire of any man or race.

Fr. Ahearn, who is professor of geology at Weston College and chairman of the New England sector of the American Chemical Society, severly criticized writers and some orators, who claim that science and religion cannot be practiced by the same man.

"I am a member of several scientific societies, and have been studying science for many years," said Fr. Ahearn, "yet the Catholic Church has not been rocked on its foundations, nor have I been reprimanded for my efforts."

Fr. Ahearn went on to prove that scientists and God are inseparable. He quoted several instances where explorers have penetrated countries where a white man had never before set foot, and even there, he claimed, the savages had an inherent belief in the existence of God.

American people were termed "headline hunters" by Fr. Ahearn. He said that if the thousands clambering aboard trains in either railroad station in Boston, none get in the headlines, but they must have their news served in this fashion.

"In Austria, where I spent four years," said Fr. Ahearn, "the belief of students is that America is composed of four things: wholesale murders, tremendous conflagrations, railroad accidents and divorces. This opinion they get from the newspapers over there."

POLICE CHIEF FIGHTS OUSTER

Ordered retired after 38 years in the Weymouth police department, Chief Arthur H. Pratt, 74, today challenged the right of the board of selectmen to remove him.

The chief, who was voted out of office at an executive session of the selectmen, declared he should be notified of such action at once and that he is entitled to a public hearing under Civil Service.

Informed of the action of the selectmen he expressed surprise

Chief Pratt, who has headed the department for 17 years, was granted a two months' vacation, after which he will be retired on a pension

Capt. Edward F. Butler was given temporary charge of the department, beginning Monday morning, pending the appointment of a new chief following Civil Service examinations

The retirement of Chief Pratt followed a clash between the selectmen and the police head last week, over the purchase of two new police automobiles

Chief Pratt refused to accept the cars, and threatened to arrest anyone who attempted to take away the old machines

Town Counsel Frederick E. Bauer ruled the selectmen were within their rights and that the police head must accept the cars and he did so

Arlington Barber Fined in Rum Case

Accused by police of conducting a combination barber shop and speakeasy, Manuel Silva, a barber of Massachusetts ave., Arlington, was fined $50 in East Cambridge court today.

COAST GUARD IS STAR WITNESS

The star witness today in the government's secret hearing against Coxswain James G. Brennan, coast guardsman accused of liquor sales on board the destroyer Jouett, was a former member of the Jouett's crew "planted" to obtain evidence of the alleged liquor sales, according to Navy Yard report

Former shipmates of the witness said he has been advanced in rank since the charges were brought against Brennan and three others and has been transferred to guard against possible violence

Brennan, the second of four accused to go to trial, will take the stand in his own defense tomorrow

Boatswain's Mate John L. Erskine was tried for the same offence three weeks ago, and the evidence in his case is being reviewed in Washington

FASHION SHOW OF EDUCATION

A fashion show of educational methods will be presented before 2000 college presidents, deans and professors at the Hotel Statler tomorrow by Dr. Katherine McHale, acting director of the American Association of University Women

Dr. McHale will describe a large number of the 130 outstanding experiments in education which have taken place in recent years, explaining these, criticizing them and inviting suggestions as to which should be discarded

Her audience will comprise the delegates to the annual convention of the International Federation of University Women, the vanguard of which arrived yesterday and today for the sessions during the coming three days

Among the "experiments" which will go into the fashion show are the Harvard House Plan, the Dartmouth senior fellowship and the Yale system of counsellors to supervise the study and general college life of freshmen

Today the delegates to the council of the federation were received by President Ada L. Comstock of Radcliffe, after which most of them attended Radcliffe classes or visited the Harvard museums

Visits to Longfellow House on Brattle st., Cambridge, where Mrs Joseph Thory, daughter of the poet, and Dean Bernice Brown of Radcliffe were to receive, were also on the program of activities preliminary to the opening of the convention tomorrow.

NORMAN WHITE ON PAROLE

Norman H White, formerly of Brookline and former member of the Legislature, was released on parole from Rutland prison camp today after serving two and a half years of a term of three to five years. He was sentenced in 1928 for larceny of $133,500 from Boston banks.

He was indicted in 1927 on 28 counts charging larceny of $439,400. In June, 1928, he pleaded guilty to five counts and was sentenced by Judge Fosdick

At the Rutland camp, White found a small herd of goats, and spent most of his time caring for them. The herd has grown to almost 100. White expressed a wish to buy some of the older ones

White's troubles followed difficulties of the Boston Bookbinding Co., of which he was treasurer. The Small, Maynard Co., publishers, of which he was president, and a trust company in Waldo, Me.

Reception on May 29

Malden High will tend its annual reception to the senior class on May 29, Henry Mascarillo is general chairman

WOMAN FINED FOR WINE SALE

Found guilty of selling wine to a 14-year-old school girl, Mrs Jennie Pellafico of Stewart st., Lynn, was fined $75 in Lynn District Court today, given a month's suspended sentence and placed on probation for a year

The defendant told Judge Philip Illsley the girl said she wanted some wine for her sick mother and she gave her a pint

Police testified the girl told them she paid $1 for a pint of wine and returned a short time afterward and got another pint on credit. The girl was not in court

Thomas Nestor, Prospect st., arrested in a raid last night when police seized a gallon of liquor at his home, pleaded guilty and was fined $100. Samuel Chandler, Flint st., also pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $100. His place was raided March 27 and two gallons and a half seized.

$50 Weekly for News Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor at Liberty 4000.

What is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip.

If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event while it is happening. Bring your pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best or the most unusual event news tip received; $10 for the next best; $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips.

YOUTHFUL VETERANS

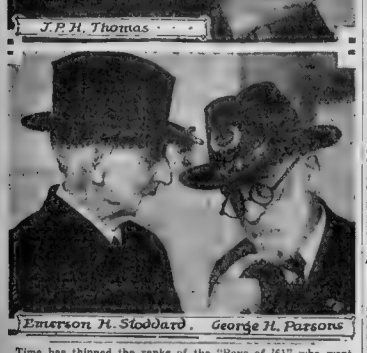
Edwin H. Lincoln — Waldo Turner

J. P. Ford — John Bachellor

J. P. H. Thomas



Emerson H. Stoddard — George H. Parsons

Time has thinned the ranks of the "Boys of '61" who went forth from their Bay State homes in answer to their country's call, but has not dimmed the spirit of those who are left to carry on, and these pictures of some of the 100 G. A. R. veterans who were in attendance at the State Encampment in Faneuil Hall today shows that 80 and more years have failed to make them old. Edwin H. Lincoln of Pittsfield, senior vice-commander, is shown on the platform with Waldo Turner of Weymouth, State commander and presiding officer of the convention. J. P. Ford of East Weymouth and John Bachellor of Reading did a little buck and wing dancing for the comrades, and J. H. P. Thomas of Arlington told how Grant took Richmond, while Emerson H. Stoddard of Newtonville and George A. Parsons of Everett swapped a few tall yarns of Civil War days. (Staff photo.)

Father Coughlin's Voice Over the Ether Has Built This $750,000 Shrine

THE GROTTO OF LOURDES
Outside the Shrine of the Little Flower at Royal Oak, Mich., is the Grotto of Lourdes. Inside, behind a replica of the Viewed Virgin, is a spring. The shrine is the result of Father Coughlin's sermons.

THE CRUCIFIXION TOWER
In stately beauty the Crucifixion Tower risen at the greatest roadside shrine in the world, being constructed by Father Coughlin, "pastor of the air," at a cost of $75,000.

ANOTHER STONE
Stone by stone the roadside shrine being built by the Rev. Father Charles F. Coughlin is being rushed to completion. He unpacks one himself.

100 G. A. R. VETS HERE AT STATE ENCAMPMENT

Some of them spry, most of them feeble, 100 "boys in blue" filed into Faneuil Hall today for the 65th annual state encampment of the G. A. R.

Sad because of absent comrades, taken by death since the last encampment—proud because they still had the strength to journey to the annual convention—they took their places, a thin blue line, before the rostrum.

Loss of 260 members to death since last year was reported by State Commander Waldo Turner of Weymouth, who said that 876 members remain in the Massachusetts department. Eight posts have faded out of existence in the year. A number of veterans prominent in the affairs of the department have gone.

AGED QUARTET SINGS.

In low voices various delegates read business reports, while the rest listened with keen attention, but the best part of the gathering were the informal get-togethers before and after the session.

With all the zest of youth, Comrades M. S. Barry, 88, of Milton, M. S. Faunch, 83, of Randolph, Charles L. Robinson, 85, of Melrose, and William R. Dempsey, 95, of Melrose, sang in a quartet.

Comrades J. P. Ford, 83, of East Weymouth, who is the oldest Mason in the State, and John Bachelier, 87, of Reading, did a "buck and wing," and Emerson H. Stoddard, 88, of Newtonville, and George A. Parsons, 85, of Everett, told tall yarns.

State Comdr. Waldo Turner was made an honorary member of the Sons of the American Revolution by First Vice-President Willis Doane Rich, assisted by a color guard from that organization.

RELIEF CORPS MEETS

In a two-day session like that of the veterans, the Women's Relief Corps of the G. A. R. met today at the Hotel Statler, 1000 strong.

Amid pomp and ceremony, visiting national officers and officers of other veterans' organizations and auxiliaries were escorted to the platform by flag-bearers and introduced by Mrs. Anna E. Howard of Greenfield, state president.

Mrs. Kate C. Rayner of Cleveland, national president, and Mrs. Annie P. Atwood, national patriotic instructor, were among those introduced.

Father Dead, Mother Ill; Son Is Sought

Friends of Harry A. Rose, 40, of 18 Glenville ave., Allston, missing some time, appealed to him through the Boston Evening American today to return home because of the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. Esther Rose, of that address.

It is believed that Rose does not know his father, Simon, died a week ago. The missing man's daughter, Esther, is continually calling for him. Rose may be in Hartford, Ct., his friends said. He formerly lived in Dorchester.

McKone Court Opens Membership Drive

At the business meeting of the Rev. John S. McKone Court, M. C. O. F., last night, a membership drive was launched to compete for the state prize for increased membership. A lively social program was outlined and a bridge party is planned for April 28.

VERNA RUSSELL PICTURES WIN FIRST PRIZE

News pictures in the slaying of Verna Russell, blonde Fall River nurse, rushed to the office of the Boston Evening American, won first prize of $15 in this paper's news tip contest last week.

By request, the name of the person whose prompt action enabled the American to continue "beating" competitors on the first display of pictures in the murder case, is withheld.

The second prize of $10 was divided between two persons, half going to Lester Murphy of 217 Orchard st., Watertown, the name of the other winner being withheld.

SUICIDE STORY WINS

Murphy flashed the story of a steam shovel overturning in Mt. Auburn st., Watertown, injuring Louis Peters.

The second $5 was awarded for a tip on the spectacular suicide of a Boston real estate man, who shot himself to death.

Third prize of $5 went to John Kennedy, 15, of 2088 Dorchester ave., South Boston, who discovered the body of a dead man in a parked automobile in Peabody sq.

OTHER AWARDS

Awards of $2 each were made to J. A. Ericson, Jr., of 297 Granite st., Quincy, who sent in a robbery from the Braintree Motor Co.

Name withheld, help on the story of the death of Lieut. Rauch, naval airship pilot killed in an auto crash.

Mrs. C. Troy of 2090 Dorchester ave., Dorchester, help on the story of a baby found in an automobile.

Mrs. Edna Jones, 144 Rhute st., Everett, two women hurt in Everett auto crash.

Mrs. Joseph Lockhard, 16 Norwood ave., Taunton, boy killed by truck in Taunton.

TIRED EGRET FALLS ON SHIP

A bird named Elmer came to town today, and Elmer eats only baked beans.

That is, he wasn't named Elmer until he arrived in the Boston American office and so prone to error are humans that Elmer may not be Elmer at all but may be, for instance, Ethel.

Elmer (or Ethel) was landed at the Fish Pier by Capt. Samuel Sorrenson of the fishing schooner Corinthian, in from Georges Bank.

Capt. Sorrenson said that the bird, identified as a member of the egret family, a land biped—flew around the schooner for about two hours at dawn last Thursday, 40 miles east of Provincetown, landed took off again, flew around and again landed, collapsing on the deck.

When the schooner arrived, Capt Sorrenson asked a Boston Evening American reporter if he would deliver the bird to the Franklin Park aviary.

En route, Elmer, the bird, stopped in at the Boston Evening American office and there was christened tentatively.

Elmer is white all over, except for running gear and beak. His long legs are black, his feet are yellow and his long bill is black with a yellow band at the hilt.

This may not be a strictly ornithological description, but it's sincere.

EMBARKS 40 MILES AT SEA

Miss Bessie Feldman, an employe at the Fish Pier, holding the feathered stranger which flew to the schooner Corinthian off Georges Banks, about 40 miles from land, and which was brought to Boston today. The egret, pure white with brownish legs and feet and bill, is a solemn sister. It stood for hours on one foot in the editorial rooms of the Boston Evening American today and wisely surveyed its surroundings. (Staff photo.)

What can be done with Life Insurance

(12) The Clean-Up Fund

IN the event of untimely death, the first need is for ready cash to take care of inevitable expenses,—some of which come later and, if not so anticipated,

Upon these must be met without delay, an instantly available fund of adequate size should be arranged. This cannot well be done through security holdings, however liquid the investments may be, for there is always the danger of having to sell in a depressed market. To create an actual cash reserve is not economical.

Through LIFE INSURANCE may be provided a ready money reserve sufficient to protect the remainder of the estate and give the executors or administrators an opportunity to settle affairs to the best possible advantage.

THOUSANDS GO TO SEE, HEAR FR. COUGHLIN

(This is the second and final article on Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, pastor of the Shrine of the Little Flower at Royal Oak, Mich., whose addresses have endeared him to millions of radio listeners.)

Fr. Coughlin wears spectacles and is of small stature, but his magnetic voice betrays his forcefulness, much of which is due to regular gymnasium exercise.

This veritable human dynamo found himself facing a crisis as a result of the astounding popularity of his radio addresses. His little chapel, built for the 26 families making up his parish, became a roadside shrine to which thousands thronged.

Something had to be done, and soon he had launched construction of a $75,000 structure to accommodate this ever-increasing crowd.

It is said that of his millions of radio listeners, there are as many non-Catholics as Catholics, as shown by the contents of the 250,000 commendatory letters he has received.

With Easter, his Columbia network contract ended, but he will continue over Station WJR—the fearless friend and benefactor of the common people.

Sentence Suspended

A suspended sentence was imposed in the Waltham Court on Harold A. Alvine of Algonquin rd., Newton, for the theft of a lantern from an excavation in Weston.

Aids Charity

Paper Dolls Jail 2 Men for 4 Days

Raymond Smith and Charles Robbins, both of Somerset st., must spend four days in jail for selling paper dolls. They were before Judge Murray in municipal court today for vending dancing paper dolls without a license.

Fined $2 each, they couldn't pay and went to jail to work it out.

$3 and you make your car new!

Why? Because Steelcote flows itself on without brush mark, lap or streak—leaving a smooth, brilliant finish that looks and lasts like baked enamel. Its the only perfected rubber base enamel.

You can use Steelcote right over old lacquer, paint or any car finish. Being elastic, it won't crack, chip or peel and stays glistening new months after ordinary finishes are weather beaten.

Why drive a shabby car when you can paint your car like new so easily and quickly? One coat covers.

Dries over night. Paint today and you drive tomorrow.

STARS OF SILENT REELS COME BACK ONE BY ONE TO SHINE IN 'TALKIE' FILMS

Pola Negri

HER VOICE HAS CHANGED

Louise Brooks

BACK TO HOLLYWOOD

Louis Brooks, who started on the coast in silent pictures and then went to Berlin and Paris to continue in that type of work, is now starring in talkies in Hollywood.

Eleanor Boardman Dolores Costello Doris Kenyon

THEY SPEAK FROM SILVER SCREEN

The stars of the silent reel are making a "come back" in the talkies at Hollywood. Many of the stars of the old movies have taken voice culture, to fit themselves for the chance offered by producers. Included in the "comeback group" are Dolores Costello, wife of John Barrymore. She's making her first picture since her marriage to Barrymore. Eleanor Boardman, who in private life is Mrs. King Vidor and the mother of two daughters has returned to the films in "She Goes to War." Miss Boardman will appear in three other Paramount productions under her present contract. Doris Kenyon acted in "Lou and I," which led to a long contract with Warner Bros.

Greta Nissen

Lois Wilson

HAVE TALKIE CONTRACTS

After 10 months of idleness, Lois Wilson, remembered as the "Covered Wagon" heroine, was prepared to go on the stage in London, when overtures came from a Los Angeles theater. This took Lois back into movieland and a grand contract. Greta Nissen has also made a comeback to the talkie screen.

Wins Air Award

CURLEY GREETS CITY GUESTS

Municipal affairs went by the board today as Mayor Curley was kept busy throughout the entire forenoon receiving visitors.

Among the distinguished persons calling at City Hall were Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, former commandant of the Charlestown Navy Yard; Miss Yoeh Wang, daughter of Dr. C. T. Wang, Chinese foreign minister; Miss Ming Hwa Nyeu, daughter of Gen. T. S. Nyeu, minister of home affairs for China; National Commander James E. Jewel of the G. A. R., who came here from Fort Morgan, Col.; Miss Kate G. Raynor of Toledo, Ohio, national president of the Women's Relief Corps, and Capt. Carl Spindler, war time German naval hero.

Delegations from the Sons of St. George, the Knights of St. Finbar and a group of 14 boys of the U. S. Junior Naval Guard of New York city led by Rev. Clarence R. Harris, pastor of the Washington Heights Universalist Church of that city, also visited the mayor.

Mayor Curley presented keys to the city to his visitors, arranged to have the junior naval guards as his guests at a luncheon in the City Club this afternoon, and showed the Chinese girls a flag of the city of Boston which he is to ship to Admiral S. K. Tu, secretary of the Chinese Navy, at his headquarters in Nanking as a gift of this city.

Somerville Break

BIG ROAD BIDS ARE OPENED

Gardner auditorium at the State House today was crowded with 500 contractors from various sections of New England as 46 bids were opened on four highway construction projects totalling over $1,500,000.

The projects will give work to several hundred unemployed men.

Contracts will be awarded within a week, the public works department officials said.

One Massachusetts and three Connecticut contractors were low bidders on the four projects.

The lowest bidders, who, officials said, probably would receive the contracts were:

STATE CHEMIST IS MISSING

Hyman S. Prives, a state's chemist, has been missing from his home, 10 Maybrook st., Dorchester, since March 27, his parents reported today.

Prives is 35 and a shell-shocked war veteran. He suffered a nervous breakdown a year ago following an automobile accident and was given leave of absence from his duties in the water analysis department at the State House.

On the day he vanished he left his home with $75 for Duxbury here, under supervision of a veterans' organization, he was to have engaged in outdoor work with Henry Merry, a contractor. He never reported to Merry.

He is single and made his home with his parents.

30 WIN MARINE DIPLOMAS

Thirty boys trained for the merchant marine received diplomas and Bibles today as they were graduated from the Massachusetts Nautical School at exercises on the schoolship Nantucket at the Navy Yard.

Honors went to Walter J Vienia, of New Bedford; Richard W. Irving, of West Roxbury; William R Fenderqast, of Everett, and Raymond R. Freeman, Jr., of Wellfleet.

Vienia was named best student in the seamanship division and Irving in the engineering division, being awarded alumni association prizes. Vienia also won the Boston Maritime Association prize as likely to make the best shipmaster. Freeman and Pendergast won Chamber of Commerce maritime association prizes as best in professional studies in the two divisions.

Police Chase Ends at Headquarters

Five charges were placed against Allan Salina, of Parkman st., West End, today, after Special Officers George Smith and Francis McGeever captured him in front of police headquarters following an auto chase.

He was taken to municipal court and held in $1000 bail for a hearing April 17 on charges of drunkenness, operating while under the influence of liquor, leaving the scene of an accident, using an automobile without authority and driving without a license.

WANT ME? TAKE MOTHER, TOO

After urging her husband at lunch, a month after their marriage, to hurry home to dinner, Mrs. Gladys Zeff left the house and went to New York to live with her mother, Morris Zeff of Browning ave., Dorchester, testified in Suffolk Probate Court today.

He said she left a note stating: "If you want me back my mother must live with us."

Zeff objected to his mother-in-law joining the family circle and Judge Prest granted him a decree on the ground of desertion.

"I came here to lunch," he said, "and my wife told me not to be late for dinner. When I returned home that night the house was vacant and a note from my wife said she had gone home to her mother."

Fair Weather Will Follow Brief Storm

Northeast storm warnings were ordered out today from Nantucket to Eastport, Me., for a disturbance of moderate intensity moving north from the New Jersey coast which was preceded by occasional rain. The storm was expected to pass out to sea tonight, to be followed by fair weather tomorrow.

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid—never to be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

TODAY'S TRUE STORY

THIRD FROM LEFT

Love Came Disguised

BARRY TRAVERSE had a good many millions and a lot of spare time which he used in various ways. He was just turning the edge of twenty-five and he found life full of zest.

His meeting with Fifi Mathers was due to Larry French, who dragged him to a new revue much against his will. "Wait till you see," said Larry, "third from the left."

When they were seated in the theater and the curtain rose, Barry's eyes roved over the chorus—third from the left—yes, perhaps Larry was right. He saw a girl with deep violet eyes, a sweet mouth rouged and painted to meet the requirements of the stage, hair that was touched with a glint of bronze gold and a body lithe and slender.

Larry's eyes followed the eyes of his friend. He chuckled.

"Better than reading a play yes?"

"Perhaps," said Traverse—"you never can tell."

But he took occasion to arrange it so he could meet Fifi. It was harder than he imagined. The manager of the show was willing enough, but she wasn't. She smiled on him when he made the request. "Of course you know Mr. Traverse," he said as though that was all that was necessary.

The manager had plenty to say and when he had finished growing almost enthusiastic Fifi nodded

"You actually recommend him," she remarked. "In that case I shall think it over."

"You're making a great mistake," said the manager.

"Or avoiding one," she retorted.

* * *

The boarding house where Fifi lived was an ordinary affair filled with people busy toying to make a living. The advent of a Mr. Barry Larry created no ripple in the daily routine.

Nobody asked what his business was nor where he worked; people came and went and there was a camaraderie of good nature. Mr. Barry sat next to Fifi at the table and talked to her just as the others did.

Fifi was no product of the sticks, ignorant of the ways of the great city. She could talk to Mr. Barry in his own language and put him as good as he sent.

"I wish you'd tell me how you happen to be in a chorus," he asked.

"Well, maybe I will some day," she smiled.

"Don't you ever long for the luxuries that are supposed to gladden the hearts of women?" he persisted.

"Frankly, I don't," said Fifi, "but there's a reason for that too——"

"I wonder" ventured Mr. Barry, "if I could meet you after the theater and take you to supper some here""

"Why not?" replied Fifi, "provided it's some inexpensive place—people like us ought not to splurge, you know."

Mr. Barry became Fifi's devoted attendant—they even sat in the park when June came along and discussed the coming closing of the revue

"I've got a little surprise for you," said Fifi—"you've been very nice to me—you've proved to me that a girl in New York can be as safe as she wants to be—that she can meet a man and be good friends with him and let it end there——"

"No, no," said Mr. Barry, "please don't say —about letting it end that—why should it end—at all —I——" he paused, embarrassed.

"Well?" said Fifi.

"Well," he went on, "I—I love you, Fifi, I want you to marry me—but I don't want to accept under a misapprehension — the fact is—my past."

"Never mind your past," said Fifi; "you all have a past, including myself—suppose we let our pasts rest until the revue closes and then—perhaps you won't want to repeat what you have just said to me."

* * *

The night the revue closed Barry met Fifi as she left the stage exit and, arm in arm, they proceeded toward the subway.

"Tonight," she warned him, "I'm going to be extravagant."

She hailed a cab and gave an address to the chauffeur. Mr. Barry helped her into the cab and they drove north.

The taxi stopped before a house off upper Fifth ave. and Fifi paid the driver against the protests of her companion.

"Barry, if I should tell you that all this was not at a price what would you say?"

"I'd say," he answered, "that I like you best as Fifi Mathers."

"And you'd be willing to forgive my past and struggle along on love and porridge?"

Barry's answer was swift and conclusive.

* * *

The society columns devoted a good deal of space to the wedding plans of Muriel Waldron, heiress, and Barry Traverse, millionaire, but Barry French knew well enough why he was to be best man.

But he kept saying to Traverse: "What I can't understand is why no one got wise to her going into a revue that way just for grease—"

"It's one of those things," said Barry, "it could happen, you know—thank God it has happened. Some day we'll both tell you all about it."

Baby Cry May Be Hunger

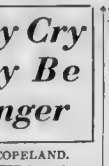
By DR. COPELAND.

INFANTS OFTEN cry for no other reason than because they are hungry. They cry for other reasons, of course, but hunger is the chief cause.

Children and infants are similar in rapidly growing animals. They require food in order to grow and develop properly. Children are always hungry, but fortunately they have a way to notify their elders when food must be had.



Dr. Copeland

The only way an infant can register its hunger is to cry. Usually it does not hesitate to make its demand.

Hunger pangs may be increased after the weaning of the infant.

This is due to the sickness but not childish — suitable to both the size and the age of the girl from 13 or 14 months.

Peplum Dress Good

At the center is shown a peplum dress. And that word "peplum" is a good one to remember. It's not only fashionable. It helps to cover up lots of figure deficiencies.

What's good about this dress? First, the peplum itself. It gives the figure width through the hips. The horizontal line that it makes cuts the height of the figure.

This dress is belted at the waistline and there's a nice soft blousing above it. This helps fill in the hollows that the growing figure so often has at this point.

The elbow sleeves cut the length of the arms. And the fullness at the elbow hel, give fullness through the body line when the arms are down

Fashionable Jacket Dress

The costume at the right is the much-fashion jacket dress —wearable by all ages and figures. The one sketched is especially good for the growing girl for several reasons.

(1) There's the peplum effect again—this time on the jacket. It does the same things that the dress peplum did

(2) The bloused belted jacket does just what the bloused bodice did. And (3) the wide, three-quarter sleeves with the arm length and give width just as in the other dress.

Lapels Give Width

(4) The jacket lapels give an effect of width and make the figure look more slender in the chest. (5) The soft, stand-up ruffle fills in, too. And (6) the contrasting plain colored jacket against the printed dress also helps to cut off height and add width.

For an afternoon dress, the sketch at the left has excellent points. First, its wrap-around. That means it can be adjusted as tight or as loose as the figure needs. Then it's soft through the waist-line and bodice.

Third, there are short sleeves again, to lessen the length of the arm. And, fourth, the shawl collar is wide enough—almost capelike, in fact—to give added width through the shoulders

And of course you can see how the side draping fills out the lower part of the body.

There are plenty of other dresses that do just such helpful things to the girl's figure. And it needs only a careful application of the name ideas to find costs and suits that will be just as becoming.

What's in Fashion Today

By AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, April 7—A mother writes: "What about the growing girl? Especially the very tall girl who is all legs and arms —not old enough or large enough for women's dresses and too big and lanky for children's?"

Clothing the growing girl becomingly might be more of a problem than it, is—if this were some other spring. But this year when fashion contrives to help everybody bring out her good points and minimize her not-so good ones, it's pleasant.

The problem of this mother, and of many other mothers, is to build out the growing girl's figure so it won't look so lanky. That means choosing costumes with details that lessen thinness and height and — conversely — make them look wider and shorter.

Need Soft Lines

And they need soft lines to cover up their angles. Soft trimmings and drapings to fill in hollows

We've sketched three dresses to illustrate what we mean. They're pretty fashionable but not childish — suitable to both the size and the age of the girl from 13 or 14 months.

Make-Believe

of woods, finally, she had found herself there, a little dazzled by the full sunlight after the brown-green gloom.

Half a dozen dogs raced about the wide runways—a setter, two scotties, a cocker with silky, trailing ears, and two police puppies. Mary Lou stopped and pressed herself close to the wire fencing. She spoke coaxingly to the animals and was rewarded by cold noses pushing through the wires to nuzzle her bare hand. If someone were in charge of them, she thought, who would let her take one out for a run—she loved dogs and hadn't had one of her own for many years.

She heard a step behind her; thought it that of the gardener she had seen early in her wanderings, or perhaps whoever was looking after the dogs.

"They're darlings," cried Mary Lou—"could—could they come out and speak to me?"

She whirled around and played her part better than she knew, for, taken by surprise, the color left her face and then returned in a bright crimson flood, tinting even her throat and the tips of her little ears

"Oh, how you startled me!" were the first words she spoke to him.

Lorimer came closer to her and, somehow managed a smile "I didn't mean to," he said, "I hope I'm all done with startling you. You must forgive me, for yesterday I—"

"Please," said Mary Lou, low. "It was as much my fault as your."

Her voice was not as he remembered it all these years. It was lower, deeper, a little, enchantingly, husky. But memory plays us strange tricks and time had passed

He leaned against the high fencing of the kennels and whipped his slender walking stick across the short grass.

"We won't talk about it—now," he said. "I just want you to know that I do understand I understand your—reticence, and the complete shock it all must have been to you. If—if you had thought of me at all of late years it was not as I appeared to you, suddenly. Suppose we forget that, for a time, I—make no claim on you. Delight. I ask nothing of you but your confidence and, if you can give it to me, you friendship."

She seemed so little, suddenly, so entirely helpless, that he felt, amazingly, a curious sense of tender protectiveness, of power, almost. Unconsciously, his stooped shoulders straightened and for a moment he was a man—a man who voluntarily assumed a task, who sets himself a goal.

She was smaller than he remembered her, prettier, even, if that were possible. He didn't question her age. He knew, of course, that she was nearly of an age with himself, must be. But it didn't occur to him as unusual that time seemed to have stood still for her, as far as appearances went. But he did find, with a shock of astonishment, that she was somehow different, and, now that he saw her again, divorced from the cataclysmic amazement of yesterday, really a stranger, some one other than the girl of his obstinate, sick memory. Somehow, it made it both harder and easier.

He held out his han

"Friends—Delight?" he asked her and the smile was no longer managed, but authentic. His eyes shone with excitement, with anxiety, and there was color in the sallow, lean cheeks.

And—

"Friends," she promised gravely.

"Say 'Larry,'" he begged her, still holding that warm, vibrant little hand in his own. "You—used to!"

Mary Lou thanked her lucky stars for this piece of information. And her realization of her good fortune brought stars to her eyes and curves to her red mouth

"Larry—" she said, obediently.

There was no withdrawal possible now. She had made her bargain and sealed it with a handclasp.

Try Massage to Enhance Beauty

By MISS HUDDLESTON.

THERE ARE dozens of different types of facials which are valuable for rejuvenating the complexion and disposition. Because there are so many it is difficult to make hard and fast rules governing them except in the two first stages. From then on it's a matter of preliminary treatment connected with the particular facial one wishes to take, at the moment.

Josephine Huddleston

But before arriving at the first steps of the particular facial two indispensable features always should be indulged—One, through cleansing of the skin; two, the toning up of the tissues to increase circulation so that the minute knots are worked out, bringing about a state of perfect relaxation, which is possible only when circulation has been fully stimulated

The nerve centers which must be manipulated by massage will be discussed later. In this article I want to explain how the skin should be treated before the actual massage, which must be preceded by surface application of soothing and beneficial preparations.

When we come to the massage movements which relax by increasing circulation, you will note that they are not the usual movements given for, correcting deep-seated wrinkles, sagging and similar beauty destroying troubles. They are generally beneficial and preventive rather than remedial, although they have some corrective value, too.

Therefore, what you want to accomplish by your facial treatment itself has a bearing on the manner in which the skin is treated before the massage is begun.

The skin must be thoroughly cleansed, always, before any massage or facial is attempted. That accomplished, an application of fresh cream must be smoothed over the skin so that the fingers move easily and do not bruise the delicate tissues

If the facial you intend to take is merely to refresh your skin and disposition after a trying day, a light application of cleansing cream offers sufficient lubricant. If, however, your skin needs refining and nourishing as well as stimulating, a nourishing cream should be used, for it will give the lubricant necessary and will help to nourish and refine the skin at the same time

Bananas on Way to Kitchen

By MARTHA LEE.

Organizer and Conductor of New England's Largest Homemakers' Club of Over 37,000

TODAY MY story is of our good friend, the Banana, and how it reaches us from its sunny Honduras home

Believe it or not, a banana is a temperamental as an opera singer! According to Capt. William J. Mathers of the S.S. Gil which arrived at Long wharf Monday morning, a clinical thermometer must be kept under their skins to make sure they are enjoying the voyage of 1925 miles from Puerto Cortes, Honduras!

Martha Lee

Capt. Mathers says they breathe like a human being, giving off carbon dioxide and consuming oxygen. The hold of the Gil is kept at 57 degrees F., never above, otherwise a banana's complexion will flush, protesting yellow before it reaches port

Through the courtesy of Lester Manchin, vice-president and New England manager of the Fruit Dispatch Company, we went through the porthole with the first mate to the relief of the bananas. Gang No. 1, composed of Joe Aiello, John Picone, Sam Delaney and Len Swenson, acted as escort.

The holds are divided into several "decks," each partitioned off into bins like the old farm gate This not only keeps the fruit from shifting and bruising but permits a free circulation of air The three men that must be contended with are heat, vitiated air and humidity. The majority of the ships, according to Mr Manchin, are refrigerated. The holds are heavily insulated with cork, cowhair, or other suitable materials.

And here's just one of the many delicious ways in which bananas can be prepared. I've a collection of some other luscious banana recipes that I'll gladly send you on request.

BANANA CUSTARD

3 ripe bananas
4 eggs
¼ cup cake crumbs
¼ cup sugar
1 cup milk
2 tsps. lemon rind

Slice bananas. Cook 2 whole eggs and 2 yolks with cake crumbs and milk, two minutes. Add lemon rind and stir in bananas. Pour into greased baking dish; set in pan of warm water and bake in a moderate oven (300 deg. F.) 25 minutes, or until pudding has set. Cover top with meringue made by beating two egg whites and sugar. Bake until meringue is brown.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

Recipes of Round Table

SIX AWARDS of $1 each will be published each Saturday for the best contributions chosen from this column during the week The household suggestions may include not only recipes but any sort of helpful hints for housewives—economical cookery or housekeeping in any of its forms.

Address all contributions to Martha Lee, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

CHICKEN ESCALLOP, BRITTANY STYLE

Brown pieces of cooked chicken, including the smaller joints, in a little pork fat if possible. Arrange in a large, shallow casserole, sprinkle with salt and a little pepper and dot liberally with butter. Add quartered small tomatoes, previously dipped in flour mixed with sugar and salt and sauteed. Top with a thin layer of highly seasoned cooked rice, mixed with minced pimiento and shreds of parsley and onion, dot with butter and set in a hot oven until slightly browned. Accompany with silvered beans and dressed lettuce. The tomato juice and liberal butter sufficiently moisten this casserole dish without additional sauce. M. E. Cunningham, 5 Curtis st., Salem, Mass

Answer Wanted

WILL SOME of your readers kindly send in recips for Grape-nut Custard Pudding?—Mrs. A. C., Everett.

Editor's Note—We have had a number of requests for a pudding of this description, so I hope there'll be lots of answers.

Garden Girl Says

"Have you finished pruning those rose bushes? Pruning is intended to force the production of new wood that will bear flowers and the weakest plants need it most. A handful of bone meal worked well into the soil around each bush will help, too."

She's Sure to Come Back

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I married a girl who was only 17 years old and, while I was away working, she left me—without a pillow or sheets to sleep on, only a bare mattress. I do not know why she left me. I loved her ever since the day I met her. We were married in August and she left me last January. I have not seen or heard from her since. It's been very lonely since she left and I would give anything to hear from her. Everybody says I ought to be glad to get rid of such a wife—but I still love her. I do not know what to do. I am working for the city and am only getting three days' work a week. I am looking for another job but holding on to this one until my luck breaks. It is hard to know what to do.

TONY.

Dear Tony: You've had a pretty bitter experience, my dear Tony, and I don't know but that the friends who tell you you're well rid of such a wife may not be right. To help herself to the household properties before leaving, puts her in a pretty bad light. Women of that type are bound to come back when they're broke. It will then be up to you, whether you want to take her back or not.

The Tin Wedding

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Am I to understand that "tin" stands for a tenth anniversary? I, being married ten years this month, will appreciate it if you will publish in your column as soon as possible just what sort of dishes, food sweets and cake should be used. Would silver flatware be appropriate?

ANXIOUS.

Dear Anxious: Yes, tin is used to celebrate the tenth wedding anniversary. Some people to carry out the idea use tin plates and kitchen silverware Visit the kitchenware department in any hardware store and I am sure you will see many little inexpensive things in shining new tinware that would make your table attractive As to the refreshments, I would suggest a simple affair, tea, egg sandwiches, coffee, home-made cake and ice-cream. Congratulations on the first ten.

Things They Do Better in Great Britain

Exporting, Banking, Office Work; Are More Honest and Courageous

—By B. C. Forbes—

New York, April 7—A cabby in Panama many years ago, when I expressed astonishment at seeing taxicabs and chairs brought out the moment set on the sidewalk for the evening meal, rebuked me. "Every country has its own customs."

B. C. Forbes

In this column things left United States done better than Britain are described by an observant visiting Briton, William G. Fern. Requests having been received for his criticisms and for his illustrations of things British do better, the following are the high lights on this score, from his book, "Lessons from a Self-Made Continent":

"I doubt if America will succeed for many times as many as she wishes to excell at—the great game of exporting. Few Americans are adaptable enough to wish to understand or comprehend the foreign mind. The greatest body of Americans have a vast or veiled contempt of other nations and their doings.

* * *

"There is no doubt that the average American employe in production works harder than in Britain, but I should not say that was true in offices. A tremendous amount of clutter went on, and I should say, from my observation, that more work, and better work, was carried out in British offices.

* * *

"Success is sweet in America, but failure is the bitterest of dregs in the cup of American life. Failure is the greatest of all sins. We try, perhaps ineffectively, but we do try, to lend the wounded, succor the spirit, and lend a hand. At least, we do not leave an unfit to find the way to help the fellow who cannot help himself. America is the hardest city in the world, if you fail. It rewards you more richly than any other if you succeed."

* * *

After criticising our traffic control, and deploring what he calls inability of Americans to relax properly—"to sit down and chat quietly about things, as we have learned to do in our home life, is something that is rare in America," our luck of preached the improved system of sleepers, the condition of our public parks, America's failure to "grapple systematically with the unemployment problem," he goes on:

"The British banking system is still the finest in the world, as a system.

"Reverse to a Britisher is five years ago. 'Recent' to an American, is but five minutes. If a man has been with a firm in Britain for 10 years, he has 'just' joined. If a man stays with a firm any time in America, he is an exhibit.

* * *

"I am confident we are more thorough in Britain. We finish things off better, and, once started, we see things through. We build to stay.

"I doubted, after my close observation, whether the static courage of the American is anything like so marked a trait in the Britisher. My experience of Britain has taught me that, the harder the game, the grimmer the jaw."

Notwithstanding the foregoing Mr. Fern makes this candid admission:

* * *

"Yet, I would, if I could, give any son of mine three or five years' experience of American life.

"I am sure the lessons of self-reliance, vision, determination, faith, enthusiasm, loyalty, construction, courage, optimism and ambition would not go unheeded, and would help him mould a destiny in which he would forever realize the Lord helps those who help themselves.

"I met many Englishmen in the States, of course, but I did not meet one who was not better off than he would have been in England."

BETTER BUYING OF AUTOS IS INDICATED

By FRANK H. MELOON

Reports from the various automobile producers indicate better buying of cars is taking place. The automotive industry is the one which has been a leader in recent years in keeping close track of its sales demand. Its schedules are constantly to revision every week or 10 days. Over-production, the bane of most industries, is thus avoided.

* * *

Millions of Americans all over the nation depend upon the automotive industries and its affiliated lines for employment, for wages and taxes and the stations they, example, alone employ more than 5,000,000 people. There is a growing belief that every possible encouragement should be given the automotive industry.

* * *

The recent tax on automobiles, which U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut would revive, was repealed largely as a result of efforts of U. S. Senator David I. Walsh. The tax was generally denounced as laying a heavy burden on the nation's largest industry and its patrons. Since the federal excise tax was abolished, however, thousands who formerly evaded it have been compelled to pay the Bay State "excise tax" and gasoline taxes, levied and increased, which have restored the burdens with additional weight.

Wilkins' undersea expedition to the North Pole will carry along a General Motors refrigerator. Incidentally it may solve the famous "Simmes Hole" question. The famous Capt. John C. Simmes always insisted a passage existed at both the North and the South Pole.

General Motors is very much on the highways. It is not generally known as a supplier of railroad companies, although some have noted that the good Boston & Maine buses are made by a subsidiary of General Motors.

* * *

Amoskeag and Pacific mills are among the few cotton goods plants busy at present on supply orders for the automotive plants.

* * *

Concrete figures can be offered to show the appaling growth of the motor industry, and how those who scoff at the oil industry. State gasoline tax collections in 1930 reached the record total of $922,110,000, according to American Petroleum Institute. This was increase of $73,927,000 from 1929 and of $203,709,000 from 1928.

Waldorf System March Sales Lower

March sales of the Waldorf System totaled $1,353,102, as against $1,779,948 in March last year, a decrease of 1.9 per cent.

For the three months sales ag gregated $3,855,092, as against $4,-017,136, or a decline of 4 per cent from the like period of 1930.

Exports of Leaf Tobacco Are Large

Washington, April 7 (AP)—Exports of leaf tobacco during 1930 were the second largest in the last decade Commerce department announced today that 579,704,000 pounds were exported, exceeding the 10-year average by 65,362,000

Utilities Financing for April Is Large

Bankers declare that public utilities during April will displace industrial and municipalities in volume of new financing. They say institutional demand for new securities during the past week to a large extent has been concentrated on utility issues.

Sharp Gain in Steel Barrel Production

Increasing by 28,320, the production of steel barrels in February rose to 480,134 units from 421 811 in January, according to reports received by the Bureau of the Census from 27 companies

Atchison Dividend

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

Fox Film's new drop today followed immediately the announcement of part of the proposed plan of financing the company's $35,000,000 note issue which falls due next week.

Wall Street jumped to the conclusion that the bankers elected to the board would throw cash and fire-fight dividends while the new financing was in progress and the big bears threw the stock on the market quite freely. Fox sold six points below the high of last week.

Associated Apparel Takes a Nose-Dive

Associated Apparel was another of the speculations to face nasty selling. The stock, which closed on Saturday at 18 and was not sold yesterday, soon dropped off 8 to 10 points today.

General Motors and N. J. Standard Up

General Motors and Standard Oil of New Jersey, two of the favorites in the investment class, made a strong bid for bullish honors in the second period today. Standard moved a point ahead with the announcement that oil leaders meeting in Washington, had been in conference with administration heads on the subject of conservation of crude oil. General Motors was well bought.

Steel's New Low Set by Fraction

United States Steel fell back to a new low for the year, but as in the last few sessions, the loss was by fractions and nothing for the bears to crow about.

Auburn Carries Bullish Banner

Suit Is Affecting Industrial Rayon

Pending court action is affecting Industrial Rayon, and the stock eased further today. Upon agreement of counsel for both sides a time extension of 14 days has been granted the Industrial Rayon Corporation for the filing of its answer in the patent infringement suit brought against it by Tubize Chatillon Corporation.

Silver's Trend Is Again on Down Grade

Rapid rise of silver was a factor of great potency for the bulls. The new trend is downward, bringing it about midway between the 1931 high and low. Today bar silver was again easier, ¼ lower at 27¾ cents an ounce. Offerings increased, owing to reports that China and India were selling in the London market.

Short Interest Is Indicated Small

Question naturally arises whether or not an enormous short interest actually existed in the market. It would seem from the market's action that the short interest in the general list is only of small proportions, although it undoubtedly is being increased daily.

Wealthy Investors Are Buying Stocks

Wall Street today there had been more buying of stocks by wealthy investors in past week than at any time in preceding six weeks.

Selling In Air Reduction

Aggressive selling has been coming into Air Reduction from time to time during the past week or two. It has been the view that most of this supply came from one group which has been active on the market and which has been emphasizing the view that earnings during the first half of this year will be unsatisfactory

Watching Wabash Traffic Reports

Improvement in the car loadings of Wabash road considered an important development by interests in the rail shares. The road has a great deal of traffic diversification at any line in the country. Thus it is argued that a change for the better in Wabash might be a significant sign.

Harvester Is Bear Target

International Harvester has been one of the bear targets in recent weeks. The stock is said to have been sold by one of the prominent operators on the theory that conditions in the agricultural districts are not favorable for sales and earnings in the current year.

Woolworth Sales Story Spiked

Persistent rumors, frequently revived, that Woolworth planned to expand into higher-grade field met with a statement from officials that "rubber stamp can be used to deny such rumors"

'L' PREFERRED AT NEW HIGH IN BOSTON

Boston Elevated shares were again the leaders in dull trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. The preferred gained ground a point, making a new high for the year while the common eased fractionally

The list as a whole was lower with changes limited to a point range. Point losses were shown for Boston & Maine B stamped, First National Stores, Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway preferred, Sullivan Machine and Torrington

American Telephone dipped 1¼ and Anaconda was 1¼ lower. Fractional recessions were recorded in Mohawk, Nash, North Butte, Penn R. R. and United Shoe

Gillette was firm. Edison gained ⅛ and Stone & Webster was around a point higher

Venezuelan Holding Corporation in report to stockholders on drilling and other developments in district of Silva in Venezuela states that in accordance with petroleum laws of Venezuela the company has surveyed and selected half of each two exploration concessions owned by it in that district. Parcels selected embrace 23,886 acres.

STOCKS LOWER IN DULL WALL ST. TRADING

New York, April 7—Trading on the New York Stock Exchange today witnessed another quiet decline of prices. It was the 11th session in the past 14 trading sessions.

Steel issues developed pronounced heaviness and rails were under pressure. A wide open break in Brazilian bonds was a bearish influence on stocks. Commodity markets were also mostly lower.

STEEL AT NEW LOW

U. S. Steel sold off more than a point to a new low level for 1931, getting within about a point of its minimum of last December.

Bethlehem was a favorite bear target, breaking 5 points and closing near the bottom.

Doubt has been expressed in financial circles over the likelihood of maintenance of the current dividend.

Worthington lost more than 7. Union Pacific and American Can both declined about 4 to new lows. The latter reflecting reduction of the dividend.

Other issues off about 2 to 4 included American Smelting, Consolidated Gas, American Can, Johns Manville, Byers, Eastman, Fox and McKesport.

SLIGHT RALLY COMES

There was a slight rally from the lowest in the final dealings. Trading was again in light volume, transfers aggregating 2,200,000 shares.

The market has now lost virtually all of its February gain and, as measured by price indices, is within a few points of its January low.

Bullish interests were clearly disappointed that the rally starting Saturday quickly petered out and yesterday's early trading, but still felt that bears might be successfully trapped in view of the lack of important liquidation.

Business and trade news was of an inconclusive character. One cautious smelter offered copper at 9¼ cents a pound, the 36-year low record established last autumn, but this copper market was the first this price had little significance.

Silver again weakened, losing ¼ of a cent at one point. If the mission of Montagu Norman governor of the Bank of England, has anything to do with the sorry plight of the white metal, evidences of it are lacking. Mr. Norman at least denied that he discussed silver with President Hoover.

Preliminary figures indicate that last week's petroleum statistics will show one of the best reductions in crude output of the year, which is encouraging at a time when representatives of the various oil states are meeting in Washington to devise means of stabilizing the industry.

Wall Street is hearing much discussion of wage scales at this time, and, despite the stern opposition to reductions which have been expressed in important industrial and governmental circles, the depression has worn on so long that some bankers and business executives seem to despair of maintaining current rates.

A. & P. SALES INCREASED

New York, April 7 (AP)—Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. increased both sales and profits for the fiscal year ended Feb. 28. Net profit was $30,742,755, equal to $13.86 a common share, against $26,218,631, or $11.77 a share in the previous year.

Sales exceeded the billion dollar mark for the second consecutive fiscal period, totaling $1,065,806,885, a gain of $12,114,004. The net profit for all of sales a net profit of 2.88 cents was realized, the best showing since 1924, when the margin was 3.13 cents on the dollar.

At the end of February the company was operating 15,737 stores, an increase of 319 for the year.

Brazilian Bonds Lead Latins' Drop

New York, April 7—Brazilian bonds traded on the New York Stock Exchange reached new lows today and their weakness was accompanied by sympathetic heaviness in a number of other Latin American obligations. Brazilian 8s of 1941 broke $100 per $1000 bond.

Fresh Lows Made in Curb Dealings

New York, April 7—Selling pressure continued unchecked throughout the curb market's more active session on the curb market today, and a long list of speculative favorites were forced to new low ground in the current downward price readjustment. Declines were moderate.

Walgreen's Sales for Month Larger

Walgreen Co. and subsidiaries reported March sales of $4,498,565, compared with $4,401,851 in March of 1930. Sales for the first three months this year totaled $13,096,-608, against $12,893,716 in the like period of 1930.

Closing in Wheat Market Is Heavy

Chicago, April 7—Wheat futures today closed heavy, unchanged to 3 cent lower; corn, ½ off; oats ⅝-¾ down and provisions at 2 cents to 12 cents decline.

Cotton Lower in New York Market

New York, April 7 Cotton futures today closed 18 to 37 points lower. May 10.32-38, July 10.35-37, October 10.88-90, December 11.10-11. January 11.20. March 11.37, spot quiet, middling 10.30.

GIPP WAS GREATEST ATHLETE IN ROCKNE'S EYES

FANNING

With GEORGE UNDERWOOD

Earnshaw's Illness Costly to Athletics

B-R-R-R-R-R! WITH Winter rushing back and sitting in the lap of Spring, it doesn't feel much like baseball weather, does it? Those March-in-April winds that blew the spring Kellys all over Tremont st. yesterday savored more of hockey than they did of baseball. Looks as if the hockey moguls were better weather prophets than the baseball magnates. For the nonce, as they say in the best sellers, let's forget baseball and park ourselves in the Boston Garden, where the Springfield Indians take the warpaint against Prexy Francis Ouimet's Bruin Cubs in another ker-r-r-rochial contest for the Fontaine cup tonight.

FRANCIS OUIMET.

Is the time ripe for twin major leagues in hockey? Have the Bruin Cubs earned major league ranking? Yes. We're still harping on revamping the hockey circuits. Lamp the attendance figures. In five games the turnstiles have clicked to the tune of approximately 49,800 paid admissions. Between 15,000 and 19,000 probably will pack the Boston Garden for tonight's soiree. When a six-game series can attract 80,000 for an average attendance of 10,000 per game, that savors very much of major league hockey, doesn't it?

Remember the Boston fans have only taken the Bruin Cubs to their hearts since the Tigers were turned into the Cubs and the playing grounds shifted from the Arena to the Garden. Interest and enthusiasm in the Cubs only has started. Watch it grow next season. Paste what we say now in your hats and see what happens next October.

Twin majors are bound to come in hockey. The great ice sport, one must remember, only is in its infancy here in the land of the bootlegger and home of the racketeer. Professional hockey must go through the same evolution as baseball did. The present Calder circuit is major league only in name. The hockey decks need an entirely new shuffling. Eventually the hockey situation will straighten out with a reassembling of teams and the formation of two major hockey leagues, as in baseball.

The present Pontiac cup duels for the championship of the Canadian-American League certainly have produced a record-wrecking series. In two of the games pro hockey records were set for overtime play. That opening game at Springfield when the arenas battled 160 minutes to a 2-to-3 tie was the longest hockey "Marathon" on record. The fifth contest last Saturday night, when John Love stepped in and called a halt with the teams deadlocked after 110 minutes of play, was another record. So is the 450 minutes for five games, averaging 30 minutes of overtime play per game. Wonder what future fracturing feat the Cubs and the Indians will uncork in the Garden tonight?

WHAT IS it that enables Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson to make stars out of pitchers cast off by other clubs? For years Brooklyn has been noted for its pitchers. Yet always the strength of the Brooklyn pitching corps has been in mound men other managers did not see fit to keep. They came to Brooklyn and Robbie waved his magic wand and, lo and behold, the Dodgers uncovered another pitching star.

UNCLE ROBBIE.

Take the corps of Brooklyn hurlers who will invade Braves Field next Tuesday. Of the whole flock of Robin heavers, only two, Clark and Phelps, are not cast offs.

Vance was with the Yankees, Thurston with the White Sox and Luque with the Reds. Heimach was rescued from the minors after Newsom dropped by the Yankees. Shaute was tried and found wanting by the Indians. Old Jack Quinn was given his papers by the Athletics.

When it comes to pitchers there is nobody who can judge 'em like your Uncle Wilbert Robinson. Once upon a time Roger Bresnahan thought Uncle Robbie had made a mistake. It was on Phil Douglass. The Rajah gave Robbie the laugh. Robbie laughed last.

EVERY CLUB in the league waived on Douglass. Your Uncle Wilbert took him in. Phil pitched some great ball for the Dodgers before giving way to his weakness. Uncle Wilbert decided that Phil was beyond baseball redemption and turned him loose. Bresnahan grabbed him.

The Dodgers pulled into Chicago on an off day. The Cubs were playing the Braves. With a day off, the ball players had to spend it in a ball park watching the Chicago-Boston double. It was the day Red Smith, flame-haired Boston third baseman, forgot himself and socked Umpire Bill Byron on the jaw. Douglas pitched a great game, holding the Braves to three hits, if we recollect rightly, and kalsomining them, 2 to 0.

Bresnahan came over to the Congress Hotel, where the Robins were staying, after the game and laughed loud and long over Robbie giving him Douglass. "I'm the man that can handle the bad actors," boasted Rajah. "Why Robbie, you have presented me with the greatest pitcher in the game. Phil and I will get along like two little pals."

"Mebbe so," quietly remarked Robbie. "Mebbe so."

EARNSHAW

Phil and Bresnahan called up the Congress and asked if any of us had seen Douglass. Phil had strayed off the reservation Bresnahan went down in the Loop combing the various resorts for his wandering boy. In trying to find Douglass Bresnahan got "lost" himself.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wilbert. "So Rajah thought he could handle Douglass, eh? Looks as if Phil was handling Bresnahan."

SOME of the fans raised inquiring eyebrows when they looked over Joe Cashman's selections in the major league baseball derbies, yesterday, and saw that the Boston Evening American's baseball expert picked both the Yankees and the Senators to finish ahead of the mighty Athletics in the American League.

Joe's reason for thinking the Athletics will fall from their lofty perch is that the Yankees are stronger than last year. The Senators, which were a great baseball club last season, also have been strengthened a little, and the Athletics are likely to be handicapped by a falling off in form by Connie Mack's big pitching ace.

Earnshaw and Grove, between them, last season, worked in almost 100 games. Their stalwart shoulders carried the pitching burden for the Mackmen. Earnshaw was pitching one of the last world's series. Grove during spring training looked as good as ever. Illness has held Earnshaw at Hot Springs and the big right hander will not report to the Athletics until the major league season opens.

Earnshaw suffered with acute indigestion last winter," says Cashman, "which was serious enough to cause him to lose almost 30 pounds. Connie Mack says that his star pitcher will be all right when the season opens. But I have talked with several responsible persons who have watched Earnshaw at Hot Springs and they tell me he looks very bad and that it may be months before he regains his best condition.

"Al Simmons, who has been at Hot Springs with Earnshaw, looks great and probably will be O. K. when the season opens. Al is troubled with rheumatism and Mack preferred to have him stay at Hot Springs and get his legs in shape rather than to bring him to Florida. Friends of mine who saw the two Mackmen at Hot Springs say Simmons is the picture of health while Earnshaw still looks like a real sick man.

"Unless Earnshaw is in the park and works regularly from the start of the season Mack's pitching greatly will suffer. It will take some great pitching to stop the Yankees and the Senators this season."

CAREY CLAIMS PRIMO UNDER CONTRACT

New York, April 7 (US)—William F. Carey says he has contracts which prohibit Primo Carnera from fighting for anyone but Madison Square Garden.

Leon See, the majority manager, says Mr. Carey is a wonderful American gentleman and a good scout and that he will stick to him through thick and thin and also medium. Especially now that Mr. Carey has appointed him the Garden's European representative.

Nevertheless and notwithstanding, it was learned on excellent authority that James J. Johnston has consulted his lithographer regarding a match between Carnera and Jack Sharkey, the leading American heavyweigh.

Contracts signed See and the Garden Corporation to the contrary, Johnston has received assurances that Carnera will be ready Wednesday night, June 10 provided he is reinstated by the New York commission in the meantime.

The match will be scheduled for 15 rounds.

Johnston's claim to the match consists of a contract signed by "Bill" Duffy, American representative of See and Carnera, who also signed the contract held by Madison Square Garden. Duffy contends that the Garden contract was broken when the Milk Fund withdrew from the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling match.

Duffy is prepared to go into court to force Carnera to fulfill his agreement with Johnston, according to the writer's informant. Duffy holds a power of attorney from both See and Carnera which he claims gives him supreme authority over their American activities.

Brundage Resigns From Chicago Body

Chicago, April 7 (AP)—Avery Brundage, president of the National Amateur Athletic Union and the Olympic committee, has resigned as vice chairman of the athletic committee of the Chicago Athletic Association as a protest against its recent withdrawal from national competition in sports.

Chance for Fans to See Babe Ruth Free

By THE LIMERICK EDITOR

There are two important facts for limerick fans to remember today.

One is that the closing time for answers to the first limerick must be in the hands of the editor not later than midnight tonight to be considered for a prize.

The other is that the fifth limerick, which will be for tickets to the American League opening between the Red Sox and New York Yankees at Fenway Park on April 22, will appear on these pages tomorrow.

The prize-winning No. 1 limerick will be selected tomorrow and the decisions announced on Thursday. The first prize winner will get four grandstand tickets to the opening game between the Braves and Brooklyn Robins at Braves Field a week from today, the second prize winner will get two grandstand seats to the same game, and each of those sending in the next six best answers will get one seat at the contest.

Tickets for Sox-Yanks Games Are New Prizes

Limericks on Thursday, Friday and Saturday for tickets to the second, third and fourth games of the Red Sox-Yankees series will bring the Boston Evening American's record breaking contest to a close.

The 96 tickets that will be awarded are all without an owner thus far, so get busy and win your share of them.

You are not limited to one answer. Send in as many as you want to each test.

But hurry if you want to contest for tickets to next Tuesday's opening battle as there are only a few hours left to get your contributions in.

Address your letters to the Limerick Editor, Boston Evening American, Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass.

And don't forget, if you prefer writing a complete limerick about any of the Braves, Red Sox, Yankees or Robins to filling in the last lines of those appearing in the paper it is perfectly o. k. Your efforts will receive every consideration and you will stand as good a chance of winning as the next one.

The contest is open to every man, woman and child in New England, with the exception of employes of the Boston Evening American, their families and relatives.

B. U. SQUAD IS CUT DOWN TO 24

With the Harvard game called off, Coach Joe Gilmore of the Boston University baseball team put his men through a short session yesterday afternoon in preparation for the Brown encounter at Providence, Saturday.

The game with the Crimson may be played off later depending on whether or not a satisfactory date for both teams can be found.

Gilmore has cut his squad down to 24 men and it will probably compose the Terriers' full strength for the remainder of the season. He has good first string material, and if his pitchers come through the team should enjoy its best season.

Georgetown Univ. Alumni to Meet

Georgetown University alumni of New England will hold their annual gathering Saturday night in the main ballroom of the Copley-Plaza Hotel. Several hundred graduates of the Washington Institution will attend.

Congressman William P. Connery of Lynn, a member of the class of 1915, will act as toastmaster, and a speaker of national prominence to be announced later will address the men.

DEVENS TO FACE HUSKY NINE

Harvard will again attempt to open its 1931 baseball season when it meets the Northeastern nine at Soldiers Field, tomorrow afternoon.

The baseball game between Harvard and Boston University, slated for last Saturday and cancelled because of wet grounds, will be played some time during the week after April vacation, it was announced at Cambridge last night. The definite date will be set later.

Rockne Used Magic of Gipp's Name to Win Great Victory

This is the fifth instalment of the thrilling and impressive life story of Knute Rockne, the world's most famous football coach, who was killed in an airplane crash. It is written by Warren Brown, well known sports writer of the Chicago Herald-Examiner and lifelong personal friend of Rockne. Mr. Brown's interesting narrative will continue daily until he has unfolded his brilliant portrayal of Rockne and his achievements.

CHAPTER FIVE

By WARREN BROWN

(Copyright, 1931, Chicago Herald and Examiner. Distributed by Universal Service.)

It is a curious fact that Knute Rockne's rise to the position of head football coach at Notre Dame was more or less simultaneous with the appearance on Cartier Field of the player who lives in the university's football history as its greatest player.

George Gipp was the man.

In this connection, I am going to digress for a moment, to take up the answer to a storm of comment that followed a radio interview between Rockne, Mark Kelly of the Los Angeles "Examiner" and myself on the night before the last Notre Dame-Southern California game.

Rockne then was asked about the backfield, if, given his choice from all time, he would have liked best to coach.

He named his quartet as Jim Thorpe, of Carlisle; Ernie Nevers, of Stanford; Morley Drury, of Southern California, and Elmer Oliphant, of Purdue and Army.

What about Gipp?

I'm still trying to sidestep that question, and I know Kelly is. I have no answer that may satisfy all askers.

Rockne's choice may have come from the fact that the questions and answers were not prepared in advance, but were fired at him "cold."

He may have interpreted the question as meaning players that he had never had a chance to coach, and that, of course, would eliminate Gipp. Or again, he may have based his answer on the words "liked to coach."

Gipp, great player that he was, must have been a problem to Rockne. In fact, it is safe to say that he overshadowed the young coach, and that is more a compli-

13 LOCAL BOYS WIN IN JUNIOR NATIONALS

PACINO STAR IN TRIAL BOUTS

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

Ten Massachusetts youngsters fought their way through the trial rounds of the junior national amateur championships at the Arena last night and three others, aided by the luck of the draw, moved up to the semifinal round.

Madden Knocks Out Guthrou in Two Rounds

Madden knocked out Leo Guthrou of New Scotia in two rounds, while McNamara won the decision over Carl Meyers, New York.

Jimmy Linehan, aggressive Newton southpaw, put over one of the surprises of the tournament by punching out a well-earned victory to eliminate the remaining member of the fighting Zivics of Pittsburgh, when he defeated Eddie in three rounds of a second-round trial bout in the 135-pound class.

24 Bouts Are Carded for Tonight

There will be 24 bouts contested tonight in the semifinal and final rounds before the titles are won.

Evans Would Refuse Job as A. L. Head

Cleveland, O., April 7—William G. (Billy) Evans, former umpire and now general manager of the Cleveland American League Baseball Club will refuse to be a candidate for the league presidency, left vacant by the death of Ernest S. Barnard of Cleveland two days ago.

Evans issued a formal statement saying he is not a candidate for the presidency and that he will remain as general manager of the local club.

Evans said he "keenly appreciates the consideration given me by the American League magnates and the press in connection with the matter."

PRIZED GIPP MEMENTO

GIPP WAS HERO IN EYES OF ROCKNE

Team Play First

It is significant that no Notre Dame football team since has ever attained the ability of an individual regardless of what current critics might have had to say on the subject.

The 1924 team glorified not one individual, but the foursome, Harry Stuhldreher, Jimmy Crowley, Don Miller and Elmer Layden, who will be remembered as the "Four Horsemen of Notre Dame" as long as football is played. As an afterthought, someone at the time, put in a few words—by camparison—about the "Seven Mules" of that 1924 team.

The 1929 team was a balanced organization. Much as the actions and Jack Cannon, Notre Dame's all American guard of that year thrilled his followers, as often as not there came a reminder of Ted Twomey beside him in the line. It was impossible to pick out Frank Carideo, Jack Elder, Marty Brill or Larry Mullins, and say:

There was a team that was a team, in every sense of the word, and it played accordingly.

Rockne characterized it as the best spirited organization he ever coached. By that he meant that the players pulled together, on the field and off. They were all friends. They were all pals.

Being a line, superbly coached by "Hunk" Anderson, functioned as a unit. There were no heroes. Rather, perhaps, one should say that were all of heroic mold, for, as each Saturday of the season came on, it seemed as if some new figure sprung out of the eleven and rose to spectacular heights with the other 10, and any substitutes they might have had, working in unison to make his rise the more spectacular.

1930 Team Was Ideal

It was not considered good tact by Rockne for him to stress the greatness of this 1930 team while it was still playing or while any of its members had some competition left.

Privately he has admitted that it was his ideal team.

It represented then, among the Notre Dame teams, what Gipp represents among the Notre Dame players.

It had been Rockne's habit to dedicate a game, especially when some psychological urge seemed necessary, to some one of the Notre Dame players, past or present.

In the first chapter of this series I mentioned Rockne's talk with his players between the Army and Northwestern game, and the effect it had on them in the second half. The subject of that talk was unknown to me, until this writing.

"I can tell you what Rock talked to those boys about, between halves," he said. "Rock told me, just a few weeks ago, when I happened to ask him the same question.

"They played that last half for George Gipp!"

What sort of a man then, was this Gipp?

The Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C.S.C., president of Notre Dame University, tells a story of Gipp's last game against the Army, and because there is no finer tribute, because there is no nearer comparable with Father O'Donnell in the telling of this story, I take the liberty of quoting him:

"I saw Gipp play his last game against the Army," relates Father O'Donnell, "and was on the bench when in the last quarter he was relieved from play, limping off the field exhausted and depleted of every ounce of strength, all of which he had given for that impossible dream of love and loyalty which makes up a college man's devotion to his school and his fellows — actually dying, though we knew it not, for already in his system was working that insidious poison which was less than a month later to bring him to the grave.

"He had done everything that any football player had ever done upon a field and he had done it better than most. Darkness was coming in on the bitter winds that swept across the plains as he sat there in his blanket, relaxed, pale, silent, crying a little, I think.

Gipp Forgot Self

"Then suddenly he was on his feet; he leaped to his feet; the blanket had fallen from his shoulders.

"Chet Wynne, our fullback, had made one of those sudden, amazing cuts through the line, good for some 15 or 20 yards. In a voice that could be heard, it seemed to me, above all the roar of the crowd, Gipp shouted: 'Yes, Chet!' as he stood there, self-entirely forgotten, quivering from head to foot with joy and loyal pride in that achievement of his teammate.'

That was Gipp.

Of his playing, and some of his achievements, more will be related in a succeeding chapter. He was not temperamental, as so many star athletes are.

He would never do anything more than he thought necessary to do, and had the saving grace of being able not only to tell what was necessary, but possessed the ability to do it.

"If you could get Gipp's interest aroused," Rockne often said, "there was no telling what heights he would reach.

"But," he always added, "getting his interest aroused was the trick!"

"You couldn't get him to exert himself any more than he had to," Rockne said, "and if the games in which he played had happened to go Notre Dame's way, without much of a struggle, I doubt if Gipp would ever have been considered more than an average good football player.

"But let the game threaten to get away from him, and there was no stopping Gipp. He played like a man possessed, and he played until he had expended every ounce of his great reserve power, if the situation warranted. Such an exhibition was the one he gave in the Army game of 1920."

Gipp, Baseball Star

"It seemed to me," Rockne had said, "that anything Gipp made up his mind to do, he could do, and do better than anyone else.

"It wasn't necessary for him to have background or much preliminary work in any sport to get the hang of it. You did not have to tell him more than once what was the thing to do before he was doing it correctly. More often than not he did the correct thing as if instinctively."

But first Rockne always insisted, Gipp had to have a liking for whatever endeavor in which anyone attempted to interest him.

In that respect, he was not unlike Rockne.

You simply could not interest Rockne in basketball, a sport that has certainly established its following.

"Nobody in that game has a sense of humor," Rockne would sneer. "They got me to talk at a basketball banquet once, and I was expected to tell some funny stories. The only one I could think about was that one of the basketball which blew up and injured a lot of people. Do you know that basketball coaches were following me around for days afterwards, asking me what there was funny about that."

Jinx Number "13" Holds No Terrors for Shores

Philadelphia, April 7—The Athletics will wear large identification numerals on their backs this season when playing away from home. The A's will be thus designated under a recent league rule on the road, but at home the numerals will be missing.

Pitcher Bill Shores asked for No. 13, and there was no opposition. He occupies Berth No. 13 whenever possible on the road.

Under the A's system Cochrane will be No. 2, Foxx 5, and thus around the infield and outfield, ending with No. 8. The pitchers will rate from No. 16 up.

MR. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

Jack Sharkey, the American heavyweight champion, was being rubbed down by Barney Fox following a workout at Jim Toland's gym when Mr. Boston stepped into his dressing room.

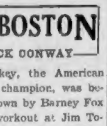
"I scaled 203 pounds when I finished up," replied Sharkey. "I was 207 when I started. Three pounds of bag punching and some rope skipping took off four pounds. By the end of the week I'll be under 200 and close to my best fighting notch.



Mr. Boston

"I will then take a layoff. By the early part of May I'll be ready to start training for Carnera.

"I also did road work this morning. Road work improves my wind. This is why I don't tire easily in the ring."

"I am careful as to what I eat. I don't overtax my stomach with food. I eat a fairly good sized breakfast and then don't eat again until 5:30, when I have dinner. I avoid fattening foods as I realize that if I were to put on a lot of weight it would shorten my career as a boxer.

"My system is also charged with nervous energy. I keep moving around a great deal even when I'm in my own home. I just don't give fat an opportunity to pile on."

Sharkey Plans 4 Ring Bouts During Summer

"What are your plans in regard to boxing?" pressed Mr. Boston.

Sharkey sat up on his rubbing table. His eyes flashed, and he looked like the Sharkey of old, the dashing, crashing fighter who licked Godfrey. Willis, McTigue, Maloney and who almost stopped Dempsey in a round.

"I get a kick out of getting into the gym," replied Sharkey. "I have told Johnny Buckley to keep me as busy as possible during the coming summer. I want to fight four times. Carnera, Loughran, Walker and Griffiths are the men I'm anxious to meet."

"What do you think of these opponents?" went on Mr. Boston.

"They're all good," answered Sharkey. "But that doesn't make any difference. I've decided to end my fights as quickly as possible in the future. I want to knock all four men out, and inside of five rounds each. I am apt to fight in the future as I did when I belted out Loughran.

"I could have knocked out Schmeling in the third round if I had opened up. I had him groggy, but decided to cut him down gradually. If in the same spot again I'll flatten Max."

Sharkey laughed good-naturedly.

"Why, he hasn't hit me yet," he responded.

"I don't think he wishes to try, either," chirped Mr. Boston.

"Drop in the latter part of the week and you'll find me near fighting form," said Sharkey as Mr. Boston went on his way.

Maloney and Walker Bout for Detroit

"I hear," declared Mr. Boston, "that Mickey Walker and Jim Maloney are going to battle in an open air show in Detroit.

"King Levinsky has been signed to meet Johnny Risko for the Argonne Club on April 21.

"Jake Zeramby will swing into action against Sonny Suggs at Salem a week from Monday night.

"Eddie Logan takes on Ben Jeby at the St. Nicholas Rink, New York on Friday night.

Vacca Floors Foe Twice, but Loses

Holyoke, April 7—Johnny Vacca of Boston floored Pete De Grasse, New York featherweight, twice in the Valley Arena's feature 10-round bout, but came back to win the decision in the second round.

150 OUT FOR TRACK AT HARVARD

With the exception of Capt. Vernon Munroe, who is still recovering from a torn tendon, the Crimson had every runner working out in togs, yesterday afternoon.

N. Penrose Hallowell of Readville, who has been out of competition since last fall, has completely recovered from his injuries and should be at the peak of condition for the Penn relay carnival. Warren Rowe, a fine broad-jumper and half-miler, is also expected to be ready for the Penn games.

Coach Eddie Farrell is as yet undecided as to what events Harvard will enter at the Penn carnival. With Hallowell, Dave Cobb, Richard Wesley and Joe Forbes, all fine milers, available, Farrell may elect to start a team in the four-mile race, but with the meet coming as early as it does, it is more likely that he will enter a two-mile quartet.

When Harvard is able to place its full strength on the cinders, the Crimson should be able to hold its own with any college group in the country in a dual meet and should make a strong bid for the intercollegiate title.

Star Veterans Out for Team

Harvard retains much of its strength from last year. Eugene Record, Penrose Hallowell, Oscar Sutermeister and George Kuehn, all numbered on the present Cantabrigian roster, scored a total of 30½ points in last year's intercollegiate meet.

In addition, the Crimson now has two fine sprinters in Jack Hawes and Arthur Watkins, who placed second and third, respectively, in the indoor intercollegiate 70-yard dash; Vernon Munroe, who was unable to run in the intercollegiates last year; Ray Ecrus, who placed in the indoor intercollegiate mile, and a host of athletes who have been coming along extremely fast.

Following the Penn relays, which come on April 17 and 18, the Crimson will compete in the Greater Boston intercollegiates at the Harvard Stadium on May 2 and 3.

Move to Abolish 150-Pound Teams at Harvard

The Harvard Student Council report on minor athletics, which was issued, recommends that the present class, 150 pound, and fraternity sports teams be abolished in favor of the 150-pound crew, be abolished in favor of the interhouse athletics plan which functioned during the fall when the seven houses are on operation.

The report states that the plan of interhouse athletics promises a more satisfactory solution of the "athletics for all" plan at Harvard.

Under the house plan it is expected that more men will compete, and will indulge in a larger number of sports.

Another feature of the report is the recommendation that competition between the house unit teams and the freshman teams be established. In this way it is hoped that a closer contact, between freshman and upper class teams, will be established.

Helene Madison Sets New Swim Mark

Minneapolis, April 6 (AP)—Helene Madison, 17 years old, Seattle swimmer, set one new world's swimming record and aided in establishing another at the Minneapolis Athletic Club tonight.

She streaked 50 yards through the water in 27.3 to better by 2-10 of a second the mark held by Eilleen Lackie, and then helped create a new figure in the 400-yard relay.

Metcalf Turns Down Syracuse Offer

Ames, Ia., April 7 (AP)—T. N. Metcalf, director of athletics at Iowa State College, who has been offered a similar position at Syracuse University, said today that he had declined any offer by that would take him away from Iowa State.

Metcalf is president of the Association of Physical Directors of the United States and secretary of the Big Six Athletic Conference.

New Sunday Sports Law Inoperative Until July 5

Gov. Ely signed the new Sunday afternoon baseball bill yesterday. Sunday sports will be legal between the hours of 1:30 and 6:30 on Sunday afternoons. The present statute restricts the participation between 2 and 6 o'clock.

The bill does not go into effect for 90 days and must be accepted by the city councils and boards of aldermen in the cities and towns in which Sunday sports now are legalized.

The 90-day restriction means that the new hours cannot become effective for Braves or Red Sox games before July 5—and then only if the city council accepts the bill in the interim.

By that time, the Boston big league teams will have used up 10 Sunday baseball dates.

Lutze to Face Wagner in Semi-Final

By RINGSIDE

Paul Bowser today announced the supporting card for the finish wrestling bout between Count Zarynoff and Fat McGill, which will be staged at the Arena on Thursday night.

In addition to the semi-final, which will bring together Nick Lutze and Jack Wagner, Bowser has signed Jack Spellman of Brown to clash with Jose Dominguez, Spanish heavyweight.

Dan Koloff will be sent against Farmer George McLeod, while Al Morelli, Boston College athlete, will take on Sam Skorsky. Kewpie Kilroy will collide with Joe Shimkus.

Bowser will also show Billy Carmichael, a graduate of the Boston High School of Commerce, Dean Academy and William and Mary. He will oppose Tony Gusc, Greek wrestler.

Carmichael is six feet one inch tall and weighs 212 pounds.

Dick Daviscourt in Line for Bout With Londos

Rudy Dusek of Little Rock, Ark., has been signed to take on Hans Steinke, German Oak, in a 30-minute contest.

DEMPSEY ILL; MUST TAKE LONG REST

Columbus, O., April 7—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, has been ordered into absolute retirement from public life for at least two months by his physicians at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn.

Dempsey's decision necessitates the cancelling of more than 95 engagements to referee boxing bouts in all sections of the country. He will referee tonight at Wheeling, W. Va., and after that will retire.

Nervous condition and a persistent loss of weight makes necessary the rest, according to Drs. D. M. Berman and Louis A. Buie of the Mayo clinic, who examined the former champion a few days ago.

Although Dempsey appears in perfect health, he admitted he does not feel well and that the difficult routine of one-night stands, which he has been pursuing as a referee of boxing and wrestling contests, is the most trying work as he has ever experienced.

"I will go to the country for at least two months longer, if necessary," said Dempsey. "There is nothing seriously wrong with me but I intend to follow the doctors' orders."

The doctors' report characterized Dempsey's illness as a "nervous condition, irritable, sleepless and very restless," and warned the former champion if he continued he was facing a "state of complete nervous exhaustion."

LES CANADIENS BACK HOME

Montreal, Que., April 7 (AP)—Bruised and battered though they are, the Canadiens were back home today in a fighting frame of mind and determined to retain the hold on the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world's professional hockey championship.

The Chicago Black Hawks, with whom they broke even in two fiercely contested tilts at Chicago, will be scheduled to arrive today. Both teams will take it easy preparatory to resuming the five-game series here tomorrow night.

In contrast to the crippled condition of the Canadiens, their rivals for the trophy came out of the first two matches in fine shape and will be able to throw their full strength on the ice Thursday night.

On their arrival last night members of Les Canadiens expressed doubt that three of their number would be available for the next game.

You Should Have a Good Head of Hair

Nature provided your scalp and all other persons' scalps with the necessary structure to grow hair and keep it growing. Some specific scalp disorder such as dandruff, falling hair, or itching scalp has made it impossible for this hair-growing structure to function properly. The result has been thin hair or even complete baldness.

Thomas can overcome your scalp trouble and restore your scalp to a normal hair-growing condition. Sixteen years of successful application and thousands of satisfied clients prove the merit of this scientific treatment. Call at a Thomas office today for a free scalp examination. You, too, can have a good head of hair.

By BILL GRIMES

Before another record-breaking crowd, the Bruin Cubs and the Springfield Indians will engage in their sixth battle for the Henri Fontaine cup tonight at the Boston Garden.

Almost ever night, the Cubs have become a tremendous attraction. For four and a half seasons they were fortunate if they drew a corporal's guard. Now the fans are carrying their standards with the same enthusiasm they have supported the Bruins. Even the spectators have turned their attentions to the Cubs, which is the true indication that they are a real box office attraction.

Since early yesterday morning the fans have been trekking to the Garden for tickets for tonight's game. According to General Manager Eddie Dunn, the record of 15,500 established last week will go by the boards tonight and, in all probability, the Cubs and Indians will fight it out before a capacity house.

Cubs Can Win Title by Victory Tonight

After five encounters, two of which were called with the clubs deadlocked, the Bruin Cubs have a two-to-one edge over the Indians in the Canadian-American League title. A victory will give the Cubs the Fontaine Cup and a defeat will necessitate the teams returning to Springfield for the seventh game.

The Cubs-Indian series is the most thrilling in the annals of hockey, either major or minor league. They have played 450 minutes and set up a record for the longest game ever played, 160 minutes, and the fifth game went 110 minutes.

The teams are very evenly matched. The Indians were without the services of Earl Seibert, who is one of their main cogs for two games but the clever defense man is back on the job and Springfield will offer a stubborn defense to the Cubs to break through tonight.

The Cubs are 10 to 8 favorites to wind up victorious tonight. They have not lost a game on their home ice during the championship play offs. They are at top strength as are with the support of the thousands of fans who will be on hand, they expect to eliminate the Indians and annex their second Fontaine Cup.

Bitter Feeling Between Cubs and Indians

Although there never has been any love lost between Boston and Springfield in Can-Am competition, an extremely bitter feeling has developed during the present series. The Klein-Seibert incident in Springfield almost developed a riot.

During the fifth game last Saturday night, the fans jeered Klein every time the Cub appeared on the ice and he was a marked man for the Indians, who did not pass up an opportunity to give him the "business."

Klein was so busy watching his opponents and the fans that he was unable to give his best efforts to the cause.

Paul Runge, who is the most peaceful player on the Cubs' roster, entered into a fist fight with Ott Heller on Saturday and in all probability there will be many more feuds crop out this evening.

Manager Eddie Powers will open with Yank Boyd and Deed Klein flanking Eddie Burke, and the Cubs's starting front line will be composed by Obs Heximer, Deacon Waite and Dutch Heller. Bert Grant will have Jack Pratt and Yip Foster for his outer defense, while Alfie Moore will be protected by Patsey Callighen and Karl Seibert.

Most of the Bruins have waited over for the deciding game of the Can.-Am. series and they will be on hand this evening cheering for the jeyvees.

W. G. A. Trials to Be Held on Monday

Trials for places on the district teams of the Women's Golf Association will be held next Monday, according to T. N. Wales, secretary of the association. Courses where the trials are to be held be designated by the district captains.

RISKO SCORES WIN OVER HEENEY

Toronto, April 7—Johnny Risko turned the tables on Tom Heeney, New Zealand heavyweight, declsively pointing him in a 10-round bout here.

Risko won by his attack in the closing rounds after being outweighed by nearly 20 pounds. Risko started cautiously and, as Heeney was just as careful, the first three rounds were dull. Heeney took the upper hand in the fourth and fifth with blows to the head and body and had Risko holding on.

In the sixth, however, Risko suddenly came to life and had the best of it the remainder of the bout. He staggered Heeney with a hard right in the sixth and had the Hard Rock missing continuously at the last. The three judges voted unanimously for Risko.

GEORGE DUNLOP LEADS AMATEUR TOURNEY

Pinehurst, N. C., April 7 (AP)—George T. Dunlap, Jr., intercollegiate titleholder, today added a 73 to his 72 of yesterday for a 145 total in the 36 holes of qualifying play of the North and South amateur golf tournament.

E. W. Wilbur, Fitchburg, Mass., 90—99—188.

W. P. Warner, Pine Orchard, Ct., 93—91—184.

RECORDS SET IN BOYS' CLUB TOURNEY

The Attleboro Cubs set up a new team record of 73 points while holding Fulton All-Stars to 14 points in the annual amateur basketball tournament of the Boys' Club of Boston at the Eben Jordan gymnasium last night. Attleboro also established a record for individual scoring, which promises to stand throughout the tournament, when he netted 18 baskets for 36 points.

The Medford high school basketball team of the past season, playing under the banner of the St. Joseph intermediates, swamped St. Catherine's of Somerville, 49 to 5.

Potter of the Lexington Minute Boys came within five points and three baskets of equalling Kelly's feat when his team swamped Waltham Commercial, 60 to 17.

The Roxbury Tigers made another record for tournament competition when it held the Ellis Memorial Falcons scoreless from the floor in running up a score of 33 points to one foe for the losers.

Chelsea Phantoms nosed out Arlington Nightmares, 18 to 15, in the last game of the night, in the senior division, which required an overtime period.

Braves Will Surprise League, Says Street

Atlanta, Ga., April 7 (AP)—Gabby Street, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, put the boys on notice today that the Boston Braves would bear watching this season.

Street, here with his team for an exhibition game today with Atlanta of the Southern Association, says Boston "will cause a lot of good teams to lose more games than they well can spare."

Bill McKechnie, one of the greatest managers in the game, Gabby said. "He can get the most out of a team, and he has plenty of good material this year. They may even finish above the .500 mark."

Collegiates Hold to Sacrifice Fly

New York, April 7 (AP)—Professional baseball players who are beginning to master the method of sacrifice fly have found an ally in the governing board of the Eastern Intercollegiate League.

Officials of the college circuit, which includes Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Cornell and Dartmouth, have voted to credit the batter with a sacrifice when he makes a meal from third on a fly to the outfield.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

The reason I want you to keep your right elbow in close as you start your back swing—whether for a short pitch or run or for any long shot as well—is so you can keep the right hand from doing too much work in your forward swing—that is, too much work of a wrong kind. "Too much right" means not enough left, yet there can easily be too much right and doubtless will be unless you suppress this hand at the outset that it keeps to its place. In the initial withdrawal of the club the right hand turns back, without reaching out, so that the palm would face at just about direct right of the line of the flight. Now at the same time your left arm has swept across close to your body, so we have the left palm facing directly opposite from the right palm. For a short pitch or run this position is sufficient for back swing. You need only give yourself time for an easy, smooth turn and return of the club through the ball. No hit will be required. If you have in mind to hit, you produce at once the turn too quickly. Take time.

HELEN'S HUBBY BARRED AT GATE

San Francisco, April 7 (AP)—Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, tennis star, had no difficulty in getting free admission here today at the gate of the exhibition indoor match between William T. Tilden and Karel Kozeluh, but her husband, Frederick Moody, didn't fare so well for a while.

Ed Lynch, promoter of the match, denied that there had been arguments at the gate, but said there had been "a little misunderstanding."

"A request for passes by Mrs. Moody and her party had been sent in, but William O'Brien, one of Tilden's managers, said 'No passes.' When Mrs. Moody arrived she was admitted at once, but the doorman kept her husband outside for a while. As soon as Kozeluh heard about it he took care of him right away."

Wisedon Winner of Welsh Race Classic

Cardiff, Wales, April 7 (AP)—Wisedon, belonging to Miss M. Lark, today won the Welsh Grand National Steeplechase, leading 13 foreign-built and home-bred horses over the three and a half mile course.

Capt. J. W. Bridges' Vinicole was second and R. E. Morel's Quite Calm third.

Wisedon and Vinicole both were at 100 to 8 and Quite Calm was at 100 to 6.

Matt Winn Re-elected Pres. of Turf Ass'n

Chicago, April 7 (AP)—Col. Matt Winn again is to head the American Turf Association which controls the Washington Park and Lincoln Fields race tracks at Chicago, and Latonia and Churchill Downs in Kentucky.

Winn was re-elected last night.

MYSTERIOUS WAYE

By PERCIVAL CHRISTOPHER WREN

SYNOPSIS: John Waye tells Dr. Charters that he will stay in the latter's nursing home until the hanging of the man whose name Waye has signed to a confession he placed beside the murdered "Spider" Schlitz. His cloak or respectability menaced by the intruder's knowledge of his criminal record, Charters has been compelled to admit him to this safe retreat. Here Waye gives to the evil Dr. MacAdoo a hint that Charters is to receive $10,000 and Lauderdell case. After Charters learns through the incensed MacAdoo of this information, he tells MacAdoo that the deal is off and that Marjorie Lauderdell, whose illness had been growing worse, is recovering. Informed by MacAdoo, Mr. James, Charters' associate, demands that Charters explain why he apparently had been "playing his own game" in the Lauderdell case.

CHAPTER 19

"A SCRAP OF PAPER"

Dr. Charters looked at a moment and scrutinized the menacing face of Mr. James before he resumed.

"An old friend of mine"—he began—"Maudie Lauderell nowadays, who doesn't know a lot about anything in fact, I worked with her once—saw a clear chance of big money, and came to me as the right man . . . trustworthy, sagacious and with the ideal qualities for the job. I fell for it at once . . . an absolutely safe job. Now, does it occur to you that I would risk this nice safe 10,000 pound job was all the safer for the fact that not a soul in the world could possibly know that it was a job?"

"The idea had come into Maud's brain, and Maud had got it to mine with a wink in a horse Ed's mind's eye blind. Why, she didn't even mention the fee in words . . .

Trust Each

"Do you see any good reason why I should about about it to MacAdoo and Fanny, and Louis and you? Not that I suggest any member of our splendid team would ever be careless, but accidents happen in the best regulated families. A remark overheard—and then two and two put together and—the fives and fours then the fat's in the fire.

"Of course, I'll tell each one of you as I trust myself, but if six people know a thing, there's twice as much chance of there being an accident as there is if only two know it . . .

"And," continued Dr. Charters, "might I now ask how you presume to think you know that the 10,000 wasn't going into the pool?"

"Oh?" sneered Mr. James. "Oh? Then how was 5000 of it going into Mannel's pouch, as soon as he got wise to the game? All going into the pool! . . . Like hell it was."

"Can the funny stuff and answer a plain question," growled Mr. James. "Where did I come in, if Mannel was to go fifty-fifty, because he thought you out?"

"Do you want to sit there and tell me you think I'd reward him with 5000 pounds? Like hell I would."

"You've said it," smiled the Doctor.

"Oh! And where does all this lovely trust and fair-play come in, then?"

Our Game

"Jimmy, you make me tired. Once again, who's running this outfit, you or I? If Mancel's fool enough to butt-in on my game . . . our game . . . am I not free to put him off how I like? What's biting you? You don't want to start something we two aren't at war over, and over this infernal Waye. That man'll succeed in breaking this firm up, if we aren't careful—especially with you helping him by playing his game of sowing suspicion among . . .

"Playing the game!" exclaimed Mr. James indignantly. "What about you playing his game by letting him come here, threaten us, fool us, rob us, and get away with it . . .

"But you don't pull wool over my eyes like that . . . Say, now, suppose all that bunk—about meaning to post the 10,000 is true, how'd you propose you cut it right out because Waye put Mancel wise? . . ."

Bump Him!

"Can't you see that that's the most disturbing and frightening thing in the whole world for us?"

The Doctor, with outstretched fingers pointed at the face of his young colleague.

"Get this, James. And then try to realize what it means. Waye's never in his life set eyes on Maud. Not a living human being except her and me had the glimmering of an idea of this Lauderdell scheme. It only existed in her brain and mine . . . And what follows: Mr. Mysterious Waye drops in on Mannel, and not only sells him the plot, but mentions to a exact sum that I'm to get! . . .

"God bless my sinful soul," he concluded explosively, "I begin to think the man's from Scotland Yard—or else the Archangel Gabriel."

"Bump him off, I say," growled Mr. James.

"It would do us a lot of good, wouldn't it, if a detective from Scotland Yard disappeared here. Better for us if it was the Archangel. Less likely to be missed."

"Put me wise on the whole story anyway," continued Mr. James. "What's the Maud female got, that she can ,dip for $50,000?"

"Maudie—Maud ropes a steer called Lauderdell. Not much to him except that he's going to be something Lauderdell when the old guy dies. Maud's sick of the racket and wants to retire on the money—among the London Four Hundred.

"But there's not more money than will keep up the old Tudor place. Then what does Maud find?"

"Lauderdell's brother has died and left Lauderdell this girl Marjorie for keeps and a 100,000 pounds. Marjorie can't touch this until she comes of age. If she dies before she's 21, Brother Lauderdell scoops it."

"And if she marries?"

She's Worried

"What a wicked will," observed Mr. James indignantly. "Didn't the old boy love the poor girl to live to be 21?"

Dr. Charters smiled.

"Well, you see, he trusted Brother Lauderdell . . . and rightly. There isn't enough money in the world to make him hurt a hair of the girl's head.

"Soon Maud comes to see me. She's worried about the husband's niece, who lives with them. Such a lovely girl . . . so rich, if she lives to be 21, and not free to set her health failing like this. And mind you, Maud might have said it to sic Bernard Shaw on me like she said it to me. Well, as Maud describes the symptoms, the illness sound like recurring attacks of acute pain. And so they are.

"Maud and Lauderdell bring her round, I put her in Mancel's care for special treatment. She's to be the one case we lose, after decades of cures. That's all Mancel knows—that she's to get a quite complete and final cure for all her aches and pains.

"Second or third time Maud and Lauderdell come Maudie reminds me casually that it would be if the poor child died within a few weeks of her birthday when she would come into a 100,000 pounds—And I tell you, Jimmy, talked as though reporters were in the house."

"Anyhow she offered you 10,000 pounds in plain English, I suppose?"

"No. Nothing was said that Scotland Yard mightn't have listened to. She took a cheque book and wrote the sum in figures. She passed it to me, and, with the same pen, I wrote 'Void' and had a made a solid contract, therefore our word to each other is ten times as good as our bond."

In Waste Basket

"I chucked it in the waste-paper basket."

"You chucked it in the waste-paper basket. And, you blasted fool, that's how Waye got the . . .

"What would a little piece of paper with five figures on it tell him, you clever Jimmy?" interrupted the Doctor.

"Then how did he get to know?" he asked.

"You tell me that, and you shall have the whole 10,000 for your trouble, Jimmy."

"I am. It's far too dangerous while Waye is here. No, I'm not going to lose out now—now that I've made good. Not for 10,000 pounds—nor for a million. I'm never going back to the crooks life, Jimmy—now I'm out of it and safe."

"You're losing your nerve."

"Better than losing my life. I've had a rope around my neck once, Jimmy!"

A Plea for Economic Progress

The Peril of Wage-Cutting

By advocating wage cuts, misguided bankers and industrial employers are perhaps unwittingly delaying natural tendencies toward business recovery.

The American Federation of Labor is right in deploring the whispering campaign against wages at this very time when business is seemingly nearing the end of the broad valley of depression prior to a near term decisive upswing.

As a matter of fact, the records plainly show that in the past business recovery after major depressions in the United States has always taken place before wages declined to the same extent as commodity prices.

According to data compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board, average weekly earnings of workers are now 20 per cent lower than in July, 1929. However, only 3 per cent of the recession is the direct result of cutting hourly wage rates, and in February there were fewer wage cuts than in January. The larger drop is ascribable to rotation of workers on part-time schedules.

OBVIOUSLY, THE GOAL SHOULD BE TO PROMOTE ECONOMIC BALANCE THROUGH GIVING WORKERS THE CONFIDENCE AND THE WHEREWITHAL TO MAKE PURCHASES.

President Hoover effected a truce between capital and labor at the White House conference in November, 1929. Organized labor agreed to suspend strikes and agitation, and employers undertook to maintain wage rates.

Any concerted campaign to back down on this gentlemen's agreement will delay recovery. Advocacy of changed wage standards will tend only to create fresh uncertainties which will nullify the growing impulses for greater venturesomeness on the part of executives.

No seeming temporary advantage should swerve American employers from adhering to a program of encouraging a high and rising standard of living.

THE HOPE FOR AMERICAN BUSINESS PROFITS LIES IN CULTIVATING THE RICH HOME MARKET—NOT IN PAUPERIZING IT.

Trailing "Jury Fixers"

Foley Can Break Down Old Tradition

The presence of suspected jury fixers around our county courts, long whispered as a common affair, is admitted by District Attorney Foley in his reply to members of the last Garrett jury, who complained they were subjected to surveillance by spies during their service. In denying that he had subjected these jurors to a special watch, Mr. Foley asserted every person who was under suspicion as a jury fixer was watched.

It is well for the community that this suspicion of efforts to influence juries is being brought into the open. If Mr. Foley is able to break up the ring of supposed fixers and to bring to justice some of the reputed powerful ones who are alleged to be able to get "the right kind of a jury"—at a price, his terms as district attorney will be marked successful, whatever else he may have to be happy about.

A tradition that certain attorneys and certain politicians are potent in getting accused persons off, through tampering with juries or through getting their men on juries, needs tearing down if complete faith in our courts is to be restored.

As for Garrett, he will, of course, be tried again. The next jury might well ask, for its own comfort and peace of mind, that it be locked up in comfortable hotel quarters each night and over Sunday during the entire proceedings.

Feeding the Hungry

A Worthy Appeal

The Associated Jewish Philanthropies is seeking a minimum of $100,000 with which to replenish its unemployment relief fund, depleted by the demands of the past winter.

The campaign opens next Sunday evening with a rally at Temple Ohabei Shalom, in Brookline, to be followed on Monday by the first of the three days of general solicitation.

Albert W. Kaffenburgh as chairman of the drive committee has gathered about him an earnest and aggressive group of leaders, and the success of the campaign is assured so far as organization will take it.

Public co-operation is all that is lacking to carry the fund far beyond the minimum desired. Mr. Kaffenburgh points out that there are hundreds of families looking to the organization for food and housing during this emergency. It is hard to see how any person able to help can resist the appeal of hungry children. Only through the generosity of the public can these vital demands be met.

The campaign is a worthy one in every particular. The Boston Evening American asks for it the whole-hearted co operation of all who can help, whether the amount be large or small.

'Slimming' in London

By HELEN ROWLAND.

MORE THINGS that you may have suspected:

* * *

That in London they never speak of "reducing." They call it "slimming," which the salesgirl will tell you is much "more feminine" and delicate.

* * *

That many a wife who could keep her husband away from the corner saloon in the old days, cannot manage to keep him from sneaking out into the cocktail-kitchen half a dozen times an evening.

* * *

That mixing a little common sense with love is like mixing a little flour with corn-meal. It sort of holds it together and gives it staying power.

* * *

That this is the time of year when you have the urge to dose your husband with the usual spring tonic. But don't be surprised if it makes him forget his bald spots, his age, his rheumatism and his wedding vows.

* * *

That sophisticated women are using a special green face powder for evening which makes the heaviest, dullest skin look fair, smooth and luminous under the electric lights.

* * *

That we talk, think and write more about LOVE these days and know less about it than in any age since the world began.

* * *

That many an April bridegroom will find that it takes nearly all of the honeymoon to cure him of the headache, ennui and pessimism created by a show-wedding.

* * *

That, when a man begins to have that faraway look in his eyes while he's kissing you, what he probably sees is a new lovelight—in another woman's eyes.

* * *

That many a girl secretly thinks she ought to have married a millionaire when she can't even make a success of the half-portion she managed to get.

* * *

That most women suffer from a strange malady called "chintz-madness" at this time of year, brought on by the proximity of flowers. Rose-fever is nothing beside it.

* * *

That every man has his pet superstition. Some are afraid to walk under a ladder, some are afraid to walk on a spider, but most of them burst into a cold perspiration at the mere thought of walking toward the altar with a ring in the pocket.

Listen, World!: Going Back

By ELSIE ROBINSON

It Was Such a Little Hill

LAST SUNDAY I went back to the house where I had been a girl. I had not gone to it for 25 years. I did not think I could ever go there again.

An old house, deep in roses. A young girl, deep in dreams. And then — the dreams all going wrong. Twenty-five years of dreams going wrong. I did not think that I could ever go there again. But last Sunday it came to me, quite simply, that I must go back . . . that it was weak and wrong to be afraid to go back—

Elsie Robinson

So I went, but as if I were walking in a nightmare. I remembered how the house had stood on a high hill . . . and how hard the hill had been to climb. Looking back over th. years, the house seemed all surrounded by cruel, high hills. Hills of poverty and sickness, humiliation and despair. And a grave that lay like a bar across the door. How could I go back—climb those hills again, one by one, with bleeding feet . . . face that grave again, with a breaking heart? Yet, I couldn't go on respecting myself unless I did go back—

So I went back, through the morning. The wind was blowing, gentle as a breath—a child's happy breath that has never caught and snarled.

A bright morning, but my heart was dark as night. So dark, that I came upon the house on the hill before I realized it. And, then I looked, I could not believe my eyes. For 25 years I had thought of this moment with inexpressible longing and pain. And now, here I was—but surely this could not be the place . . . FOR IT WAS SUCH A LITTLE HILL!

How could it have tired me to climb this little hill? And where were those other shadowy hills which had mounted around it with the years—those hills of poverty and suffering, of humiliation and despair? They had seemed so real to me, those cruel crags. I had thought I could never be free from their shadow. But they were not here at all! There was only peace here. There stood the old home, warm and content, in the midst of the Spring morning. There was no barricade around it, no blight upon it . . . no grave across its sunny sill—

And the steep hill I had dreaded was only a little slope that but lifted me higher into the wide, sweet air.

And it came to me that for 25 years I had been dreading a dream . . . A DREAM THAT HAD NO REALITY. I had made real hills of sad experiences—but they had been shadows, weaving brief webs across the winding trail. And all the time I had been agonizing in my darkness, the old house and life had gone on together, strongly, serenely—with the Springtime coming, surely after every Winter rain.

And suddenly I saw that that is the way it is with us all. Fighting nightmares . . . Building shadows . . . Believing it all is real—

But some day, perhaps, we will come back—

We will come back . . . although people may not see us, even when we pass them closely—

We will come back and go strolling up and down the places where we'd lived a while . . . down the streets that seemed so narrow and so dark . . . up the hill that seemed so high and so cruel . . . to an old house where once we dreamed and wept—

And, smiling, we will say, "What fools we were to suffer so! See—it is such a little hill! And there is no grave . . . ONLY A SUNNY SLLL—"

Love Laughs at Bars

By WINIFRED BLACK.

"LOVE LAUGHS at locksmiths," so they say.

A certain young man, just 18 years old, to be exact, was locked up in jail to face a charge of resisting an officer, and turning the wrong way in the traffic and otherwise scandalizing the on-lookers, in a street parade.

Winifred Black

His sweetheart, also just 18 to be still exact, went and asked to see the prisoner.

The man in charge of the jail said, "No, indeed," and he said it quite harshly.

She did not.

Sweet Eighteen listened calmly when the fire chief said, "Not so you'd notice it," to her request.

"Come along, Darling," said Sweet Eighteen and Darling came along, in a hurry and without his hat.

Into a waiting motor car stepped the two gay young persons—and away they went as gay as you please.

When the firemen stopped hunting for the fire and came back home to the firehouse they found the cell door open and the prisoner gone.

Now, of course, this was all very reprehensible.

FEODOR CHALIAPIN AND HIS DAUGHTER, MARIA CHALIAPIN

If by any chance you have never seen and heard Feodor Chaliapin, friends can tell you that he is a great artist—as a singer and as an actor.

In his portrayal of Boris, he embodies the history and the power of Russia. And he has named his son Boris.

Those that admire him will be glad to know that in spite of the Russian revolution that swept away every dollar he had and his plan for a great musical institute in Russia, Chaliapin is a happy man.

In our "Miss America beauty contests" we allot about seventy-five per cent to the legs, twenty-three per cent to the general shape, two per cent to the forehead.

Two per cent isn't enough, because the important occupation of women is creating the human race, and in that work all depends on the brain, plus normal health, plus sincere affection.

A gentleman at a dinner the other night suddenly asked a waiter for a glass of water. Tasting it, he pushed it toward Frank Craven, sitting next to him. "Tastes funny," he explained to the actor, and inquired: "What's the matter with it?" Craven sipped it cautiously, "It's been cut!" he announced.

It had to come. The press agent for a coming sophisticated play solemnly promises that not a lady in the cast will chirp: "Have a little drinkie!"

She is one of those twinkle-toed dancers who flutters across the stage like thistledown in a gypsy wind. Tripping past the Palace the other afternoon she suddenly stumbled to her knees. As she arose with her face aflame, she snapped to the crowd of curb gawkers: "Drop around this time tomorrow and I'll do it for you mugs on a high wire." Broadway!

The most successful employer I know told me the other day: "I always tell young men starting out the most important thing in getting on is to use initiative. I would rather have 12 blunderers than one question asker."

Leo Marsh finds this supreme note of climatic confidence in the hereafter in a Maine paper: "Miss Ashton is in training for the next World's Skating Championship."

It has been interesting to watch six months of constant companionship between an eight year old Boston and a year old Sealyham. The Sealyham is always friendly and frolicsome but the Boston's attitude toward the newcomer is one only of tolerance.

He will never respond to playful advances and yet if a stranger tries to touch the Sealyham the Boston utters a snarling confidence. Amusin' critters, dogs!

I often wonder if others are somehow intrigued by peeking into delicatessen windows filled with cheese. To me there is something indefinably romantic about the green veined Gorgonzola, the ruddy Cheddar, fatly curved Dutch, Gruyere, Port-Salut, Stilton, Camembert and even the lowly Limburger. And there's a broccoli bouquet on ice for the first sloi, who refrains from cracking that like attracts like.
